NRA SPELL OVER, SLOAN TELLS HIS HOPE OF REVIVAL

Industry to Advance on Old Lines.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, declared last night that the spell of regimentation and a planned economy has been broken and that America has a future of "tremendous opportunities" under a system of free enterprise.

Addressing the Illinois Manufacturers' association, Mr. Sloan said the key to progress lies in the well-being of the American worker, that the industrial machine is not overexpanded, that a great unsatisfied demand for goods exists.

An Economic Monstrosity.

"Let us relegate to the museum of economic monstrosities the theory of scarcity as a factor in promoting industrial recovery," Mr. Sloan remarked.

The road to recovery, he argued, lies in taking full advantage of modern scientific and technological advance, thus cutting costs of goods and making greater buying, larger markets and more jobs.

Mr. Sloan advocated the old pioneer spirit and the urge to take a risk in something new, improved, different and better, as the thing to encourage as a route to revival. Such a spirit creates demand, more consumption, more jobs.

The occasion was the 37th annual banquet of the manufacturers' association at the Stevens hotel. It was attended by 1,500. B. F. Affleck was toastmaster.

A Plea for Free Enterprise.

"Today," said Mr. Sloan, "the magic possibilities of industrial regimentation and the so-called planned economy, no longer cast the spell of yesterday—that spell is broken. That is the most important thing that has happened.

"Men are becoming increasingly aware that the strongest instrumentality of revival and reconstruction is the existing system of free enterprise.

"In the development of that belief we are not turning to the left nor to the right—we are going forward—we are simply recognizing the only road we can possibly follow. The real problem is how much and in what way can the system of free enterprise, which has made America what it is today, be stimulated and how at the same time can the recognized errors and deficiencies be compensated, thus bringing all into a harmonious whole."

Formula for Real Recovery.

A formula for industrial recovery, based on the principle that progress is measured by the advancement and prosperity of the American worker, was laid down by Mr. Sloan as follows:

1—Reduction of real costs of goods and service, "real cost" being given as cost measured in terms of other goods and services rather than in terms of dollars.

2—The broadest possible spread between income and cost of living.

To reduce production costs, Mr. Sloan pointed out, implies technological progress. The demarcation between the theory of plenty and the old brain trust theory of scarcity was expounded.

"To raise real prices," said Mr. Sloan, "as a general policy, it is necessary to restrict production—to increase unemployment, hence less jobs —not more jobs, for the American worker. To limit the income of the American worker and at the same time to raise real prices, is to confine his purchasing power to the necessities of life. This is nothing more nor less than a policy of poverty for all.

"This is not intelligent progress—it is reaction. It is unintelligent retreat.

More Jobs Is Real Objective.

"On the contrary, to reduce real prices means more goods, more services, more jobs—a higher standard of living. That should be our objective. It is a reasonable demand in this age of science and technology."

Among the theories advanced by Mr. Sloan were:

1. Increase working hours to increase employment.
2. Make wage scales flexible to bring the greatest wage total.
3. Modernize the industrial plant to discard obsolete machinery, thus making a labor reservoir in replacement of out-of-date machines.
4. Establish works council system for labor relationships instead of the closed shop system.

Theories of hours and wages under the National Recovery act were wrong

CRIME PARLEY DELEGATES MAP NATIONWIDE WAR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Dedicating themselves to the twofold task of coördinating law enforcement and arousing public opinion suggested by President Roosevelt, 600 delegates to the attorney general's conference on crime today began a clinical examination of the nation's most serious problem.

The crime offensive was launched in discussion of three major aspects of the problem. A morning session was devoted to consideration of improved methods of detection and apprehension of criminals. In the afternoon delegates weighed publicity of crime and in the evening they considered strengthening prosecutions.

Hoover Hits at "Politics."

The opening gun was fired by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the division of investigation of the department of justice, with a plea for eradication of politics in law enforcement.

"No greater forward step could be taken by this conference than a determined effort toward the utter divorcement of politics from the apprehension, the punishment, and the detention of criminals," he declared. "Not until this separation has been accomplished will lawbreakers be forced to obey our statutes.

"Not until courts can dispense adequate justice without fear of political reprisals will the necessary terror of punishment reach the heart of the underworld. And not until prisons are actually prisons, free from malfeasance or nonfeasance in office, will we be safe from the so-called escapes by which desperate men periodically swarm forth from penitentiary gates to rob and pillage and murder.

Points to Slain Outlaws.

"Let a man succeed or fail in his job by merit or lack of it, and let that be the entire standard upon which he is judged."

Hoover pointed with pride to the record of his department in the ending of a long list of villainous careers. In the last eight months, he said, his investigators have become trigger men, although he insisted it be understood that no special agent is a promiscuous gunman, but an investigator qualified to kill "with the least possible waste of bullets."

He pleaded for a national training school for law enforcement officers, a national teletype or radio broadcast system, and closer coöperation between crime fighting units. He declared the only road to internal peace and security to be the "remorseless pursuit and complete punishment, and, if necessary and adequately provoked, elimination of the criminal individual."

Recalls Agents' Deaths.

With a show of emotion in recalling the deaths of four agents in pitched battles with desperadoes, Hoover asked that the nation make provision "for a decent maintenance" of the widows and children of these brave men. A delegate pledged himself to draft a resolution to be submitted to the conference on the suggestion.

Following Hoover, Gordon Dean, special attorney for the department of justice, advocated interstate compacts for crime control. He argued that the states should meet the problem rather than throw up their hands to criminals and cry for federal aid.

Suggests 4 Fields of Work.

Dean suggested that under the machinery of the interstate compact bill through which congress in 1934 gave a blanket sanction to state agreements to prevent crime and enforce crime laws, states can now move rapidly in alliance against crime.

He suggested four fields in which compacts might be developed. First, to permit officers of one state to pursue criminals into another; second, to expedite return of witnesses who have fled across state lines; third, establishment of joint crime detection agencies, and fourth, supervision of persons in one state who have been paroled or granted probation in another state.

Cincinnati Judge Speaks.

Others who spoke in the morning were Judge Charles W. Hoffman of the Domestic Relations court of Cincinnati, who urged more studied treatment of juvenile delinquents; Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. of New York, who advocated a drive on racketeering, and Dr. Sheldon Glueck of

Physician and Wife Found Dead by Knife

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Dr. Harmon Smith, 62 years old, one of the city's leading throat specialists, and his wife, Janet, 42, were found stabbed to death in the library of their home at 150 East 62d street tonight. The police said Dr. Smith had evidently killed his wife and then committed suicide.

No notes were found and detectives were unable to discover any motive for the tragedy. The couple had dined alone about 9 o'clock, as was their custom, and then gone to the library on the basement floor level, where Dr. Smith had a great collection of hunting knives and other weapons.

Slashes Her on Throat.

As the detectives reconstructed what happened, Mrs. Smith was lying on a couch with her face to the wall, when her husband grabbed her by the left arm, tearing her sleeve, and turned her face upward. He slashed her throat with a short hunting knife. Then he pulled open his shirt and stabbed himself in the heart with an eight inch dagger.

Mrs. Smith was the doctor's second wife. She is the former Janet Williams of San Diego, Cal., whom he married in June, 1915. They have one son, Harmon Jr., who is a student at the Chester Military academy.

Dr. Smith was born at McDonough, Ga., on March 20, 1872, the son of S. O. and Alice Cloud Stokes Smith. He took his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the class of 1892, and five years later he was graduated from the Bellevue hospital medical college here.

Director at Manhattan.

After serving his internship at King's county hospital he spent a year on the staf of the Loomis sanitarium and subsequently became surgeon-director of the Manhattan Eye and Ear hospital, and consultant largeon-director of the Manhattan Eye hospitals of this city. He was also consulting aurist of the Monmouth Memorial hospital of Long Branch, N. J.

Among his patients were Mayor John F. Hylan, whom he attended through a serious illness in 1923, and John McCormack, the singer.

Teeth Mark in Cheese Clew in Store Robbery

Camden, N. J., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A piece of cheese is part of the record of a chain store burglary. Detectives say they may trap the culprit through the cast of his teeth. The cast is in the cheese, a bite of which the burglar took, in addition to helping himself to $15 worth of cigarets.

KING CAROL'S SON, 13, SENDS FATHER'S GIRL FRIEND HIS PICTURE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Crown Prince Mihai [Michael] apparently shares King Carol's admiration for that glamorous lady of the Balkans, Mme. Magda Lupescu. The 13 year old heir to the throne of Rumania sent his father's friend a large photograph of himself, framed in silver, inscribed:

"To my beloved friend from Mihai, grand duke of Alba-Julia."

Earlier this year Mihai sent Mme. Lupescu, for whom Carol once foreswore his rights to the throne only to reconsider and return dramatically from exile four years ago, a huge Easter egg bearing an inscription of hearty friendship.

The gifts led Rumanians to speculate whether Mihai's affection was veering away from his mother, the beautiful Princess Helen, toward Helen's nonroyal successor in Carol's affection who has been called "Rumania's uncrowned queen." Mihai now sees his mother, who is living in Italy, but once each year, but she writes to him frequently.

GIVES BAY STATE 6 MILLION LBS. OF CABBAGE; ERROR

Boston, Mass., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Six million pounds of cabbage without an ounce of corned beef was the gift of the federal government to Massachusetts through an error made by the Surplus Commodities corporation in Washington last week.

Today state relief officials were trying to figure how best to dispose of the cabbage before it rots, and farmers led a chorus of condemnation.

The shipment, which arrived Friday, would supply every man, woman, and child in the state with a pound of cabbage, with plenty left over for the state's rabbits.

It was the original intention of the corporation to send the cabbage here from New York state in small lots over a three months period.

DETROIT NEGRO NAMED DEPUTY TO MOSCOW SOVIET

MOSCOW, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Robert Robinson, a Jamaican Negro who once worked in Detroit, was elected unanimously today by his fellow workers in the Moscow ball-bearing plant as a deputy to the Moscow soviet. After working in a Detroit motor factory, Robinson came to soviet Russia, where his nationalization proposal resulted in economies which won favor among his associates.

Pupils Forget Burning Guns; Pelt Teachers

The anti-gun crusade of the Parent-Teacher association at Ryerson school, Lawndale avenue and Huron street, terminated yesterday in a mammoth "burning of the guns" by the 2,000 pupils of the school.

Developments of the afternoon were three: The pupils paraded, the guns blazed up in a giant bonfire, and the children, their weapons gone, resorted to snowballs as missils in a mad battle around the funeral pyre.

It all started off very nicely. Led by Jess Testa, 11 years old, the gun forswearers paraded across the school stage. Some bore, as the school's sacrificial offerings, several boxes containing sling shots, cap pistols, water guns, swords, pop guns, and one pair of handcuffs. Others flaunted flamboyant banners bearing such sentiments as "You don't need a gun to have any fun," "Down with guns," "No more guns!" and "Guns are harmful toys for girls and boys."

The Formal Program.

Marshall High school's band played and adult visitors spoke.

Said Mrs. E. H. Krahl, a state chairman of the P.-T. A.: "Shooting guns, even slingshots, leads to trouble. You have chosen the right path."

Predicted Mrs. Rose Durso De Simone, president of the Ryerson P.-T. A.: "We'll have no more stick-'em-up games by Ryerson pupils. We parents and our children are through with toy guns forever."

Capt. Ira J. McDowell, chief of uniformed police, voiced approval.

An Informal Conclusion.

Then the pupils, bearing their forsworn arms, surged into the schoolyard. The fire was lighted, the guns thrown in. Around the sacrificial pyre little Chicagoans danced in glee. Suddenly one boy threw a snowball. Another took the cue. And another. And the situation was out of control.

Teachers screamed in anger, but stopped short as snowballs filled their mouths. Pupils yowled in delight. Cameramen atop a sound truck conducted a strategic retreat under an avalanche of balls. The fire, disregarded, burned low. Mrs. De Simone, attending it, became a special target. The once cherished toys were irreparably damaged, but the children didn't care. In snowballs they had found even more attractive weapons than guns.

Tulsa Mystery Grows; Seven Get Threats

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Two murders, probably closely linked, was the theory adopted tonight by county authorities in connection with the fatal shootings of two young men, Sidney Born Jr., son of the director of petroleum research at the University of Tulsa, and John Gorrell Jr., son of a prominent Tulsa dentist.

And on the heels of the statement by Sherif Charles Price that the deaths were murders, not suicides, came the news that seven of the state's witnesses in the impending Gorrell murder case today received threats against their lives.

Phillip Kennamer, son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, has confessed to slaying Gorrell on Thanksgiving night. Born was slain last Sunday. Both young men were found dead in their automobiles; both were shot through the head; both cars were found in the same district—the exclusive south side residential sector.

Co-Ed Has Bodyguard.

Of the witnesses threatened, Miss Bettie Watson, a close friend of Kennamer and a co-ed at the University of Oklahoma in Norman, is being escorted about the campus by a bodyguard. Charles M. Bard, another, withdrew from his classes at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college in Stillwater and returns to his home here.

Three youths, Jack Snedden, Robert Thomas, and Ted Bath, were spirited out of Tulsa by their families and are in hiding. Another, Richard Oliver, is said to be in Kansas City. The seventh one threatened is John Arnold, operator of a tavern formerly frequented by Kennamer and his crowd.

As in the case of Gorrell, first indications were that Born had taken his own life. However, Sherif Price pointed out that when the body was found the pistol was in the young man's lap. This, the sherif said, is not the natural position in which the weapon should have fallen if the wound were self-inflicted.

Charges Work Hampered.

The sherif added that his work had been hampered by city police when, in extricating Born from his car, they permitted the gun to fall and thus smeared the finger prints.

Another element of mystery entered the Gorrell case when the boy's father, Dr. John Gorrell, declared he is not convinced that young Kennamer had slain his son.

Sergt. Henry P. Maddux of the police department has insisted from the start that Born's death was a suicide and announced today that his investigation was closed.

One of the many unauthenticated reports here advances the Born suicide theory. This is a report to the effect that Born and Kennamer engaged in a party at a hotel the night before the slaying of Gorrell.

Conversation Is Denied.

According to this report, Born telephoned Kennamer at the county jail Sunday morning and requested the judge's son to pay for damage done to Born's car the night before the slaying. Kennamer, the story says, threatened to make public the party and Born, frightened, killed himself.

Jail officials deny that Born spoke to Kennamer Sunday morning and Chief of Police Charles Carr said he had no knowledge of the report or where it emanated.

A persistent report has concerned photographs believed to figure in the slaying of Gorrell. These photographs are rumored to be nudes of some socially prominent Tulsa girls and were to have been used as weapons in blackmail plots against the girls' parents.

REPORT 15 FELL IN INFERNO AS ROOF GAVE WAY

Drag Stream Behind Walls for Bodies.

BY PERCY WOOD.

(Pictures on Back Page.)

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Fourteen dead, 40 injured and an estimated 77 missing was the toll tonight of the Hotel Kerns fire, one of Michigan's major calamities.

Among the dead are at least six Michigan state legislators.

Investigations seeking a cause for the blaze began while hose lines still sprayed the smoking ruins of the old landmark which took fire in the black hours just before dawn today.

Since it was impossible to sift the débris for bodies, the authorities were forced to rely on more or less official estimates in trying to determine how many persons perished. The hotel register was destroyed, but the night clerk, Isaac Jones, who turned in the first alarm at about 5.30 a. m., maintains 255 guests and employés were sleeping in the hotel. State police have accounted for 178, including the dead.

Believe Some Haven't Reported.

Complicating attempts at accuracy was the belief that all survivors may not have reported their escape. It was entirely possible that the smoking litter concealed as many as 77 bodies, but authorities were inclined to believe that a number who escaped have not reported their safety.

The fire, it was believed, started in the northwest corner of the third floor. Fanned by a strong wind, blowing southeast, it fairly smothered the entire hotel before the firemen could start fighting it. Guests on the first floor escaped with difficulty. A few on the second floor also managed to flee. But those on the upper stories were trapped. Some leaped—to death or severe injuries. Others were taken down the fire ladders.

Witnesses said a group of about 15 were driven to the roof and fell screaming into the roaring furnace when the structure collapsed.

Partial List of Missing.

Only a few names among the 77 unaccounted for were available tonight. They were:

ROBERT E. SHEPHERD, Grand Rapids.

JAMES H. WEISSE, Flint, Mich.

J. L. ZANDER, Saginaw.

Some Jump to Deaths.

Although some of the dead were badly burned, their bodies were found outside the hotel—indicating that they had jumped to their deaths. No bodies had been taken from the ruins at a late hour tonight. The fire still smoldered within the shell-like walls, which were rapidly being torn down. Tomorrow it may be possible for firemen to search within the welter of red hot débris.

The legislature was called into its third special session yesterday by Gov. William A. Comstock. That accounted for the presence of the assemblymen who perished in the blaze.

Only Theories as to Cause.

Prosecuting Attorney Dan McCullough and the Ingham county coroner, Harry Leadley, began questioning survivors tonight. Deputy State Fire Marshal E. L. Welch began an independent inquiry. They had no definite evidence as to the fire's cause.

When the first fire trucks arrived the building was already an inferno. Men and women, the firemen said, were jumping from windows on the north and west sides of the hotel. Those quartered in the rear of the building, which is shaped like an inverted "U" with the legs of the letter pointing toward the rear, were forced to leap into narrow Grand river, a small stream flowing directly behind the hotel.

Witnesses who were crossing a bridge near the rear of the hotel said they saw several persons make the leap into the water. Some were able to swim to shore, others did not come to the surface. Police were dragging the stream tonight but they were hampered in their search by a great mass of débris which fell into the water at about the spot where those who leaped are believed to have fallen. It was feared several bodies would be found beneath this pile of masonry.

Every piece of fire apparatus in Lansing was called to the flaming hotel. The west or front wall caved in first. Within another hour a rear wall fell and bricks and mortar collapsed on the north side, wrecking four automobiles which had been parked in the street for the night. As tons upon tons of débris fell upon them the cars were reduced to junk. Their battered frames were hardly visible once the fire was under control.

Leave Adjoining Hotel.

Guests at the Wentworth hotel, which adjoins the Kerns on the south, evacuated their rooms, but none was injured.

Shocked by the deaths of its members, the legislature was meeting tonight with prospects for an adjournment until Monday. At the governor's request, which was approved by the assembly, an appropriation will be made for families of the dead members, but the amount had not been determined tonight.

President Roosevelt sent the following wire to Gov. Comstock:

"I am greatly shocked at the news. Please give my heartfelt sympathy to all injured and especially to the wives and children of those who lost their lives. I hope very much that first reports were exaggerated."

WITNESSES TELL HORRORS

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Ghastly stories were told by survivors of women racing through the corridors with hair and clothing aflame; of men jumping from the roof, striking obstructions and hurtling into the river; of the group trapped on the roof when it collapsed and precipitated them into the roaring furnace they had sought to escape.

Early arrivals at the scene of the fire shuddered in horror as they told of the screams that resounded for 20 minutes.

"The silence that followed, after the floors collapsed, was even worse," said one witness.

[illegible] of those who escaped, either by [illegible] escapes or by jumping, had time to don clothing, or even shoes. In pajamas and barefooted, those who emerged able to walk sought other shelter. There were many cases of frozen or frostbitten feet, for the temperature was near zero.

Found Dead in Nearby Lobby.

One man, wearing only underwear, was found dead in the lobby of a nearby hotel. Apparently he had been able to stagger only that far, then died. Two bodies lay for an hour or more in a restaurant across the street, while every available vehicle was being used to transport the injured to hospitals.

Exposure was a contributing cause in several deaths.

S. L. Colburn described an unidentified bellboy as the hero of the fire.

"At least 50 per cent of those saved owe their lives to his courage," Colburn said. "He had plenty of time to get out, but he stayed, running up stairways and pounding on doors to warn the guests. He still was in there when the first wall collapsed.

"I will wake up nights, with the echoes of the shrieks, the screams—and the prayers—of those trapped victims, trying to escape, in my ears."

Stumble Over Unconscious Ones.

Survivors told in shaking voices of stumbling over the huddled forms of persons who had been overcome by smoke in the corridors. Many, they said, were trampled in the panic of those still conscious to escape.

There was no hope that these eventually escaped, for firemen were able to save only those whom they could reach from ladders through the windows.

Doubt was expressed by authorities that the complete list of dead ever would be known.

So intense was the heat in the flaming pit created by the collapse of walls and floors, they said, that any one trapped there would have been burned beyond recognition.

To add to the hopelessness of complete identification, the hotel register was burned, thus destroying the only complete record of who was there.

James Gratrix, Chicago salesman, died late today as a result of injuries suffered when he fell while descending a rope of sheets from the second floor of the hotel. The flames burned through the sheets and Gratrix fell to the street, suffering fractured legs, a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

Legislator Paints Scene.

Representative William Green of Hillman, one of those who made their way in safety from the building, painted a graphic picture of the horror which struck the state's capital just as dawn broke through the cold winter sky.

"There were women with their hair on fire and their clothing aflame," Representative Green said. "They ran through the smoke screaming. That terrible screaming was the worst. Women on fire and running, screaming, up and down the halls."

The legislator related his experience as a physician rubbed his feet, frozen by the snow through which he ran as he fled from the shaking, almost red hot brick walls which formed a tomb for several of his colleagues.

Probate Judge William C. Severance of Antrim county said he was awakened about 5:15 by the shout of "Fire!" He said that after he reached the ground by a fire escape he could see people jumping from windows and the roof of the hotel into the Grand river, which flows directly back of the hotel. Some, he said, hit obstructions on their way down. Others, he said, must have drowned.

Fell Dead from Windows.

"It was the first time in my life I have seen a catastrophe where people fell dead from the windows," he said.

Representative Elmer B. McDonald said:

"Firemen were raising a ladder, but it was above our window. There was a rope hanging to it, though, and I reached out and grabbed it, yelling to Knox [Representative T. Knox Hanna] to do the same. I got down the rope safely, but Knox fell groaning to the pavement, and I took him to a hospital. You can't imagine how it was. Screaming people jumping out windows and landing on the sidewalk to lie still and crumpled."

ORDERS CHICAGO HOTELS CHECKED FOR FIRE HAZARD

As a result of the fatal hotel fire in Lansing, Mich., Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan yesterday ordered an immediate inspection of all Chicago hotels, with special attention given to hazards which were reported to have swelled the death toll in the Lansing blaze.

George Graves, chief of the fire prevention bureau, whose 35 inspectors were instructed to make individual reports on each of the 150 hotels in the city, said that unofficial reports of the fire pointed to two practices, forbidden by Chicago ordinances, which were responsible for a number of the Lansing deaths.

One of these was the lack of sufficient exits from the building, an old structure. A second cause of fatalities, Chief Graves believes, was the reported linking of the fire exit lights with the general lighting system of the hotel. The lights over the exits went out when the hotel lighting system was burned out, and guests were trapped in hallways with no means of finding the fire exits, he was told. The Chicago ordinances require that exit lights be on a separate circuit, if electrical, or that they be gas lights.

Marshal Corrigan said he believed that Chicago hotels are in good condition. If fire hazards are found which the management refuses to remedy, he said, court action will be taken to revoke the license of the hotel in question.

GULPS POISON AND DIES.

As his wife, Anna, struggled with him to prevent it, William Matish, 50 years old, 3849 West 26th street, a clerk, swallowed poison in his home yesterday. He died a few hours later in the county hospital.

TRAFIC RESTORED AFTER BLIZZARD; THAW EXPECTED

6,000 Workmen Clearing City's 10.9 Inch Snow.

Possibility of a thaw this morning is expected to aid materially the efforts of some 6,000 workers who were busy all day yesterday clearing the streets of the record early season snowfall. It was predicted by Forecaster C. A. Donnel that the temperature would rise to 32 and possibly a few degrees higher.

Yesterday was the eighth consecutive day in which the maximum temperature reading was freezing or below. Since Dec. 1 the average daily temperature has been 6 degrees below the normal of 30.

City's Trafic Nearly Normal.

Homeward bound loop workers last night found motor trafic almost normal, while transportation systems were functioning on schedule. Herculean efforts by bus, street car, elevated, and railroad lines had cleared the important trafic arteries of the heavy snow by morning, so that office workers were able to reach their destinations on time.

While hundreds of shovelers were removing piled up snow windrows from the well traveled thoroughfares, others concentrated their efforts on side streets, lined with automobiles abandoned by owners during the storm.

Motor trouble caused by wet ignition systems inconvenienced many automobile owners. The surface lines complained their service was delayed to a great extent by hard tired trucks and automobiles of ancient vintage.

Sets 31 Year Mark.

An examination of the records in his bureau revealed to Forecaster Donnel that Monday's blizzard brought the heaviest December snowfall in 31 years. The last previous big snow for the month was Dec. 12, 1903, when 11.3 inches fell in a 24 hour period. Before that, the fall of Nov. 25 and 26 in 1895 set a record of 11.5 inches.

Monday's fall was officially checked as 10.9 inches, although inland at the Chicago airport, slightly over 4 inches fell.

TWO FRIENDS ARGUE FOR BEER CHECKS; ONE IS SHOT DEAD

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 11.—(AP)—They were arguing—Joseph Chagnon and Clyde Young—over who would pay for the drinks.

Friends, they had gone last night to a beer garden for a stein of brew and a leisurely chat. When it came time to leave, Chagnon called for the checks.

"No you don't, pal," objected Young. "These are on me."

"No such a thing, Clyde," Chagnon insisted. "I'm buying."

"You heard what I said, Joe," cried Young, more vehemently. "It's my treat."

Chagnon laughed, but insisted he would pay.

Young drew a pistol, shouted "I'm paying for the drinks, d'yuh hear?" then pulled the trigger.

Chagnon died instantly, a bullet in his heart. Young continued firing. Frank Pohl, standing at the bar, was shot in the back.

Police disarmed Young and charged him with homicide. Pohl was taken to a hospital, his condition serious.

As it turned out, the drinks were on the house.

3 DEATHS IN N. Y. BLAMED ON COLD; SNOW IN TAMPA

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Bitter cold beset the metropolitan area today for the fifth consecutive day. It extended as far south as Florida, where Tampa had its first snow in 28 years, and as far west as the plains states. The official thermometer here registered from 12 to 22 degrees above zero, and the day's average of 17 was 19 degrees below the normal for Dec. 11.

Three deaths were attributed to the frigid weather here, and William Hodson, commissioner of public welfare, announced that he has requested the armory board to establish recreation centers for homeless men in three city armories.

New England suffered from the coldest Dec. 11 since 1876 as the mercury dropped to 5 above zero in Boston and to 15 below at Mount Washington, N. H.

31 In Miami.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The weather bureau station at the municipal airport, 14 miles northwest of Miami, reported a temperature of 31 degrees at 11 o'clock tonight.

Harvard university, who defined the first principle of criminal correction as the apprehension and prosecution of violators.

The afternoon session was devoted solely to the effect of publication of crime news in the press and over the radio and consideration of influence of motion pictures.

"I am all in favor of the merciless, complete printing of all the news of crime," said Stanley Walker, city editor of the New York Herald-Tribune. "In no other way can the public be shaken out of its natural lethargy."

Scores "Hush-Hush" Method.

"I believe we shall not make a better society on the hush-hush method," said Paul Bellamy, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "I think that there is ample evidence to indicate that only when the general public becomes thoroughly acquainted with the evils existing in the body politic, whether arising out of crime or any other cause, will the public act effectively to abate such evils."

Carl E. Milliken, secretary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, tendered the cooperation of his organization in the campaign. H. V. Kaltenborn, radio editor, said that public authorities might make more frequent use of radio for crime prevention purposes.

In the evening Ferdinand Pecora, member of the federal securities commission and counsel of senate investigating committees, and George Medalie, district attorney in New York, were the principal speakers in the discussion on improving prosecutions.

Pecora pleaded for a public campaign to put better men on the bench as a vital means of aiding prosecution of melefactors. He decried the draping of the judicial ermine about the shoulders of political henchmen or men who purchase robes at the political bargain counter.

Asks Revamped Criminal Laws.

He also suggested revision of archaic criminal laws and court procedure. He addressed himself principally to removal of the constitutional provision against self-incrimination and unanimous jury verdicts.

Medalie urged creation of genuine state departments of justice, with heads appointed by governors to direct both law enforcement and prosecution. This, he argued, would do away with political interference. He cited the successes of federal prosecutors and investigators to support this position.

Delegates were given a demonstration in law enforcement late in the afternoon when twelve Negroes, picketing Memorial Continental hall, where the sessions were held, were bustled into two patrol wagons by a dozen policemen. The Negroes, by shivering in the icy wind, were attempting to interest the conference in considering the lynching problems. A call to the district police was the answer to their silent appeal.

POLICE SEIZE 3 IN MURDER AND EXTORTION PLOT

Spring Trap on Delivery of Dummy Package.

State's attorney's police yesterday questioned Leo Rosenthal, 25 years old, west side police character, and two alleged accomplices in an effort to untangle a strange story of extortion and murder.

Rosenthal and the other two men were seized in a police trap Monday night at Van Buren and Paulina streets in an alleged attempt to extort $5,000 from Morris Axelrood, president of the Ashland Lumber company, 1800 North Ashland avenue. The other two prisoners, who said they were Joseph Gallicchio, 24 years old, 1334 Elburn avenue, and Sam Mano, 22 years old, were looked upon by police as minor figures in the plot.

Tells of Death Threats.

Axelrood said that Rosenthal had threatened that if he failed to pay he would be killed, as was his partner in the lumber business. The partner, Sidney Masser, was found shot to death on Oct. 15, 1932, in the offices of the company.

The first extortion threats were made against him more than two years ago, only 13 days after the killing of Masser, Axelrood told police.

At that time, Axelrood said, he received a telephone call asking him to go to Cortez and Leavitt streets and estimate the cost of wrecking a building. A man entered his car at the intersection, Axelrood told police, threatened him with a revolver, and demanded money.

Gunman Demands $10,000.

When he gave him $100, Axelrood asserted, the man threw the bills back to him and said "You are down for ten thousand dollars."

"Your partner had government bonds," Axelrood declared the extortionist told him. "He was supposed to give them to us. He didn't keep his word and you see what happened to him."

The victim said he met the man at Alice place and Hoyne avenue the next day and made a payment of $5,000. The man left him with the admonition that "If you report to police it will be too bad for you or your family. Keep quiet or get killed."

Threat Aimed at 4 of Family.

Axelrood, who lives at 2107 Jarvis avenue, is married and the father of three children. They are William, 20 years old, a student at the University of Illinois; Sylvia, 19 years old, a student at Northwestern university, and Richard, 8 years old.

Axelrood related he had heard nothing more of the extortionist until last Friday, when Rosenthal came to his office and demanded the other $5,000.

"My partner collected the first $5,000," Rosenthal said, according to Axelrood. "I'm here to get the balance."

Axelrood determined to report to the state's attorney, he said, and did so. After telephone communications in which Lieuts. Thomas Kelly and Frank Johnson took part, a meeting was arranged at Van Buren and Paulina streets.

The meeting, originally planned by Rosenthal for State and Madison streets, was shifted to Paulina and Van Buren on Axelrood's plea that he could not get to the loop through the blinding snowstorm.

Police were stationed at strategic points and waited until Rosenthal and his companions drove to the intersection in an automobile. Rosenthal went to a nearby saloon, where he met Axelrood and went with him to a booth in the rear of the place. Gallicchio and Mano stood at the bar, as did Lieuts. Kelly and Johnson.

Police waiting in the street rushed into the saloon upon receiving a prearranged signal when transfer of a dummy package had been completed.

YOUTHS ON STAND AGAINST WIDOW OF SLAIN PASTOR

State Attempts to Implicate Woman.

Lebanon, Ind., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Two youths, both in their early twenties, were used by the state today in an attempt to implicate Mrs. Neoma Saunders, 35, in the murder of her husband, the Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders, who resigned a Methodist Episcopal pastorate at Wabash, Ind., to enroll in an embalming school at Indianapolis.

One was Masil Roe, 20, who left his home in Coalmont, Ind., to make his way through business college at Indianapolis by working in a restaurant.

Roe testified he sat at the side of the former pastor when a bullet was fired into the back of the Rev. Mr. Saunders' head. He named Theodore Mathers, 19, a boy he had known in Coalmont, as the slayer. Mathers, jointly indicted with Mrs. Saunders, is to be tried when her case is completed.

Roe himself is under indictment as an accessory to the slaying.

The minister was found shot to death in his automobile parked on an Indianapolis street last February.

The state's other young witness was Ross Curts, 21, of Wabash, who said Mrs. Saunders summoned him to her home at Wabash, where her husband's body lay awaiting burial. He said Mrs. Saunders asked him to dispose of the gun with which the minister was slain and also of the dead man's ring and wrist watch, all hidden in the home of Mrs. Saunders' close friend and nurse, Mrs. Mable Balke.

Assistant Police Chief at Rockford Discharged

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Assistant Chief of Police Homer Read was discharged by the Rockford board of fire and police commissioners tonight. He had been charged by Mrs. Frances Ashworth of Rockford with accepting money from her for the protection of gamblers. Read labeled the charges a frame up. He said he will appeal the decision to the courts.

POLICEMAN GAINS AFTER LOSING HIS LEGS IN ACCIDENT

The condition of Policeman Herbert Eckel, 32 years old, 2615 East 73d street, injured in a trafic accident in the storm Monday night, was reported as greatly improved last night at the Woodlawn hospital. He spent a restful day, hospital officials said, and no more blood transfusions were given.

Both the policeman's legs were amputated after he had been crushed against the rear of a patrol wagon by a skidding automobile. Fellow policemen stood ready to furnish blood for further transfusions if needed.

Three deaths yesterday brought to 1,186 the Cook county motor toll for 1934. The victims:

Alexander Parish, 62 years old, 665 West 119th place. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 1 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph S. Opala, 21 years old, 403 East 113th street, at 120th street and Michigan avenue.

Edward Kuban, 45 years old, 4322 Crystal street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Dec. 1 when he was struck by an automobile at Augusta street and Kildare avenue.

Harry Pratley, 60 years old, 16 West Ohio street. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred a week ago when he was struck by a hit and run driver at Chicago and Western avenues.

CAFETERIA WAITRESS FALLS DEAD.

Mrs. Antoinette Brenner, 45 years old, 6031 South Hermitage avenue, who was employed as a counterwoman in the cafeteria in the basement of the Woolworth store at 219 South State street, died of heart disease shortly after reporting for work yesterday.

NAVY OFFICER MAY BE TRIED OVER AIR DEAL

Said to Have Asked for $1,000 a Month.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A possible trial by court martial was in store tonight for an unnamed naval officer on charges that he had offered, for a fee of $1,000 a month, to swing some navy airplane business to one aircraft company.

Evidence to that effect was turned over to the navy today by the house military affairs subcommittee, which is investigating alleged irregularities in war department purchases.

Accept the Evidence.

Rear Admirals Claude C. Bloch, navy judge advocate general, and A. P. Fairfield, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation, accepted the evidence from the committee. Both declined to discuss the case. It was understood, however, they gave assurances that an investigation would be made.

The story, as outlined to the committee, was this:

One company which had not had any navy business wondered how it could get a navy contract. It entered discussions with a navy officer concerned with procurement.

This officer told representatives of the company, in person and in writing, that he would like to see them get some business. He suggested, the committee was told, that they establish a new and private corporation to handle government contracts.

Stock Scheme Discussed.

The officer proposed, further, that he get a share of stock in the new company and that it pay him a $1,000 a month fee, for a limited period, as Washington representative. The money, however, would have been paid to a third person who also held the company stock.

The company's officials told their version of the affair to the military subcommittee, asserting that they would have none of the proposition. Subsequently the committee outlined the evidence in a letter to Secretary Swanson. He replied by directing Bloch and Fairfield to study the testimony and available documents.

FATHER SPANKS DAUGHTER; SHE AND PAL ROB HIM

Helen Bakutis, 18 years old, does not live at 1406 50th avenue, Cicero, any more. Last week her father, annoyed over the late hours she had been keeping, took Helen across his knee and spanked her.

Helen left home. Monday night her father, Stanley Bakutis, who is employed by the Chicago Surface lines, took his weekly pay of $63 and started home. In front of his home two youths halted him and took his money.

Bakutis thought there was something familiar about one of the robbers and confided his suspicions to Cicero police. They raided an apartment at 4744 Fifth avenue and found Stanley Kortas, 23 years old, and Helen. Stanley confessed the robbery, said Helen planned it, and implicated his brother, Stephen, 15 years old, 1336 South Cicero avenue.

"He can't spank me," Helen told Assistant State's Attorney Joseph O'Connor. "I'll get even with him."

ELGIN PATIENT FOUND DEAD.

Leo Collins, 45 years old, who escaped from Elgin State Insane asylum on Dec. 1, was found dead yesterday in the starter's shanty of the Jackson park golf course. Apparently he sought shelter there from the storm, and perished from exposure.

Police Were Held Off Lindy Inquiry, Defense will Charge

Flemington, N. J., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Edward Reilly, chief counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the Bronx carpenter held as the kidnap slayer of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., today revealed his intention of calling Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey and police officials as witnesses at the trial. He said he would prove by them his contention that local, state, New York City and federal police were retarded in the investigation of the kidnaping.

"If the hands of the police in the Lindbergh case had not been tied," Reilly said, "the case would have been cleaned up in forty-eight hours."

He asserted that Col. Lindbergh had refused numerous offers of assistance from police sources.

Another Wrote Note, Claim.

Mr. Reilly also announced that he has evidence that one of the ransom notes in the crime was written by a New Jersey carpenter who had once been a member of an underworld gang.

The note, postmarked at Williamsburg, Brooklyn, suggested that Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom negotiations, act as the intermediary in contacting the kidnapers, Reilly said.

The lawyer refused to disclose the name of the man he said wrote the letter. He also declined to divulge whether he would produce the New Jersey man when Hauptmann goes to trial on Jan. 2.

The attorney made his announcement following the appearance of Hauptmann in Hunterdon county's century old courtroom where associate counsel demanded from the state a bill of particulars on the indictment charging their client with the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

First Appearance in Month.

It was the first time in a month that the former German machine gunner had been out of his cell in the county jail.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who will preside at Hauptmann's trial, received the motion for a bill of particulars and set Thursday for arguments on the motion. The justice refused to hear the motion until the prisoner was present in the courtroom and the proceedings had to wait while Hauptmann dressed in his cell.

About 150 prospective jurors were in the courtroom and for the first time the entire jury panel looked upon the man whom twelve of them will try.

Hauptmann remained stolid and not much concerned during the brief hearing, though he listened intently to all that was said. The slight smile that was on his face when he entered the courtroom disappeared in a short time and he presented his usual sallow and sober appearance as he was led back to his cell.

John G. Oglesby of Elkhart, former lieutenant governor and son of the late Gov. Richard J. Oglesby, announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1936. Others considered possible opponents for Oglesby in the primaries include former United States Senator Otis F. Glenn and former Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom.

FRIEND OF YEARS WITNESS AGAINST MARTIN J. INSULL

Transfer of $344,720 to Joint Account Told.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Washington Flexner, president of Lincoln Printing company and friend of Martin J. Insull for twenty-five years, was called on yesterday by the state as the first important witness in the embezzlement case against Insull before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court.

Examined by Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora, Mr. Flexner told the details of the stock trading deals with Paul H. Davis & Co. in which his friend Insull was a silent partner. He told of the objections of bankers and brokers in the fall of 1931 to carrying the account further with stocks of the Insull holding companies as collateral and how Martin Insull procured $344,720 in cash from the treasury of the Middle West Utilities company, of which he was president.

Flexner Resembles Defendant.

Mr. Flexner looks a good deal like Martin Insull, except that where Martin has a thick patch of white hair, the Flexner head is bald, with a fringe of white. He wears horn rimmed glasses and has a cultured accent.

"In 1931," asked the prosecutor, "did you have a trading account with Paul H. Davis & Co?"

"I did."

Q.—How long had you had that account? A.—For several years.

Q.—Were there any trades in that account in 1931 for Martin Insull? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—When did you first begin trading for him? A.—Some years ago.

Q.—Was that known to Davis & Co. in 1931 or before? A.—It was not known to them earlier than the early part of 1931.

Joint Account for Years.

Q.—How were the trades made? A.—Mr. Insull and I were close friends. He had carried an account for me and we had had many transactions together. It seemed a natural thing that we should be interested in a situation of that kind.

Q.—Did you discuss these trades with Insull? A.—I never did anything without his knowledge.

Q.—Did you receive money and securities from him? A.—For a large part of the time it was my pleasure to carry his interest with my own resources. When market conditions became serious I found it necessary to call on him for help on his own liability. He responded.

Q.—When did you call on him first for cash or collateral? A.—During 1931. He always used securities.

Insull Utilities Stock Used.

Q.—What securities were these? A.—They were the common stock of Insull Utilities Investment company, common stock of Corporation Securities, voting trust certificates of Corporation Securities and Corporation Securities units.

Q.—How often did you see Mr. Insull? A.—At his office nearly every day.

Mr. Flexner said also that they had joint loans with the First National and Central Republic banks, and that similar collateral was used there. These loans arose, he said, out of their desire to reduce obligations to the Davis company.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with the Davis company? A.—In the latter part of September, Mr. Martin or Mr. Green of that firm told me the account contained a very large proportion of Insull securities and warned me against carrying it in that shape. They told me they were having difficulties in using the securities as collateral. They asked me to diversify the securities.

Tells of Threat to Sell.

Q.—Did you have a later conversation? A.—Yes, they became peremptory in their demands. They threatened to sell the account out.

Q.—When did they learn of the defendant's interest in this account? A.—I told them in the latter part of September.

Q.—What did you do. A.—I told Mr. Insull my difficulties on Oct. 3 at a meeting in his office. James A. Martin was present.

Q.—What did you tell him? A.—He was sympathetic. I told him of the Davis ultimatum. He told me he was not sure what could be done but that he would try to do something and would call me early in the week. I told him the brokers could not use the collateral in their loans. The bankers were also asking for diversification and were just as insistent as the brokers. They raised objections to these same stocks.

Q.—When did you see the defendant next? A.—On the following Monday, Oct. 5, I went to his office.

Agrees to Give Check.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He told me to deliver the securities to Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of the Middle West, and he would give me a check. We had estimated the value of the stocks, at the closing market on Oct. 3. Mr. McCormick had the figures and asked me if I would accept checks daily instead of one check. I went back to Mr. Insull. He was not sympathetic with this, but I allowed McCormick to handle it in the way most convenient to him.

Q.—Who was the owner of these securities? A.—So far as I know, Martin J. Insull.

Flexner then told of receiving checks aggregating $344,720 during the next week. He deposited these to his own account and drew checks in the same amount to pay the Davis company. The stocks withdrawn were delivered to Mr. McCormick. John F. O'Keefe, former secretary of Corporation Securities, was a state witness at the morning session. He identified books of the company and weekly reports which the directors had showing the liquidation values of the stocks carried in their portfolio. Martin Insull was one of these directors.

Asked About Stock Crash.

"On Oct. 1," asked Mr. O'Hora, "do these reports show that the common stock was wiped out and the preferred stock impaired?"

Mr. O'Keefe looked over the statement and replied: "Yes, sir."

Q.—What was the value of Corporation Securities common stock on that date? A.—It shows $6.91 in red figures. This was based on market price.

Q.—At any time thereafter did the common stock of Corporation Securities ever get out of the red? A.—No, sir, the market improved a little but generally declined.

Attorney John Northup for the defense brought out that there was quite a spread among the liquidating value, the market prices, and the book value.

The directors considered these figures, but thought that it was "ridiculous" to find these stocks in the red, Mr. O'Keefe testified.

"They never discussed liquidation values to any extent," he said.

"I recall statements to the effect that the depreciation reflected panic prices, ridiculous prices, not the true value of the securities."

The securities rose in value between Oct. 1 and Oct. 8 from $53,954,163 to $58,521,172, it was shown.

Mr. Flexner said he never was told where the money came from. On cross-examination Mr. Northup asked him if his relations with Insull were always pleasant.

"There was not an unpleasant thing that I can recall," was the answer.

Verifies Value of Stock.

He told of the pressure put on him by the Davis company and how Mr. Insull received this information. He was asked if on Oct. 8 they sent out for a newspaper and learned the market value of the stock.

"That is quite right," he said.

"And you found that amount to be $344,720?"

"If that was the amount paid me that was the amount."

He was asked about his appearance before the grand jury and in the state's attorney's office prior to Insull's extradition.

"I was under great pressure, doing something very obnoxious to me," he said.

He said he got back the collateral at the banks by substituting some of his own collateral.

Questioned about 3,000 shares of Corporation Securities stock which were missing at one time, he said:

"I don't want my integrity impugned by you or any one else; I want it understood my integrity is as good as yours or anybody else's, Mr. Northup."

FIVE BRAVE CABINET MEMBERS LISTED IN CAPITAL PHONE BOOK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Five brave cabinet members list their names in today's new edition of the Washington telephone book.

Cabinet members get lots of phone calls—provided people know where to reach them—and many requests for jobs and favors. The five others, figuring probably that discretion is the better part of valor, have unlisted numbers.

Among the unlisted group is Postmaster General Farley, who has most to say about jobs. The others in this category are Secretaries Hull, Ickes, Morgenthau, and Perkins. The courageous ones are Secretaries Wallace, Roper, Cummings, Dern, and Swanson.

U. S. TRADE BODY SCORES INSULLS FOR PROPAGANDA

Commission Assails 'High Pressure' Selling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Samuel and Martin Insull were assailed today by the federal trade commission for starting and promoting a nation-wide public utility propaganda campaign which, according to the commission, caused investors to lose billions of dollars.

The commission's attack on the Insulls was contained in the final section of its report to congress on utility propaganda activities. The Insulls were the only utility magnates to be condemned by name in the commission's report, although the document surveyed the whole field of utility propaganda.

"Among the Earliest."

"Whether or not Samuel and Martin J. Insull were, in 1919, the originators of the utilities public relations and propaganda plan, they were at all events among its earliest and most active promoters," the report to congress read.

"Regardless of who conceived or first promoted it," the report continued, "the record is clear that influential men generally in the industry readily adopted the so-called Illinois plan, sponsored by the Insulls, as the model for their association activities."

Turning to the results of the propaganda campaign which it accused the Insulls of promoting, the commission declared that high pressure methods caused the loss of billions of dollars by investors in utilities securities.

"It would probably not be overstating to say that the losses to investors in utilities securities, attributable to utilities campaigns for selling and increases in prices effected thereby were in the billions," the report to congress said. "This would seem to be true because the activities of the utilities in these campaigns must have had a powerful effect on the entire upward price trend, and because in those instances alone where the entire holding group or corporate structure crashed to bankruptcy, the losses ran into hundreds of millions."

Called Indirect Reference.

This last reference to the crash of "a holding group or corporate structure" in which hundreds of millions of dollars were lost was understood here to be an indirect reference to the collapse of the Insull empire.

Attacking the Insulls on another count, the commission charged that their propaganda activities made possible their whole topheavy holding company structure and the issuance by these holding companies of securities "while little or no regard for the underlying soundness of or necessity for such issues."

Through their propaganda the Insulls and others sought to create "a halo around all of their practices, including financing," and reaped a "harvest" in 1928 and 1929, the commission charged.

WINS FREEDOM FOR TELLING OF EDITOR'S MURDER

Columbus, O., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Louis Mazer, one of four men convicted of the slaying of Don R. Mellett, anti-vice crusading newspaper editor of Canton, was a free man tonight. Mazer had served six years of an indeterminate term of five to 20 years.

Mazer, who turned state's evidence on the eve of his trial and later pleaded guilty to manslaughter, was given a commutation of his sentence and released late yesterday.

Mazer's release leaves three of the convicted assassins in prison serving life terms. They are Floyd Streitenberger, a Canton detective at the time of the slaying; Pat McDermott of Nanty Glo, Pa., the alleged "trigger man" in the case; and Ben E. Rudner, once a member of a wealthy Canton family.

FALLS DEAD ENTERING STORE.

Charles Alexander, 60 years old, 3215 Arthington street, collapsed and died of heart disease yesterday as he entered the Sears Roebuck & Co. plant at 1012 South Spaulding avenue, where is employed as a printer.

BRITAIN REPEATS DEBT REFUSAL; FINLAND PAYING

"Negotiations Useless," England's Words.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Great Britain's decision to withhold the current payment of $117,670,765 due next Saturday on its war debt and not to participate in conferences regarding that debt were made known in correspondence made public at the state department today. Previous failures to pay make $379,461,776 due by Dec. 15.

Finland, as usual, promised to pay its instalment, and will deposit $228,538 in the New York Federal Reserve bank Saturday. The total due that day from all the European debtors will be $154,729,976.

Refers to Recent Note.

A note written Nov. 22 by Undersecretary Phillips disclosed an offer by this government to consider any proposals Britain might make concerning the debt and to submit these to congress, but a reply from Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, dated yesterday, declined on the ground that world conditions had not altered since last June, and that negotiations now would be "useless and unwise."

Britain is scheduled to pay the United States $117,670,765 on Saturday but is also $261,791,011 in arrears, making a total past and present obligation of $379,461,776. The suspended payments are:

June 15, 1933	$ 65,949,481
Dec. 15, 1933	110,170,765
June 15, 1934	85,670,765
Dec. 15, 1934	117,670,765
Total	$379,461,776

Offers Debt Discussion.

In his note of Nov. 22 Mr. Phillips informed Sir Ronald that the United States was "fully disposed" to discuss through diplomatic channels "any proposals your government may desire to put forward in regard to the payment of this indebtedness and to assure you that such proposals would receive careful consideration with a view to eventual submission to the American congress."

The British government, the ambassador replied, welcomed this assurance, but he recalled last June's note in which Great Britain outlined "circumstances" that made her decide to suspend payments pending a final revision of her debt.

"In that note it was stated that recent events had shown that discussion with a view to a final revision of the settlement could not at that time usefully be renewed," he said.

Britain Voices Regret.

"His majesty's government have again most carefully reviewed the position, but they regret that they have reached the conclusion that the considerations which governed their decision six months ago apply with equal force today.

"Accordingly they feel that it would be useless and therefore unwise to initiate negotiations at present, but they will continue to watch for any effective opportunity of taking steps in that direction."

As to Finland, Minister Astrom today sent a ten line letter to the state department saying the $228,538 would be in the bank "in cash" on the day specified.

Next to Britain's obligation, which is infinitely larger than that of any other European debtor, is France, with $22,308,312 due; Poland, $6,616,039; Belgium, $3,109,453; Italy, $2,141,593, and Czechoslovakia, $1,682,812. Under $1,000,000 and exclusive of Finland are Estonia, $531,350; Hungary, $50,210; Latvia, $220,683; Lithuania, $121,466, and Rumania, $48,750. These sums do not include defaulted back payments.

It is regarded as certain that the other powers will default too.

GIRL EMPLOYE SAVES $30,000 IN HOLDUP OF STAMP AGENCY

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—A daring attempt to rob the Hoffman Stamp company, on the sixth floor of a West 35th street building was foiled at noon today by the quick thinking and courage of a girl employé.

The two would-be holdup men were caught in the act of scooping approximately $30,000 worth of stamps and cash from a safe, and a few minutes later were on their way to the lockup.

Several days ago a man came into the stamp company offices and asked Miss Henrietta Licht, assistant to the proprietor, for a catalog. He engaged her in conversation and seemed to be trying to find out how much cash was kept and what the value of the stamp collection was.

Today Miss Licht saw her visitor talking with two other men in the main floor corridor. When two took an elevator she followed and heard her employer say: "Take it easy."

Realizing a holdup was in progress she ran down to the fifth floor, found a telephone and called the police.

BYRD EXPEDITION WILL LEAVE FOR U. S. NEXT MONTH

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The radio station of the General Electric company said today that a radiogram from Little America said the Byrd antarctic expedition intended to leave for New Zealand and New York the last week in January, 1935.

The Little America station reported that the explorers would stop at Dunedin, New Zealand, about the middle of February before beginning the long trip half way around the world to New York. Admiral Byrd said he hoped to reach New York early next spring.

According to the message, the Bear of Oakland, wooden hull ship of the expedition, will put out from Dunedin on Dec. 26. It will reach the ice pack in ten days. If conditions are favorable the Jacob Ruppert, steel mate of the Bear, will sail from New Zealand on Jan. 12.

SOVIETS SHOOT 9 MORE TO DEATH FOR TERRORISM

Claim Victims Entered from Poland.

MINSK, U. S. S. R., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A firing squad today snuffed out the lives of nine alleged counter-revolutionists shortly after they were convicted of terrorism.

The sentences, imposed by the military collegium of the soviet Supreme court, brought to seventy-five the number condemned and executed since the assassination of Sergei Kirov Dec. 1 started sweeping and vengeful investigations of counter-revolutionary operations.

Entered from Poland.

An official statement said most of the nine men executed today entered White Russia from Poland armed with revolvers and bombs. Three others tried with them on charges of terrorism were held for further investigation.

Thirty-seven other alleged "enemies of the people" were ordered to trial in the Ukraine today. Altogether arrests of 120 so-called "white guards," or counter-revolutionists, have been announced by the government. All have been charged with promoting terroristic activities against soviet officials.

Leaders Vow Vengeance.

The murder of Kirov, member of the communist party's all powerful political bureau, at Leningrad stirred the soviet to high indignation and brought stern public vows of vengeance from communist leaders.

Five days after the assassination sixty-six persons, one of them a woman, were executed at Moscow and Leningrad. The questioning of the man named as Kirov's slayer, Leonid Nicolieff, is still going on.

JAPAN'S PREMIER MINIMIZES NAVAL RACE POSSIBILITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 12 [Wednesday].—Japan does not expect a naval building race even if the 1935 conference fails, since it considers that the nations of the world are already spending near the limit. Japan, therefore, will do its utmost to keep the naval ratio question from being brought up.

This assurance was given last night to the privy council committee studying abrogation of the Washington treaty of 1922 by Premier Admiral Keisuki Okada. The question of abrogation now goes to a plenary meeting of the privy council on Dec. 19. Approval is a foregone conclusion, after which the imperial sanction will be obtained.

The councillors questioned Okada, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, and Minister of Navy Admiral Mineo Osumi concerning the danger of Japan being placed further in isolation through taking action alone. Hirota assured them that Japan expects to coöperate in all matters of naval reduction.

PHOTOENGRAVING COMPANIES OPEN SALES TAX FIGHT

Twenty-eight photo engraving companies filed suit yesterday in Circuit court seeking an injunction to restrain Knowlton L. Ames Jr., state director of finance, from collecting the 2 per cent sales tax on photo plates. The suit contends the photo plate represents a service and that "images" are something intangible and therefore not subject to taxation. Among the companies joining in the petition are the R. R. Donnelley & Sons company.

NRA SPELL OVER, SLOAN TELLS HIS HOPE OF REVIVAL

Industry to Advance by Time Tried Methods.

An Economic Impasse.

"We have reduced the hours of employment, and we have increased the hourly wage," he said, "the pay envelope, as a general policy, remaining the same. As a result, we have raised the real costs of goods and services, but we have not raised the purchasing power of the American worker in proportion.

"We have reduced, not increased, the total number of man hours of employment. We have done this with the sincere conviction that there is only a definite amount of work available in this world of ours, and that the problem of unemployment is solved by dividing the number of jobs by the number of available workers. On all these counts, we are wrong.

"We should not further decrease the hours of employment—they should be increased. In so doing we increase the size of the pay envelope, and we restore to the American worker a spread of purchasing power above the necessities of life, to enable him to consume more goods and to use more services, thus creating more jobs for the workers.

"We must continue to provide ways and means of taking care of those unemployed during the process of evolution of our program, but this injects no new problem nor added burden. It is an essential step toward the elimination of that burden as it now exists."

Shortening of work hours, he said, will be a process of evolution.

Fallacy in Thirty Hour Week.

Taking up the proposal of a thirty hour week, Mr. Sloan said:

"We have an insistent demand for further reduction in hours—for a mandatory thirty hour week, to be specific—with the resulting further increases in the cost of goods and services, further limitations in the ability to consume, less jobs for workers. Let us hope better counsel will prevail.

"High wages are a corrolary of prosperity. High wages do not create prosperity—neither do they accellerate recovery from depression. An inflexible wage freezes the process of recovery. The best wage scale is ~~that~~ which permits the fullest productivity, the maximum number of jobs, the largest total of wage payments. A wage level lower than that may mean the unjustifiable exploitation of the worker. A level higher than that tends to throttle down the industrial machine—fewer jobs, more unemployment.

"Let us not forget that the assurance of a fair profit is essential to a fair wage."

Dwelling on relations between worker and employer, Mr. Sloan indorsed the works council plan. He quoted as an expression of his viewpoint the pronouncement of President Roosevelt when he appointed the automobile labor board. In this the President said: "It is my hope that this system may develop into a kind of works council in industry in which all groups of employés, whatever may be their choice of organization or form of representation, may participate in joint conferences with their employers."

On price fixing, Mr. Sloan maintained that under the NRA codes many industries have developed formulas which have knocked out competition and have meant higher prices for goods and services.

"I do not think we have a broad enough imagination to visualize the wonders of that future. I do not subscribe to the thinking that our industrial machine is overexpanded. There is a tremendous unsatisfied demand on the part of millions for products. To my thinking, it would require years for our entire productive capacity to reconstruct our standard of living to what it used to be and to what it ought to be."

Walter B. Pitkin of New York, author of "Life Begins at Forty," in a speech on "The Chance of a Lifetime" remarked that if half the nation's crime bill were saved prosperity could be financed without further capital.

R. E. Wantz of Rockford, president of the Rockford Fiber Container company, was reëlected president of the association. Sterling Morton of the Morton Salt company and D. A. Crawford of Pullman, Inc., both of Chicago, were reëlected vice presidents and Paul Schulze of Paul Schulze Biscuit company of Chicago was reëlected treasurer.

WELFARE PLANS WILL GO BEFORE ROOSEVELT SOON

Job, Health Insurance Study Nears Completion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The New Deal's plan for old age pensions, unemployment insurance, child welfare, and health insurance will be laid before President Roosevelt the middle or end of this week, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins indicated today.

The President's special cabinet committee on economic security has already completed its recommendations on old age pensions and child welfare, Miss Perkins disclosed.

Draft Job Insurance Plan.

The report on unemployment insurance is now being drafted into final form, and the health insurance program is taking shape under the counsel of several prominent physicians, she announced.

Upon the report of this cabinet committee, consisting of Secretary Perkins, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and Relief Administrator Hopkins, President Roosevelt will base his recommendations to congress for social legislation.

Enactment of old age pensions and unemployment insurance as well as health insurance are expected to be requested of congress by the President. Although no official disclosure has been made of the New Deal's plans along these lines, the broad outlines of the probable program were learned here today.

Two Part Pension Plan.

The old age pension plan is expected to be divided into two parts, one for persons now over 60 years of age and a second program for persons now under 60 and employed. Those over 60 years are expected to be paid regular, modest pensions from a fund contributed by the government itself. Those under 60 will come under an actuarial insurance plan whereby they will contribute a share of their earnings, depending in size on their age, toward a fund out of which they may later be paid an old age pension. The government and industry may also contribute to this fund.

Inclusion of those persons now over 60 in the old age pension plan was long a moot question among the New Dealers. Some pointed out that most of this age group would not be able to contribute to an insurance fund. Others, who finally won out, argued on the other side that the government probably would have to support large numbers of the aged anyway and might as well do so through a pension system as through relief.

5 Per Cent Pay Roll Tax.

Since the unemployment insurance plans are being redrafted, their nature may change, but they now call for "contributions" of a billion dollars a year from industry to build up an unemployment reserve fund. The government will administer the fund, but the states will handle the payments.

Contributions will be enforced by a 5 per cent federal tax on pay rolls. Employers who contribute to an unemployment fund will be allowed to deduct the amount of their contributions from this tax.

The plan, of course, covers only those persons now employed. A relief or public works program will have to be continued for those now out of work. A person now employed, however, would be entitled to, say, $20 a week for a stated period, probably 26 weeks, if he later loses his job.

Plan Extensive Public Works.

Size and duration of the payments will be up to the states. After his 26 weeks are up, his insurance would be used up, and he would either have to go on relief or be absorbed into some government public works job.

For this reason, Hopkins has planned an extensive public works system which will be called into play whenever the insurance of any considerable number of unemployed runs out.

TEAMSTERS OUST LEFTY LYNCH AS AGENT OF UNION

James [Lefty] Lynch was officially expelled last night as secretary-treasurer and business agent of local 704 of the Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Hikers, and Helpers' union. The action was taken by heads of the 36 locals in the Chicago area at a joint meeting of the teamsters' council of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers at 220 South Ashland avenue.

Lynch was deposed last week on orders from the international officers. Leslie G. Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint council, who was appointed receiver until a new election is held on Dec. 23, and a squad of state's attorney's police seized records of Lynch's union. The meeting last night was called to hear charges against him and to examine the books.

Goudie announced that the union ledgers were in such shape that an exhaustive audit of several months would be needed to straighten them out. Lynch failed to accept the council's invitation to attend the meeting and defend himself, but his attorney, J. E. Daniels, sent a letter denying the charges.

BAPTISTS TO DECIDE FOR THEMSELVES ON BIRTH CONTROL VIEWS

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

What do Baptists think about birth control? In order to answer this question as well as more than 200 other questions of national and international social importance, the Baptists themselves have set up a commission on social action to find out.

The commission, authorized at the Rochester, N. Y., convention in May and ordered to report to the general council of the northern convention of that church which met at the Medinah club yesterday, has thrown all responsibility for answering these troublesome questions back on to the whole church to be faced next May when the convention meets again at Colorado Springs, Colo.

But the questions are said to be couched in terms which will make "wrong" answers difficult, "wrong" at least from the viewpoint of the liberal leadership of the social commission. The chairman of the commission is the Rev. Dr. C. L. Seasholes of Dayton, O. Prominent in its membership as secretary is the Rev. Dr. N. L. Tibbetts, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church, 5600 Woodlawn avenue.

For instance, the birth control questions put to the traditionally individualistic Baptist conscience follow:

"If the knowledge of the truth shall make men free, what justification has the Christian for refusing to permit the spreading of modern scientific information concerning conception and contraception?

"Is the average Christian sufficiently informed regarding the significance of the sex life of men and women, boys and girls, with respect to their value as members of society?

"Should the Christian be more concerned about the motives than the methods of birth control?

"In what respects is the limitation of offspring a private affair?"

WATER FREEZES IN HOSE; FOREST WORKSHOP BURNS

Water freezing in the hoses rendered the volunteer fire departments of Willow Springs, Lemont, and Summit helpless last night as they attempted to battle a blaze which destroyed the Forest Preserve workshop building at 95th street and Wolf road, in Willow Springs.

When the fire fighters arrived they found no hydrants available. By combining hose sections they managed to stretch a line to Maple lake, approximately two blocks away, chopped through ice, and began to pump water.

The subfreezing temperature, however, congealed the water in the lines and the firemen, aided by CCC men from a nearby camp, concentrated on beating out sparks and saving the nearby forest preserve police station, the home of Caretaker Joseph Reichert, and the building owned by the Forty and Eight, world war veterans' organization.

Holds Two High School Gang Boys to Grand Jury

Donald Walker, 17 years old, 6052 Kenwood avenue, and Russell McGinnis, 18 years old, 1515 East 65th place, members of a gang of four who quit high school for the alleged purpose of burglary, were held to the grand jury in total bonds of $12,000 yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes in the Boys' court. A third member of the gang, Ralph Flood, 15 years old, 1520 East 66th place, was shot and killed on Saturday when he and the others were trapped by a watchman in a drug store at 1321 East 57th street.

JUSTICES SCORE NEW DEAL CODE ORDER TACTICS

Oil Case Hearing Closes in Supreme Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11—[Special.]—As arguments on the validity of the petroleum code and the national industrial recovery act drew to a close in the Supreme court today Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justice Brandeis took stern exception to the slipshod manner in which administrative orders, having the force of law, are disseminated under the New Deal.

The justices, having ascertained yesterday that there is no official publication of the NRA codes and other executive orders pertaining to their enforcement, although they impose penalties of imprisonment and fines for violations, pursued this line of inquiry today.

The chief justice asked counsel for the government, Harold Stephens, whether the state department was the official repository for these codes and whether they were attested by the secretary of state.

Hughes Pursues Question.

"As a matter of practice, I believe all the codes are sent to the state department, but I don't find any law requiring the publication of executive orders," Stephens replied.

Then the chief justice, who served as secretary of state under Presidents Harding and Coolidge and has a practical knowledge of the executive functions, asked whether all executive orders and proclamations should not be attested by the secretary of state and published together with all the laws of the United States.

"Isn't it the very nature of a proclamation that it should be made public?" he added. "If these are executive orders having the effect of law, why aren't they included with the laws of congress? I don't see any reason for excluding them. Isn't that the very essence of our form of government?"

Stephens repeated that he hadn't found any law on the subject and then Justice Brandeis interposed:

"What evidence have you that these orders you have included in your brief actually were signed by the President?"

Stephens Tells Source.

"Those that are actually printed came from the state department," Stephens replied.

"Why weren't they attested?" the justice asked. Stephens said he did not know.

Thus it was brought out by the members of the court that officials of two oil companies in Texas were arrested and subjected to possible $1,000 fines and six month jail terms for each day's violation of some order presumably signed by the President, or his representative, Petroleum Administrator Ickes, but never attested by the secretary of state or made a part of the recorded laws of the realm.

It was suits for injunctions to restrain prosecution under these orders that brought the two cases to the Supreme court for the first test of New Deal legislation.

Cases Taken for Study.

The consolidated cases were taken under advisement and a decision probably will be handed down within a few weeks that will go to the very essence of the New Deal philosophy of government.

For, if the government were upheld in this case, the traditional doctrin of state rights, which the party of Jefferson formerly embraced, would not mean much any more. On the other hand, if the government should lose the case, there would be no foundation for the multiplicity of codes under the NRA and little hope of having the AAA, the Bankhead act, the TVA and some other New Deal legislation sustained.

Counsel for the oil interests relied upon two primary reasons why the recovery act is unconstitutional, and the frequent remarks and questions of the justices indicated they were impressed with the argument. It was contended first that production is not commerce and that congress, for this reason, cannot regulate the amount of oil that goes into interstate commerce. Justice Sutherland pointed out that the court never had held production to be commerce.

Charges Delegation of Powers.

The second contention was that the code making authority exercised by the President constitutes an unwaranted delegation of legislative powers. Several of the justices observed that the executive branch, under the act, could enforce or suspend the laws at will.

The government's counsel contends that an emergency condition, although creating no new powers, brings into play powers already existent, and that congress must exercise these powers to protect interstate commerce, whether or not production is commerce.

This is a far cry from the commerce law laid down by Chief Justice Marshall, who drew a sharp line of demarcation between the powers of the states and the central government yet Jefferson reviled Marshall as an arch foe of state sovereignty.

COAL AUTHORITY IN NEW PROTEST ON LOWER PRICES

Chicago Group to Retain Own Schedule.

A renewed protest against the reduced coal prices fixed by the NRA was dispatched to the national coal code authority in Washington yesterday by the Chicago retail code authority, which has refused to put the reduced price schedule into effect. The protest, which some of the code authority members said they did not expect Washington officials to consider, asserted that the lower prices would "bankrupt two-thirds of the dealers in Chicago."

A previous plea for the higher prices was rejected only a few days ago by Frank A. Hecht, NRA administrator for the industry, who ordered that the schedule approved by the research and planning division of NRA be used. The Chicago code authority members agreed yesterday, however, that they will not publish the approved prices but will continue to publish their own schedule.

Opinion was expressed at the meeting that the Washington officials eventually will be forced to announce that there is no "emergency" on which to base price fixing.

Joseph J. Heritage, a member and head of a coal company bearing his name, announced that, beginning Dec. 15, dealers belonging to the Chicago Associated Coal Yard Owners will publish individual price lists at variance with the schedule set up by the code authority.

Mr. Heritage, who is president of the association, said the dealers would take this action as individuals.

STATE HIGH COURT UPHOLDS ISSUE OF 30 MILLIONS IN BONDS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The Supreme court today held valid the manner in which Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes printed the notice of the election at which the 30 million dollars bond issue to fund relief expenditures was approved.

In doing so the court issued a writ of mandamus requiring John C. Martin, state treasurer, to sign the bonds, thus removing the last legal obstacle to their sale.

Martin, contending that the election notice published by Hughes did not comply with the statute, had refused to sign the bonds. His objection was technical, being raised at the request of attorneys for prospective purchasers of the bonds, who wanted the publication notice ruled on before consummating the deal.

CONVICT ANNAN; BEAT WOMAN TO DEATH AT PARTY

Albert Annan, 49 years old, was found guilty by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Walter P. Steffen yesterday on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the slaying of Mrs. Ottila Griffin, 45 years old, Oct. 16. Mrs. Griffin was beaten to death during a drinking party in the flat which she and Annan occupied at 1048 West 79th street.

Annan faces a sentence of one to fourteen years in the penitentiary if his motion for a new trial is overruled on Dec. 17. The jury deliberated only fifteen minutes before bringing in the guilty verdict.

Annan is the former husband of Beulah Annan, who shot and killed her sweetheart, Harry Kalstedt, in 1924. She was defended by Attorney William Scott Stewart and acquitted. Stewart also defended Annan, but was unable to convince the jurors that Annan had been in a stupor and did not know what he was doing.

SENATORS HEAR U. S. AIDS JAPAN IN WAR SUPPLIES

Told Army and Navy Get Data That Way.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Since 1923 the U. S. war and navy departments have approved efforts of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company to sell explosive-making machinery and military powders to the Japanese. The senate munitions inquiry committee revealed this today in delving into that concern's foreign transactions.

The departments took the position that such sales would reveal information to the military and naval intelligence services. From that information the experts of those services could deduce what the Japanese were doing in the building up of their national offensive and defensive organization.

Two documents that disclosed the policies of the American services in respect to the foreign transactions of the du Pont company were read into the committee record.

The first document concerned military powder negotiations in the summer of 1923. The second, dated May 3, 1932, related to efforts of the Japanese to acquire du Pont machinery used in the manufacture of nitrocellulose products.

The du Ponts appeared surprised that these documents were made public, but said nothing. The documents spoke for themselves, they held.

Military Secrets' Short Lives.

Other evidence produced today indicatd that Gen. John J. Pershing had "heartily endorsed" army and navy activities in increasing the foreign business of the du Pont company, while Maj. Gen. C. G. Williams, wartime chief of ordnance, was quoted as saying he "would do anything in his power" to help that company.

Maj. K. K. V. Casey, du Pont explosive expert in charge of its military sales department, declared in reply to questions that he was in full accord with the war and navy departments' policies as stated, adding that in making the sales it always should be remembered that the life of a "military secret" was never much more than two years.

The committee made no deletions in a letter in which the Japanese sought to buy a "du Pont mechanical dipper," a device used in the manufacture of nitrocellulose.

The Japanese tried to buy this machine from the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., of London, which for years had maintained close trade relations with the du Ponts, but the I. C. I. said they did not have the machine wanted.

The correspondence, which was with the great Japanese firm of Missubishi & Co., was turned over to the du Ponts, and they again sought the advice of the army and navy authorities as to the course to pursue. Col. Aiken Simons of the Du Pont company conferred with officials in Washington.

A memorandum in July, 1932, from Col. Simons to Maj. Casey, under date of May 3, 1932, read in part:

"On my visit to Washington on Friday, April 29, I called on Capt. William Baggaley, office of naval intelligence, and handed him a copy of the correspondence between the Mitsubishi company of Japan and Imperial Chemical Industries, wherein it developed that the Japanese were trying to buy a du Pont mechanical dipper [used in manufacturing nitrocellulose] from the above British firm, and had been informed that it was not available.

Navy Wants Information.

"This enabled us to develop the point of view of naval intelligence on the sale of munitions or munitions producing machinery to the Japanese. The attitude of the navy department has not changed and they still believe it not only permissible, but desirable, for American firms to sell such material and equipment to the Japanese, basing their judgment on the fact that the Japanese will undoubtedly purchase what they desire anyhow, and that it is desirable to America to secure the business and the navy to be informed of the amount and nature of the purchases, which information would be lacking if purchases were made in Europe.

"Later on I called at the office of the assistant chief of staf C-2 [army intelligence] and discussed the situation with Majors Wilson Marley and Kroner, with substantially the same results, that is to say that the army sees no objection whatsoever to our dealings with Japan."

There was an earlier clash between Senator Clark and Maj. Casey on how the United States got into the world war.

"You shipped to only one side, and that got us into a war that cost the American taxpayers $20,000,000,000," Senator Clark asserted, citing German efforts to stop American shipments to the allies, and the consequences of those efforts.

Maj. Casey took up the questioning.

"What did those shipments consist of?" he asked Clark.

"Largely guns and ammunition," Senator Clark countered.

"What about wheat?" Casey asked.

"Where would Washington's army have landed," asked Irenée du Pont, reëntering the almost angry colloquy, "if he hadn't been able to get munitions from abroad?"

BALKAN ROW MAY BRING SHAKEUP OF SERB CABINET

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 11.—While the resolution of the league of nations council in the Jugo-Slav-Hungarian dispute over responsibility for the assassination of the Serb king, Alexander, was being acclaimed here as a victory for this country, rumors were circulated concerning impending cabinet changes.

Leaders of the old parliamentary parties asked immediate audience with Prince Paul, head of the regency. It is understood they intend to inform him that Jugo-Slavia has only his personal efforts in Paris and London to thank for the understanding that the great powers showed at Geneva for Jugo-Slavia's case. It is alleged that the government filled the press with unfounded stories to the effect that Hungary was devoid of all foreign sympathy and would appear at Geneva as a prisoner at the bar. This aroused public hopes that could not possibly be fulfilled, they claim.

The government denies a report that it is planning to resign.

Ex-Dictator Maps Comeback.

Gen. Pera Zhivkovitch, minister of war and former dictator, who is held chiefly responsible for the recent deportations of Hungarians, is reported to be negotiating with leaders of the parliamentary Democratic parties whom he displaced by the proclamation of his dictatorship in 1929. It is said to be his ambition to return to power in combination with the leaders whom he formerly defeated.

The league council's resolution is accepted by the Jugo-Slav press as furnishing full satisfaction to Jugo-Slav claims. The Jugo-Slav point of view received its justification, the papers say, in the decision that Hungary must investigate the conduct of Hungarian officials whose attitude was condemned as having been favorable to those preparing the assassination of King Alexander.

Hungary Is Relieved.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Dec. 11.—It was with great relief that the Hungarian public today learned of the Geneva settlement of the Jugo-Slav-Hungarian conflict.

The official newspaper Fuggetlensag admitted that Hungary was on the brink of war and emphasized that the agreement settled the quarrel without affecting Hungary's honor. The Pester Lloyd praised Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, for achieving an understanding which satisfied the Hungarian public.

The liberal newspaper Testi Naplo stressed that not only Italy and Poland seconded Hungary's cause at Geneva, but that Jugo-Slavia and other little entente states had not endeavored to attack the honor of the Hungarian nation during the debate. The outcome, it said, left Hungary "neither victor nor vanquished."

The liberal leader, Deputy Karl Racsay, however, took quite a different stand in an editorial appearing in Pesti Kurier under the title, "Defeat of Geneva." The article said:

"We must speak the truth. The government lost the battle of Geneva and the Hungarian nation's honor is seriously affected by the text of the resolution. Our government went to Geneva demanding an investigation of the guilt for the preparation of the Marseilles assassination. Now the government has returned with an obligation to investigate itself the origin and preparations for the murder.

"Our government demanded satisfaction for attacks against Hungary. Now the government is giving satisfaction to other countries. Our prestige is seriously harmed and we believe the government should shoulder the consequences. Everybody expects that the government will realize what its duty now is."

This article caused a sensation at today's meeting of parliament. The opposition pointed out the minimum it expects from Premier Julius Goemboes is that he should resign.

NAVAL EXPERTS CALL U. S. SHIPS WELL BALANCED

Japan's Design Topheavy, British View.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The new American warships will be wholly seaworthy, despite their increase in armanent, it was declared emphatically today by naval officers.

Discussing a current criticism in "Jane's Fighting Ships," a British publication edited by Dr. Oscar Parkes, to the effect that many of Japan's naval ships are top heavy because of being overburdened with extra guns and superstructure, the American naval experts cast doubts on this criticism. At the same time they gave assurance that in no case could the same charge of bad design be put upon American ships.

Dr. Parkes' criticisms, it was pointed out, seemed to be based on his examination of photographs of Japanese war vessels, rather than upon a knowledge of details of structure. One other bit of evidence cited by Dr. Parkes was that one of the smaller destroyers of the Japanese navy had capisized and sank in a rough swell last March, with a loss of 100 lives.

Japanese Designs Secret.

High officers in the navy department declared frankly today that they had no reliable information concerning the Japanese naval designs.

"The Japanese are very successful," said one officer, "in keeping news of their designs secret. We have not learned exactly what caused the destroyer Tomotsuro to heel over last March, but we do know that it was a faulty design. We learned that another Japanese ship of the same class was also in difficulty, though not lost, and that all these vessels, which displace only about 500 tons, are undergoing alterations at this time. But whether it is because the craft are topheavy or due to some other cause, we do not know and we doubt that the editor of Jane knows."

Can't Tell from Pictures.

One of the leading naval architects in the navy department declared it was ridiculous to attempt to determine whether a ship was seaworthy by studying photographs. Dr. Parkes made the point that the pictures of the Jap vessels, which have been remodeled to take on additional guns and superstructure showed they were topheavy.

Answering Dr. Parkes' implied argument that the new American 10,000 ton cruisers, to carry 15 6 inch guns might be top heavy and that the British naval architects feared to trust more than 12 guns on this displacement, the American designers declared there was little point to this.

Calls It Matter of Design.

One of them insisted that a 10,000 ton cruiser might carry 20 guns; that it was entirely a matter of design.

One expert pointed out that a certain degree of what might be called "topheaviness" is desirable.

"Weight above the center of balance helps to stabilize the roll of the ship," he asserted. "If the weight is overheavy below the ship is stiff, does not 'give' to the sea, heels farther over, and takes on water in heavy seas. A properly balanced ship rolls with the sea, smoothly and evenly.

"This factor is of the most vital importance, because unless a battle craft rolls evenly, with stability, you are not able to shoot with any degree of accuracy.

"Thus the weight above decks is a decided necessity as an aid to marksmanship, as well as weathering the seas."

Mrs. Landis Loses Indiana House Seat Nomination

Winamac, Ind., Dec. 11. — (AP) — Charles A. Halleck of Rensselaer, today was nominated by a party committee over Mrs. Bessie Landis of Logansport, as the Republican candidate in a special election to be held next month to select a congressman from the Second Indiana district. Mrs. Landis is the widow of the late Frederick Landis, who died several days after being elected to the congress last month.

BRITISH GENERAL NAMED HEAD OF TROOPS IN SAAR

Will Command Army of Four Nations.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Maj. Gen. J. E. S. Brind of the British army will command the international force which will be sent to the Saar to preserve order before and during the plebiscite next month.

This announcement was made at the war office in London tonight following a communication from the league of nations council inviting Great Britain to nominate the commander.

It was also announced that the British contingent will comprise 1,500 men made up of the 1st battalion of the East Lancashire regiment, the 1st battalion of the Essex regiment, and a number of ancillary detachments of engineers and royal army service corps.

Force to Total 3,300 Men.

The two regiments are units of the 13th infantry brigade commanded by Col. J. H. T. Priestman, stationed at Catterick camp. They will be equipped as when on active service, with gas masks and rifles.

Augmented by 1,300 Italians, 250 Swedes, and 250 Dutch, the international force in the Saar will total 3,300 men.

Gen. Brind is 56 years of age and a commander of considerable experience. At present he commands the 4th division at Colchester. Previously he was deputy chief of the general staf in India and acted as military adviser to the Indian delegation in the early stages of the Geneva disarmament conference.

He held a succession of staf appointments during the war, rising to a brigadier general on the general staf in 1917. Subsequently he filled a similar position on the staf of the Irish command during the troubled years of 1919 to 1923.

Arrangements Are Completed.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Dec. 11.—The league of nations council today completed arrangements for the league army in the Saar and then ended its session.

The council requested league members to grant every facility for transit through their territories of the Saar army and its supplies. France announced that it would give free railway transit.

The council decided that the cost of the army shall be borne by the plebiscite fund and supplementary payments by France and Germany if necessary. It announced that any death or disability pensions incurred in the discharge of duty in the service of the league shall be in accordance with the most favorable rules embodied in the legislation of the four countries supplying troops.

The governing body of the Saar is authorized to exempt "the international force," as it is called, from "all responsibility for any acts accomplished in the performance of its mission and confer on itself, in case of need, power of requisition, accommodation, maintenance, and transport of said force." The force is exempted from local courts, and the league's supreme plebiscite tribunal alone has jurisdiction.

CHINESE BANDITS NAB U. S. MISSION COUPLE AND BABY

SHANGHAI, Dec. 12.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—J. C. Stam and his wife, young American missionaries from Paterson, N. J., and Holyoke, Mass., have been captured by bandits in southern Anhwei province, reports received today by the China inland mission said. Their two months old baby also was taken.

Their captors, believed to be outlawed troops fleeing from government soldiers, have not been contacted. The couple had been married less than two years.

The Stam family, who had been stationed at Tsingteh, Anhwei, recently had moved to Wuhu, a port on the Yangtze river, because of disordered conditions at Tsingteh. When conditions apparently had cleared up they returned and were captured, the reports said. Anxiety was felt for Mrs. Stam because of her delicate health.

The mission also is concerned for the safety of two other missionaries, E. A. Kofield and his wife of Bend, Ore., who have been stationed at Tunki, Anhwei, about 60 miles south of Tsingteh.

COMPOSER CRIES 3 WORDS AT NAZI OPERA; IS JAILED

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—E. Hartung, a young composer, was released last night from prison, where he had been held since Saturday for crying out just three words: "We want Furtwaengler."

He referred to Wilhelm Furtwaengler, who resigned the directorship of the Berlin opera and other important musical posts because he objected to Nazi regimentation of art.

Hartung's outburst was at the opera as the audience was giving an ovation to Conductor Erich Kleiber, who canceled his resignation after Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier and minister of air, had refused to accept it. Hartung was sitting in a box with a girl. He was yanked out of the box and clapped into prison for two days.

Meanwhile, the music storm is abating. Berlin gossip is that Furtwaengler's successor will be Clemens Krauss, who hails from Vienna and has a strain of Hapsburg in his blood. The gossipers claim that Berlin is thus helping the Hapsburgs to acquire new glory.

In Munich the musical atmosphere is also clearing up. The authorities are trying to induce Hans Knappertsbusch to remain at his post with the Munich opera. He resigned because of unfavorable Nazi press criticism of his production of an opera by an American, Giannini.

Knappertsbusch was given a stormy ovation at Munich yesterday.

NAZIS PLACE U. S. 'SPY' WOMAN ON AMERICAN LINER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—Nazi police tonight placed Miss Isabelle Steele, a naturalized American citizen, on board the United States liner President Harding at Hamburg. The ship sailed soon afterward. Miss Steele had been held in a Berlin prison since Aug. 10 on a vague espionage charge.

Miss Steele, whose release or trial was demanded by American authorities in Berlin Nov. 5, was accompanied to Hamburg by an elderly matron and detectives, whose duty it was to see that she did not talk too much to interviewers.

Her face showed traces of anxiety, and she was able to tell one reporter that it had been a terrible experience, but the thrill of getting home soon seemed to be uppermost in her thoughts.

EVEN CYNIC GETS FUN OUT OF BEING A GOOD FELLOW

Child's Faith in Santa Is Told in Mother's Plea.

BY EARL MULLIN.

An ancient philosopher taught that all in life is selfish, even the good that man does being actuated by his desire for personal satisfaction. For such cynics the Good Fellow movement is made to order.

If that old Greek thinker were alive today Christmas Eve would see him trotting down a mean little side street with a basket of food and toys under his arm. For he would know that at the conclusion of his visit to a Good Fellow family he would feel warm and kindly all over. The pleasure would be greater than any other he could have obtained for the same money.

Letter from a Mother.

Consider for instance a letter received from a mother by the Good Fellow bureau of THE TRIBUNE. This family has already been taken care of by an amateur Santa Claus. But there are plenty more, and names and addresses can be obtained from THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street, telephone Superior 0100.

"We are a family in need," reads the letter, written in pencil on wrapping paper. "Chirstmas is coming and nothing to show for it. I have 3 children and the youngest is just starting to understand that there is a Santa Claus. All her heart and soul is on Santa Claus, so I pray that some Good Fellow will be kind hearted enough and not fail, for my husband has been out of work for the last three years and we have nothing to get to let the children think we are not cut off from the world, as all the other litle children will surely not be forgotten.

"So please se that some one tries to help us. Relief is just keeping us alive. But there is nothing for Christmas for the children. My husband and I don't care for ourselves."

New Move Is Afoot.

Some Good Fellow is going to have a lot of fun helping that family.

A new move just started in town by some of the people who ordinarily send out a lot of presents to friends and relatives is bringing in a lot of new Good Fellows this year. Through THE TRIBUNE these Christmas joy seekers are asking their friends to do the same.

Instead of sending out great numbers of small presents these people are sending out cards. The cards explain that instead of sending a present this year the money to being used for Good Fellow baskets, and that the name of the friend or relative is included with the basket. That method spreads the joy around and means happiness and plenty for just that many more Good Fellow families.

Names of needy families which have been thoroughly investigated by social service agencies may be obtained by filling in the accompanying coupon, calling Superior 0100, or visiting the Good Fellow department in THE TRIBUNE's Public Service department at 1 South Dearborn street.

EX-MILLIONAIRES NUMBER SEVEN IN POOR FARM

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)— Seven former millionaires and five former members of European nobility now are living at the Los Angeles county farm, William R. Harriman, superintendent, said today.

Harriman said that at first the majority of inmates were of the farmer class. Then followed people representing the building trades. For the last six years there has been a rapid increase in the professional and white collar class.

"One of the ex-millionaires at the farm once operated a big steamship company," Harriman said. "The strain of his tremendous responsibility undermined his mentality and eventually brought him to the farm."

George Seif Sues for Pay Cut as Clerk of Court

Latest of the former or incumbent Cook county officials to bring mandamus actions to recover the deductions under the 15 per cent reduction in salaries is George Seif, former clerk of the Criminal court, who is now a Sanitary District trustee. In a bill filed in the Circuit court yesterday he asks $4,050. Former State's Attorney John A. Swanson and Charles H. Weber, erstwhile county commissioner, have obtained mandamuses. Three outgoing county commissioners, Grace Fleming, Frank J. Kaspar, and Homer J. Byrd, have similar actions pending.

2 SUNDAY NIGHT ROBBERS GIVEN ONE YEAR TO LIFE

Two 15 year old members of the Sunday night gang of burglars were sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan in the Criminal court. They are Floyd Appel, 2817 North Halsted street, and Thomas Dean, 4763 Lincoln avenue.

Clarence Whitney, 31 years old, 644 Wrightwood avenue, who was found guilty of receiving stolen property from the youths, was sentenced to serve one to ten years in the penitentiary.

"I have lost all hope that the juvenile authorities can do anything in the cases of these boys," Judge Sullivan said in answer to a plea for probation. "The only course open to me is to follow the law."

The boys were sentenced for the burglaries of the homes of Carl Stephan, 420 Fullerton avenue, and Dr. William J. Stickel, 656 Wrightwood avenue. Appel was given two sentences of one year to life to run concurrently. Dean was given two sentences of one year to life and an additional sentence of one to twenty years, all to run concurrently.

MRS. VANDERBILT FILES APPEAL IN CUSTODY FIGHT

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Formal notice of appeal from the custody decision in the fight over Gloria Vanderbilt was filed in Supreme court today by Nathan Burkan, attorney for her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt.

The appellate division ruled recently that Justice John F. Carew's decision in the case was subject to appeal.

The notice involved an appeal from each specific point in the Carew decision, but the papers added nothing to previous records of the case.

Justice Carew ruled that the 10 year old girl should remain in custody of her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, until her mother showed that she was able to provide a proper home for her.

FINANCE GROUP ADDS $462,000 TO CITY BUDGET

Exceeds Revenue; Expect to Find More Cash.

The finance committee of the city council practically completed its work on the 1935 budget late last night with the approval of appropriations for corporate purposes totaling $45,279,647. The committee then placed the budget in the hands of Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman, and the committee's technical staf.

The motion to turn over the appropriation bill was made by Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] and came at the end of a long debate and considerable wrestling over innumerable figures. The understanding was that Arvey and his experts would report back to the finance committee should they decide on any reductions in the appropriations.

Seek Early Borrowing Power.

Mayor Kelly had previously requested the committee to complete the budget as soon as possible in order that it may be adopted by the council promptly after Jan. 1. The speed is desired so that next year's borrowing power in the form of tax anticipation warants may become available to keep the pay days of city employés up to date.

The major additions to the budget appropriations last night were as follows: For Calumet harbor improvement condemnation, $200,000; department of health, $143,000; electrical department, $61,000; Bridewell, $50,000, and police, $20,000. These make a total of $474,000, but minor decreases brought the net addition to the budget at this session down to $462,000.

Arvey told the committee members that although the appropriations were over the revenue as estimated by City Controler Robert B. Upham, he thought it possible to find the additional funds.

End Fire Commission Job.

One of the final acts of the committee was the elimination of the post of fire commissioner, which was done upon the recommendation of Mayor Kelly. Duties of the office devolve upon Chief Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan.

The fire commissioner's post was held last by Arthur R. Seyferlich, who died a week ago. Ald. Arvey told the members that Mayor Kelly had decided only one executive was needed in the fire department. The committee agreed to raise Corrigan's salary from $8,000 to $10,000.

The annual deduction of 52 days' pay from the salaries of policemen and firemen was opposed by representatives of these services, who appeared before the committee. Lieut. Patrick Kelly of the fire department was spokesman.

FOURMIDLOTHIAN SCHOOLS CLOSE FRIDAY; NO FUNDS

The four elementary schools in Midlothian, district 143, enrolling 919 pupils, will close Friday because of lack of funds and will not be reopened until outside relief funds are granted to the district, Roland K. Cumming, president of the school board, announced yesterday.

Midlothian is the third Cook county school district to close its schools or announce a closing since the opening of the fall term. On Oct. 31 the Steger elementary schools, with 621 pupils, shut down. Monday the Tinley Park school board announced its elementary school, with 213 pupils, will close indefinitly on Dec. 21.

The Midlothian schools employ 22 teachers and serve the additional villages of Posen, Robbins, and Crestwood.

"Our only hope for reopening lies in the possibility that the state will grant funds to distressed school districts," Cumming said. "We have paid our teachers with orders and tax warants for more than two years, and their continued declining value makes it impossible for us to carry on with this method of financing."

10 HIGH SCHOOLS TAKE TESTS TO REGAIN CREDITS

The annual University of Illinois inspection of Chicago high schools, which will determine whether ten schools barred from credits in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools last spring will meet the association requirements, was under way yesterday.

The work is under the direction of A. W. Clevenger, high school visitor for the University of Illinois, who also represents the state department of education and the reviewing committee of the North Central association.

The ten high schools barred from North Central association accreditment were Amundsen, Farragut, Foreman, Harper, Hirsch, Kelly, Kelvyn Park, Manley, Sullivan and Von Steuben. The schools were converted from junior high schools at the beginning of the term last year, and this change was held largely responsible for their failure to meet North Central requirements.

The association's committee of review declared there was a teacher overload, too few text and library books, lack of supervision for branch schools, and overcrowding.

Tax Commission Conferees Set Up Permanent Agency

Provision of state financial aid for public schools will be one of the most important problems coming before the legislatures of middle western states this winter, delegates to the Great Lakes regional tax conference agreed as they ended yesterday a two day meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

The delegates, representing tax commissions of seven states in the Great Lakes region, formed a permanent tax conference to act as a clearing house for interstate tax information, and announced that a meeting would be called in March to complete the group's organization. Melville B. McPherson, of the Michigan tax commission, was named chairman of the body.

Discusses Gas Tax Diversion.

Barnet Hodes, a member of the Illinois tax commission, urged on the conference the importance of state action to bolster declining public school revenues.

"Sharing of the gasoline tax revenues collected by the state has been a wise extension of the principle that the state is a better tax collection agency than the city, but that the cities should, nevertheless, benefit by the revenues," Hodes said. "A continued extension of this principle to include school districts seems wise.

"It appears that this principle would provide a solution for the financial problem facing many Illinois school districts. If the local revenues are exhausted there seems no question but that the state governments must step in to keep the schools from closing."

Advises District Consolidation.

Dr. Simeon E. Leland, another Illinois state tax commissioner, supported Mr. Hodes' position.

"There must be greater state responsibility for education," he said. "But, at the same time, there should be a consolidation of school officialdom.

"In Illinois there are now 12,000 school districts with 47,000 officials. There are 187 school districts which do not even maintain schools. I would propose an adequate state school distributive fund, but I would limit the benefits to districts willing to consolidate and organize under a less cumbersome system."

Dr. Leland also called for a centralization of present tax administration bodies, to eliminate unnecessary officers and agencies. One local unit of government to approve budgets, assess and extend taxes, and then collect the taxes would be desirable, he declared.

Seven states were represented at the tax conference and will form the permanent tax organization. In addition to Illinois and Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, and Ohio will be included.

EXPECT AIRING TOMORROW OF SCHOOL CASE

Complete airing of charges against a former secretary, Denins F. Hayes. may develop at a meeting tomorrow night of the school board of district 104 which controls the schools of Summit, Argo and Bedford park.

Hayes, it was learned yesterday, was named in two indictments voted by county grand jury on Nov. 27, the charges alleging the misuse of district tax warants made out to "bearer" which were distributed, according to allegations, in payment for chairs and other equipment for Hayes' undertaking rooms in Summit.

Charles N. Goodnow, former judge who acted as special counsel in an inquiry begun last July, said that odd amounts in dollars named in some of the warants provided clews which disclosed the purchases were not for school purposes.

Despondent because of ill health, Bernet Weborg, 78 years old, 5219 Winthrop avenue, hanged himself in his home yesterday.

DROUTH GROWN CORN KILLS OFF ILLINOIS HORSES

Wormy Nubbins Genuine Menace in Midwest.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Death losses of horses are running high in some parts of the middle west, largely, it appears, as a result of poor feeding. Diseased corn produced in the drouth stricken corn belt has received much blame for the situation, though farmers and veterinarians are generally alarmed and are confused as to the exact cause of the mysterious malady. The ailment is referred to as forage poisoning, cornstalk disease, and encephalomyelitis or "sleeping sickness."

A survey made by THE TRIBUNE reveals that farm horses are troubled with the disease in Illinois and other parts of the corn belt. More than 1,400 cases of the disease were reported in Illinois by 57 veterinarians who recently met in Urbana to coöperate in fighting the malady. These veterinarians have treated more than a thousand cases. Fifty-five of them reported that they had lost 60 per cent of the animals treated.

Nubbins with Many Worms.

One veterinarian at the Urbana meeting said he had treated more than 600 cases of cornstalk disease.

In Indiana farmers are troubled with a disease apparently closely related to encephalomyelitis, reports J. L. Axby, state veterinarian at Indianapolis. He says that most of these cases originate on farms where the horses were used while husking corn, or have run in the stalk fields, or have been fed corn fodder. Because of the drouth corn is poor in quality, and this year the ear worm was abnormally active.

Purdue university at Lafayette, Ind., is running some experiments to see if the cause of the disease can be accurately determined.

In Wisconsin forage poisoning cases continue to occur just as they have in the past, according to W. Wisnicky, state director of live stock sanitation at Madison, Wis. But farmers in that state are not having unusual losses among horses from forage poisoning, or from encephalomyelitis or sleeping sickness.

The Horse That Dies.

Many Illinois farmers have had the most trouble with horses used in gathering corn from the fields. The horse that walks next to the row which has not yet been picked is the one that usually gets sick, farmers report. Dr. C. C. Hastings of Williamsfile, Ill., says:

"When farmers go down a manger row and feed ear corn out of a basket and then dump what is left into the feed box of the horse at the end of the line it is always this last horse that dies."

Many Illinois veterinarians say that symptoms of the cornstalk disease in this state are indistinguishable from the infectious encephalomyelitis or sleeping sickness that is reported in western states. At least forty veterinarians in this state say the disease is related to the feeding of inferior or damaged corn.

Horses affected by the disease are likely to become nervous, sluggish, and sleepy, according to veterinarians. Later the horse often walks in circles, staggers, and presses against his manger or a fence. In advanced stages ailing animals become wild and may jump over their manger or fences.

Precautions for Stables.

Farmers are advised by veterinarians to follow these practices:

1. Keep horses and mules out of stalk fields.
2. Select by hand the corn fed to horses, mules, or cattle.
3. Before feeding shell, clean and fan the corn to get rid of moldy kernels, worm dust, and other trash.
4. Cornstalks may be fed to hogs and cattle with less danger.
5. Even cattle should be allowed to run in stalk fields only a part of the day. Look them over carefully for symptoms of the disease when they are brought in out of the field each day.
6. Treat the disease in its early stages as though the animal were reasonably sure to be saved.

Veterinarians find that an outbreak of the so-called "cornstalk disease" is associated with drouths, poor quality corn, and skimpy feeding. A shortage of feed this fall and winter has made it necessary for many farmers to keep their live stock on pastures and conserve their corn and other valuable feeds. This has encouraged trouble from feeding moldy, rotten, and inferior corn.

LIQUOR CONTROL A FICTION, SAYS ANTI-SALOONIST

Misuse Spreading, Haffke Reports to Board.

Liquor control under license and revenue measures is only a figment of imagination, Charles Haffke, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, said yesterday in his semi-annual report to the board of directors.

Reviewing the liquor situation after a year of repeal, Mr. Haffke, speaking before 92 board members in the Great Northern hotel, lashed the government, the state, and the liquor control commission for what he termed their "partnership with the liquor trafic and beneficiary and pecuniary interest therein."

Attacks Motives of Group.

"This year has shown beyond doubt the utter failure to control the liquor trafic under laws providing for private profit to the trafic and revenue to the government," he charged.

"The motive back of control is measured in terms of dollars and cents. The liquor control commission is interested solely in income, the same as the bartender, retail dealer, and producer. Both are interested in extending the trafic to its widest possible extent—meaning easy enforcement by public officials, with consequent privileges to the trade."

The liquor laws, he said, are merely "high power sales agencies" for the liquor interests. The latter, he alleged, have used large slush funds to elect men to strategic offices. During the recent election each of the 7,300 retail dealers in Chicago was assessed $100 for this purpose, he said.

Mourns Results of Year.

Results of a year of repeal, revealed by a survey of the Chicago area, he listed as "drunkenness on the increase, drinking among youth in excess of that of any period of American history, repeal a bootlegger's paradise, and illicit liquor production equal to that of legal production."

To combat the effects of repeal the league has evolved a threefold program of attack—agitation, education, and legislation.

U. S. WILL HOLD SANITARY CANAL SALE HEARINGS

A public hearing on the proposal of the sanitary district to sell its channels to the federal government for navigation purposes at a price of approximately $90,000,000 was set for Dec. 19 at 10 a. m. in the postoffice building by Lieut. Col. Donald H. Connolly, army district engineer for the Chicago area, yesterday.

All persons interested in the sale plan, including representatives of the sanitary district, have been invited to submit written statements outlining their positions and to appear at the hearing, Col. Connolly said.

The hearing was authorized by the house committee on rivers and harbors which will report on the sale proposal to congress. The sanitary district brought the project before congress last year, and it was referred to the war department for review and investigation.

Col. Connolly will submit the results of the hearing and his report to the war department late in January, he said. It will then go to the congressional committee for further action.

CCC BARRACKS BURN; 4 DEAD, 200 HOMELESS

Norris, Tenn., Dec. 12 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Four members of the CCC camp at Clear Creek, seven miles from here, were burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed four barracks at the camp and made more than 200 CCC boys homeless.

Robert Maxwell, superintendent at the camp, said he feared there might have been others burned in the fire. The bodies of the four, their identities not immediately ascertained, were recovered by the Norris fire department, called to the scene shortly after 1 a. m.

$10 Is Price of Watermelon; Only One on the Market

The price on watermelons was $10 each yesterday, according to Jerry La Rocca, in charge of the fruit department of the commission firm of Mark Owen & Co., at 33 South Water market. La Rocca yesterday received a 35 pound watermelon from Florida, which market veterans regarded as a winter freak.

He did not return to the home, 11023 South Talman avenue, that night or all day yesterday and did not appear at his office. Mrs. Thran declared that her husband is not addicted to drink and said his business affairs are in good shape. It was feared he might have been a casualty of the storm.

CUBA OUSTS 26 ARMY OFFICERS; REVOLT HINTED

Civil Rights Ended in 3 More Provinces.

HAVANA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—On the heels of apparently reliable reports of wholesale retirements of army officers, the cabinet tonight suspended constitutional guarantees in Havana, Santa Clara and Camaguey provinces.

Cabinet members said the suspension was made to permit the government to combat terrorism, but another source said the action was taken as a precaution against a threatened anti-government uprising.

The government declined to comment on reports that one major, three captains and 22 lieutenants in the Cuban army had been "retired," presumably for conspiracy, but it was known that some action had been taken within the army.

One Province with Civil Rights.

Only in Matanzas province do citizens retain their constitutional rights. Pinar del Rio and Oriente provinces lost their guarantees some time ago.

The action gives the government the right to search private homes without search warrants, to hold prisoners without preferring charges against them, and to open private mail.

The secretary of justice announced tonight meanwhile that "squatters" on some thousands of acres of land in Oriente province, where a miniature communist state has been set up, would be evicted. The delicate question of property rights in Oriente, claimed by hillmen and their families by virtue of royal grant from Spain, flared into near violence several weeks ago when the belligerent dwellers took up arms to prevent a survey by soldiers acting under Supreme court orders.

A few weeks later the hillmen set up a miniature soviet government, allegedly headed by a Negro named Lico Alvarez.

Machado in Hamburg.

HAMBURG, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Gerardo Machado, former president of Cuba, sought seclusion in a boarding house today after completing his voyage from the Dominican republic where he had sought refuge following efforts of the Cuban government to extradite him from the United States. Machado was said to be preparing to go to Interlaken, Switzerland, for a few weeks and later to Italy.

VOTE TRUE BILLS AGAINST SEVEN IN BANK FRAUD

Seven men were reported named yesterday in true bills growing out of their alleged plot to loot the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard, and the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill.

The first of three true bills, on which bond of $25,000 for each of the defendants was set, charged four of the men with embezzlement of $55,000 from the bank. Those named are Dave (Long Count) Barry, who refereed the second Dempsey-Tunney championship fight; Joseph Baiata, ex-convict; Otto van Derck, 23 years old, a clerk in the bank, whose confession caused the arrest of the others, and Abraham Karatz, former lawyer of St. Paul, Minn.

The second true bill charged conspiracy to defraud the life insurance company of $25,000 and intent to defraud the company of $13,000,000 in assets. Reported named in this true bill are Barry, Baiata, van Derck, Karatz, Gustav Lindquist, fugitive president of the insurance company; W. W. Ehlers, who was set up in a brokerage business by Baiata, and Hayden Sanders, once assistant cashier of the bank.

All seven of the defendants were reported named in a third true bill charging conspiracy to embezzle funds from the bank. Bond of $10,000 each was set for the defendants in the last two true bills.

OWNER AWARDED DOG; NOW HE HAS TO LOCATE HIM

Olney B. Kent of Libertyville, seed specialist for the Quaker Oats company, was awarded Peter, an English wire haired fox terrier, yesterday by order of Justice of the Peace James G. Barber in Evanston.

Now Kent shares with Constable Henry Kluge the problem of finding the dog.

Kent brought a replevin action to get the dog from Delbert S. Sutton, 911 Elmwood avenue, Evanston. He told Justice Barber that he had left Peter with Sutton while he made a trip with his wife.

On his return, Kent said, Sutton refused to give up the dog. Sutton did not appear in court and Justice Barber declared Kent owner of the dog and awarded him $250 damages.

Then Kent and Constable Kluge went to the Sutton home to get the dog. They were met at the door by Mrs. Sutton.

"Peter doesn't live here any more," she announced, and shut the door.

AUTO FACTORY UNIONS OPPOSE POLICY OF BOARD

Would End Pact Made with Roosevelt.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was notified today by representatives of the automobile unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. that they wish to withdraw from President Roosevelt's agreement into which they entered about seven months ago.

That agreement created a board to sit in this city composed of a representative from the employer, one from the employé, and an impartial chairman representing the government.

Charge Labor Is Silenced.

Labor representatives say that board soon after its creation adopted a rule providing for unanimous opinions which "hamstrung the labor member."

President Green also was requested to urge President Roosevelt to "appoint an impartial board to operate within the automobile industry under joint resolution 44 and in accord with the ruling of the national labor board." This request was included in a resolution adopted by the auto unions' council last night.

Members of the automobile unions were instructed to follow the ruling of F. J. Dillon, Detroit organizer of the A. F. of L., not to participate in plant elections as announced by the automobile labor board.

Cadillac Election Comes Soon.

The first of those elections is expected shortly in the Cadillac Motor Car company plant where representatives of employés would be elected on a proportional basis.

The Detroit district labor council criticized labor representative Richard Byrd, member of the automobile labor board.

CHICAGO STORES TO LIST SALES TAX UPON BILLS

In conformity with a new ruling by the state department of finance, many Chicago retail stores today will establish a uniform system of showing plainly on all bills and sales slips the charges due to the Illinois sales tax.

K. L. Ames Jr., director of the department, announced last Saturday that the retailers of the state may follow this practice instead of including this item of cost in the prices asked for articles, as many merchants have been doing because an official ruling on this point had not been obtainable.

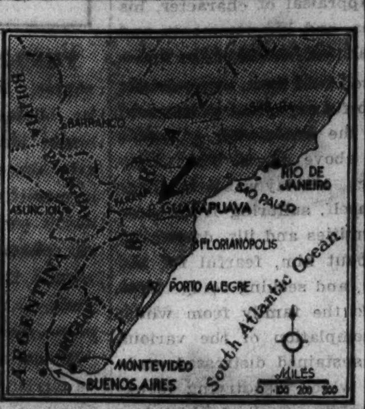
The announcement of the new uniform policy came from the mercantile division of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in a statement that uniformity will be established soon throughout the state. The schedule to be followed provides for a 1 cent tax on articles costing from 10 cents to 65 cents, inclusive, and an addition of 2 cents on articles costing between 66 cents and $1.00.

ULM, TWO OTHER FLYERS GIVEN UP; NAVY STOPS HUNT

HONOLULU, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The navy is convinced further search for Lieut. Charles T. P. Ulm and his two companions, George Littlejohn and J. L. Spilling, is futile, and "with profound regret" is discontinuing the hunt. This was announced late today by Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, district naval commandant.

"Seven days have passed since the plane Star of Australia [flying from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu] landed at sea about 9:30 a. m. Dec. 4 in the vicinity of the Hawaiian Islands," said Admiral Yarnell. "It is with profound regret that the commandant considers further effort will be to no avail."

MYSTERY REVIVED



CURITYBA, Brazil, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The skeleton of a man was reported found near the wreckage of an airplane in dispatches today from Guarapuava. Domingo Cruz, a native, came upon it.

The suggestion was advanced that the body might be that of Paul Rinaldo Redfern, who took off from Brunswick, Ga., Aug. 25, 1927, on an attempt to fly nonstop the 4,600 miles to Rio de Janeiro and disappeared south of Venezuela.

The disappearance of Redfern, only three months after Charles A. Lindbergh had flown from New York to Paris, caused a widespread manhunt. Several expeditions into the interior of Brazil in search of him failed.

The point where the plane wreckage was found was considerably off what would be the course from Venezuela, where Redfern was last definitly reported. Guarapuava is in the south central section of the state of Parana, 635 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro.

At Rio de Janeiro the belief was expressed that the skeleton was that of some revolutionary pilot who crashed during the Sao Paulo uprising of 1932.

AMERICAN WHO VANISHED 2 YEARS AGO FOUND IN RIO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 11.—(AP)—His true identity unknown to the numerous Americans and Brazilians with whom he has come in contact here during nearly two years since his sensational disappearance from Portland, Ore., Lee Schlesinger, former owner of a chain of department stores on the west coast, has been living and conducting a small but thriving business in Rio de Janeiro. He is using an assumed name.

Interviewed today, Schlesinger had only monosyllables for reminiscences of Portland. Of his stores he said "they are in the hands of bankers." Of his strange departure from home: "I have done nothing of which I am ashamed." He pleaded that his assumed name be not revealed to the public.

Schlesinger disappeared the night of Dec. 28, 1932, when his automobile plunged into the Columbia river near Portland, Ore. He was believed to have perished in the supposed accident. Some time after Schlesinger's disappearance another son of the family committed suicide in Los Angeles. Family financial reverses were believed responsible.

Schlesinger is a Stanford university graduate and is married to the former Miss Laura Anderson, Los Angeles, a college classmate. Mrs. Schlesinger and the couple's two children, Eleanor, 10, and Lee Jr., 6, are living in Los Angeles.

NEW QUAKES AND HEAVY STORMS STRIKE HONDURAS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Continuance of the strong earth shocks which caused widespread destruction in central and western Honduras last week caused great alarm today in the Santa Rita, Copan, and Cabanas districts.

As Cerro Negro was still in eruption the fear was felt that the succession of earth disturbances might be climaxed by still another major earthquake.

Heavy storms continued in the western earthquake zone. Torrential rains and winds of hurricane velocity swept the banana zone in the northern region. Official reports said a large bridge spanning the Lean river had been partly destroyed.

Free Orchestra Leader Held in Girl's Suicide

Police Magistrate Frank Pavek yesterday freed Norman Wing, 23 years old, an orchestra leader, of charges of statutory rape and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The charges grew out of a confession made by Wing following the suicide Nov. 7 of Anna Vacek, 15 year old waitress in the Willow Springs tavern of George Dugdale. Assistant State's Attorney William Rotchford told the court that there was not sufficient corroborative evidence to prosecute Wing.

MR. WALLACE ON RUTHLESS GO-GETTING.

Secretary Wallace's address before the World Alliance for International Friendship in New York was, in effect, a preachment directed at the wealthy. Mr. Wallace called them "ruthless go-getters." He said they were "still determined to get theirs."

He may be right; but who is he to read a lecture to others on the evils of ruthless go-getting? On Dec. 3 the Supreme court of the United States unanimously ordered to trial the anti-trust suit brought by the Indiana Farmers' Guide against the Wallace Publishing company and other defendants accused of conspiring to monopolize the sale of advertising space in farm publications. Mr. Wallace was head of the Wallace Publishing company when the alleged conspiracy was formed. The defendants tried to escape trial by pleading that the question of interstate commerce was not involved. The Supreme court made short work of that contention. In view of the fact that a conspiracy to monopolize trade is, of all forms of go-getting, the most ruthless [or at least was so regarded in this country until March 4, 1933], Mr. Wallace might well have reserved his accusations against others at least until he had been cleared of the charge himself.

Mr. Wallace is already in court on one complaint alleging ruthlessness in the conduct of private affairs and the time may come when he will be in court on another allegation of the same sort. As principal stockholders in the Hi-Bred Seed company he and his wife have been placed in a position to profit from the government's acreage reduction program which he sponsored. The government, thanks to Secretary Wallace, paid the farmers a bounty for planting fewer acres to corn; thereupon Mr. Wallace the seed merchant offered them an article [at a fancy price] which would enable them to grow almost as much corn as they ever did despite the reduced acreage. His company even published advertisments in Wallace's Farmer to that effect. This may not be ruthless and it may not be go-getting in Mr. Wallace's eyes, but to others the words will seem to fit.

While on the subject of ruthlessness, Mr. Wallace might have gone a step further and called attention to a matter with which he has been closely associated in his official capacity. He might have discussed the operations of the Bankhead law which has deprived hundreds of thousands of families in the cotton belt of what little they had been able to earn. The President himself virtually confessed it all when he recommended a few days ago that farmers growing two bales of cotton or less be exempted from the operations of the law next year. He said there were 300,000 such families.

Two bales of cotton are worth about $120, and it was these $120 families—300,000 of them—which the New Deal had kicked still further down the economic ladder.

Meanwhile Mr. Vincent Astor, the well known tenement house proprietor and host at numerous presidential yachting parties, seems to be getting by. So, too, is Mr. Ralph Morrison, the Texas millionaire. The New Dealers may regard his large income as evidence of ruthlessness, but they were not indignant to the point of refusing a loan for the completion of the Buchanan dam in which he is reputed to have a substantial interest.

As the share croppers, the tenant farmers and the farm laborers in the Texas cotton fields have been ground under, thanks to the New Deal, the Texas millionaire has been placed in a position to increase his already swollen fortune, thanks again to the New Deal. The contrast is one to which Mr. Wallace in his dual rôle of secretary of agriculture and Old Testament prophet might give a few moments of undivided attention.

NIAGARA FALLS AGAIN.

Another slide of rock has cracked off 200 thousand tons of the face of Niagara, on the Canadian side, from the Horseshoe Falls plateau. The edge of the falls has been receding under erosion, retreating about five feet a year for an estimated period of 30 thousand years. The remarks appended may seem to have nothing to do with the case, but there is brought to mind one of the most interesting of America's public characters in the first year of the American republic, William Maclay of Pensylvania.

Maclay, who was a scholarly farmer living near Harrisburg, was Pennsylvania's first senator to the first congress of the United States meeting in New York. He was Pennsylvania's first senator because, although elected for the short term of two years, he reported for duty some time before Robert Morris, the other Pennsylvania senator, took his seat. Maclay left a journal in which he set down painstakingly his experiences during these memorable two years, along with his expressions of sentiment, his appraisal of character, his description of personages, and his comments and reflections upon the morals and modes of the times.

His journal reveals a well read man, scrupulously honest, impatient of doubtful expedients, distressed by political intrigue, by the weaknesses of public characters, and critical, above all, of what Alexander Hamilton was doing. Maclay was a crotchety fellow, quite sure of himself, suffering from some distressing physical infirmities and ills, despairing of the world he saw about him, fearful for the future of the new nation, and seeking refuge from disillusion in devotion to the family from which he was absent, in contemplation of the various philosophies which had sustained distressed souls for ages and in science which was trying to explain the world to its inhabitants, all of which has nothing to do with Niagara falls except as it leads to the following.

Maclay notes in his journal that one dull day in the senate he was called aside by a friend who made some interesting conversation on the Niagara attrition with which he was familiar. [Feb. 1, 1790.] The Pennsylvania senator was taken by the idea that the age of the world might be determined by the yardstick of the annual erosion. Assuming that when the world sprang into space the precipice was at Lewiston, then the distance it had moved on its way to Lake Erie, translated into years, would give man his definite idea of how long this globe had been running around the orb of day.

"People who have known the place since Sir William Johnson took possession of it," wrote Maclay, "about 30 years ago, give out that there is an attrition of 20 feet in that time. Now if 20 feet = 30 years = 7 miles or 36,960; answer 55,440 years." Having done his figuring and satisfying himself, the senator resumed his favorite exercise in pessimism, that of wondering how long the same world could hold out under the wicked financial plans of Mr. Hamilton.

THE FRUITS OF OUR SILVER POLICY.

The financial news from China is disquieting. Our policy of buying silver at an artificially high price led in the first instance to a heavy movement of silver from Chinese banks, where it was useful as backing for the currency, to our treasury vaults, where it is useless and sterile. In consequence Chinese bankers were forced to call loans and restrict credits.

In further consequence, Chinese bankers in the interior became nervous and began to pull their silver deposits out of Shanghai and other banking centers and thereby made matters worse. The Chinese are finding themselves in the midst of a violent deflationary movement, accompanied by many of the symptoms of stagnation, bankruptcy, and panic with which we have been all too familiar in this country. Thus far the efforts of the Chinese government to protect the currency have failed.

The situation will bear watching. It was the failure of a bank in Austria when the depression seemed to be lifting which precipitated the financial crisis in central Europe and in turn drove England off the gold standard and led to the most acute of our banking difficulties. The consequences of the Chinese deflation may not prove so serious, but it is altogether probable that the economic disorganization of China will work some injury to our economy.

If that happens it will not be difficult to place the blame. The government's silver policy was opposed vehemently by almost every competent economist in the country and no doubt by the nonpolitical experts in the treasury as well. Nevertheless, the experiment was undertaken simply because the senators from seven or eight sparsely populated western states turned the heat on and kept it turned on. Nothing has happened in China's economy which was not predicted, and predicted in detail, by monetary experts before the administration surrendered to the silver bloc.

The Chinese are suffering today because of a shameless political deal engineered in Washington. The deal was calculated to subsidize a handful of mine owners and miners in silver producing states at whatever cost to the American people and the people of other countries. Our administration stands convicted of lack of principle and recklessness. We can only hope that the price the nation will have to pay will not be a heavy one.

GAS AND CARBON BLACK.

[Dallas Morning News.]

How Texas produces 79 per cent of the carbon black supply of the United States and what this production means to the automobile tire industry is related in an article in the News Nov. 30. This product is another of which Texas may happily boast of being "first among the states." It is first in the world, too, for it produces 64 per cent of the total supply of this highly utilized material that goes out into the industrial world to confer its benefits on millions.

Boiled down, the facts do not show, however, that Texas receives a large reward for the prodigal expenditure of half a billion cubic feet of natural gas daily. As matters now stand the turning of this much gas into carbon black is actually a process of conservation because, under present Texas law, most of it would be blown into the air after the natural gasoline stripping process were it not burned for carbon. Yet, viewed strictly from the viewpoint of the actual fuel, or potential market value of the gas, the carbon black process does a relatively small bit. The burning of 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas to produce a little more than one pound of carbon which, in turn, sells for 3 cents to 5 cents a pound is, after all, a prodigal waste of a natural resource.

The next session of the legislature should do something about the waste of gas in the Panhandle. First attention, of course, should be given to the discharge of "stripped" gas into the atmosphere at the natural gasoline plants. Repressuring of this gas should be required, if no other solution is found. As for the manufacture of carbon black, an investigation should be made of recently discovered manufacturing processes which produce three and four times as much carbon from 1,000 cubic feet of gas as is manufactured by the present wasteful process. If the new method is at all practicable its installation should be required, even though the cost of producing a pound of carbon black is increased appreciably. Under present circumstances Texas is rapidly acquiring a reputation for being "first among the states" in the prodigal waste of a great natural resource.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE LITTLE BIRDS WERE RIGHT about this winter! It's going to be nothing but snow, cold, ice, blizzards, and more snow. Which suggests a bright idea for a Christmas present. Why not give him a handsome snow shovel? It would not be merely a useful present—I hate useful presents—but it could be made a thing of beauty. Lovely silk ribbons of delicate shades should be entwined around the handle and tied in great bow knots. Then on the scoop part of the thing some appropriate motto could be painted in gold leaf, such as "Where are the snows of yesteryear?" or "Dig, ye terrier, dig." Then, of course, the name of the recipient of the pretty present could be painted in lavender and salmon pink letters down one side of the handle. And how pleased the happy gents who get shovels for presents will be and how they will make the welkin ring with three rousing cheers for good old Santa Claus. Likell! Likell. Likell!

I GOT A SNOW SHOVEL ONCE for Christmas when I was praying for a pair of skates and a coaster sled so I could go swishing down the Fourth Ward school hill on my tummy. But instead I got three Christmas cards with churches on in some kind of frosting and the snow shovel. But I was careless with the snow shovel. That very night the laughing boys and girls sliding down the hill on their new sleds had a bonfire to warm up by. And do you know that nice Christmas present snow shovel of mine slipped right out of my hands and fell in the fire and just naturally burned up. I was so sorry. But accidents, as has been said before, will happen.

4:30 P. M.—NOVEMBER.

I say of November twilight in the rain,
this alone I love, and am quite sure,
watching the cars come northward on the drive, constantly coming northward, each one lighted;
feeling the clouds of mist touch on my face, seeing the higher clouds float through a sky
gray and cold, quietly and fast.
I say in the rain, speaking with myself,
this hour is dear to me, this time of year,
this rain is the visible rhythm of my soul.

The untethered clouds, constantly, with no sound, shroud the far gray tops of slender buildings wherein before bright hearth-fires people sit groomed and comfortable, out of the mist and dusk, sipping their drinks and smiling their evening smiles.
Surely in one of those high and solid places the thought is fact, the scene is taking place.

I walk still farther though my own warm home waits a block away for my key in the lock.
Not turning at my corner, passing by the street into which my curtained windows give,
I go yet forward in the autumn rain.

This one thing only goes unanswered:
Do I wander on because I search for something I shall find, or because the thing already is mine, and safe within my heart?

THE FANCY DRESS PARTY given by Mrs. Roosevelt to cheer up the lonesome wives whose husbands attended the once world famous and epoch-making Gridiron club dinner in Washington got columns and columns of excited description and photographs in the newspapers. About all the Gridiron club got out of it was a mention at the end of the stories regarding Mrs. Roosevelt's party, a line or two saying that the White House masquerade was to entertain the wives whose husbands attended a dinner at the Gridiron club. It looks as though the next dinner at the Gridiron club will be given to cheer up the lonesome husbands of the ladies who attended Mrs. Roosevelt's fancy dress party.

THE MODEST VIOLET

growing so timidly by the side of a moss covered rock in a deep glade in the forest is a lovely, dainty flower, but that doesn't get it anything. The haughty orchid costs thousands of dollars and young men live on hot dog sandwiches, a glass of water, and a toothpick for three weeks to buy the adored one a dozen American Beauty roses. But the poor little violet, ruthless picnickers pounce on it with screams of joy, grab it from its protecting rock, carry it a few miles in the car and then say, "Oh, shucks! the darned thing's wilted," and out the window it must go. So who wants to be a violet? Anyhow, I don't, and so here goes a letter that came in the mail yesterday: "Now, just see what you all have went and gone and done! While doing my Christmas shopping I spied the Linebooks and I bought one. On my way to the station to get a train back to dear old Texas I stopped in a restaurant and while waiting for the steak I read the Linebook. And I laughed so durned hard over the wheezes I spilled my highball all over my new suit. Then I discovered Nancy Shores' 'Sonnet LXXXV.' and cried so hard that people at the other tables got sorry for me and passed the hat, and the waitress brought the collection to me, eighty-nine cents, two suspender buttons, a plugged dime, and three corks. But also she said would I please go outside and weep because it was spoiling the trade; people just couldn't stand it. Why don't you warn us strangers that that little Linebook carries such a wallop? Yours thankfully,

TEXAN."

IT IS NOT STRANGE.

A creature fashioned both of stars and slime,
  How can we think it such a curious thing
That man should have a contradictory soul
  Which crawls or soars with endless blundering?

It is not strange, being so discrepantly
  Brought forth, that he should stumble in the mire
And then, transfigured like a very god,
  Stand on a peak and clutch at heaven's fire!

ADELAIDE LOVE.

I KNEW IT WOULD HAPPEN. I met a man yesterday and he said, "Is this cold enough cold cold enough for you you you?" That's what comes of Gertrude Stein's lecturing lecturing lecturing here. Gosh gosh gosh! I've got got got it too too too!

THE ENDOCRINE GLANDS.
PART II.

ONE can scarcely believe that a gland no larger than the end of the little finger can completely upset the body functions of an otherwise normal adult. Yet, as was noted in yesterday's article, the parathyroid glands have this power and occasionally exercise it. There are other important endocrines.

Thyroid gland: If the thyroid gland secretes too little of its particular hormone the condition known as myxedema develops. In removing a diseased thyroid the surgeon will leave enough of the gland so that this disturbance will not occur. The active principle of the thyroid is known as thyroxin, and the administration of this substance supplies the needed hormone when the gland fails to function.

Cretinism in infants and children is closely related to myxedema in adults and occurs because at birth the thyroid may be absent or improperly developed. In this condition symptoms do not appear until about the age of six months, possibly because the mother's milk contains sufficient thyroid substance. The child is slow in holding the head up, in walking, and in speech. The mental development is backward, bony growth is retarded, the skin is thickened, and the tongue is enlarged and protrudes from the mouth. Both cretinism and myxedema are greatly helped by the administration of thyroid extract or of thyroxin.

When the thyroid gland secretes too actively the condition known as Graves' disease or toxic goiter develops. The heart becomes very rapid and the patient is nervous and trembly. Should a person whose thyroid gland is normal take thyroxin in any appreciable amount symptoms of toxic goiter will follow.

The thyroid also has a controling function, possibly in connection with the other glands of internal secretion, in establishing and maintaining the metabolic level in the body, that is, the rate at which the body burns tissues and food. If the thyroid is overactive the body burns its tissues at a rapid rate. If it is underactive fat is deposited and the individual becomes overweight and sluggish, both mentally and physically. It has also been shown that there is a close relationship between the thyroid and the hormones secreted by the ovarics.

Adrenal glands: The adrenals measure 1¼ to 2 inches in length, and one is situated on the upper and front part of each kidney. Each gland consists of an outer and an inner part. Each part produces a distinct type of secretion. Removal of both adrenal glands in animals results in death within a few days.

There is a disease named after a famous English physician, Thomas Addison, that we now generally understand as tuberculosis of the adrenals. It is characterized by anemia, languor, debility, and a peculiar browning of the skin. Even the mucous lining of the mouth becomes discolored. The patient with this disease appears perfectly well nourished as far as his muscles are concerned, yet he is constantly tired and desires to do nothing but sleep and rest. The blood pressure falls to a low level and the patient becomes progressively weaker.

It has been found that if these patients can be given an extract of the outer portion of the adrenal glands they will greatly improve. This extract is called cortin and it has a definite effect in restoring muscles to normal power, thus enabling the individual to engage in active work. It also appears to have a definite relation to the use by the body of carbohydrates.

From the secretion of the inner portion the substance known as epinephrin or adrenalin is obtained. This particular substance is constantly thrown off by the adrenal glands in very minute quantities and plays a positive rôle in maintaining blood pressure, in slowing and strengthening the heart beat, and in the utilization of carbohydrates. It enables the body to meet sudden demands for physical activity.

The discussion of endocrine glands will be concluded tomorrow.

IODINE FOR GOITER.

M. S. B. writes: Is the iodine treatment for goiter all right? Our doctor told me it was not. Does goiter make one stay overweight?

REPLY.

Iodine should not be taken for goiter except under the direction of your physician. In certain stages of the disease it may be exceedingly valuable. In others it aggravates the condition. If you are overweight you may lack thyroid secretion.

LUMBAGO TREATMENT.

M. G. C. writes: I am now recovering from a mild attack of lumbago, ostensibly brought on by reaching rather suddenly for a paper which dropped on the floor. A hot bath on the second day of a similar attack about a year ago gave me immediate and complete relief.

REPLY.

The remedy used is excellent. Heat and water will promote toxin elimination.

ENLARGED HEART.

Miss M. S. writes: A physician told me I have a slightly enlarged heart, but he did not enter into any discussion of it. Do you think I ought to have medical attention?

REPLY.

Your physician should determine whether there is true heart disease or not. "Slightly enlarged heart" probably means nothing.

INCOME FROM ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About eight years ago my grandmother died, leaving my brother $300 and me $200, which we were to get when we became of age. The executor of the estate was named guardian. When I was going to school a judge got an order from the court to allow me to get money when needed. I noticed in the bank book that I had my full amount of $300, but no interest. 1. Should I not have received interest? The guardian later told me he had it invested. 2. Did he have a right to invest my money without my consent or knowledge? If so, [3] has he any right to keep the profit? My brother got his money when he became of age, but he got only $280. The lawyer [our guardian] told my brother that he kept $20 for lawyer's fee. 4. Has he any right to charge a fee after charging an enormous sum on the whole estate? My brother received no interest, either. 5. Wasn't it the guardian's duty to open an account at a bank where it would draw interest? 6. If he had it invested, has he any right to keep the profits? 7. Has the lawyer any right to make money on money that really isn't his? 8. What action can we take to secure the full amount and interest?

M. W.

1. Depends on the terms on which it was deposited with the bank and on how long it was left there.
2. It could not be invested and on deposit in the bank at the same time.
3. No.
4. Yes.
5. Not necessarily, but if he did place the money where it earned interest he should give you the interest.
6. See preceding answers.
7. Same.
8. If you wish to force matters you should employ an attorney.

FEE SIMPLE VS. LIFE INTEREST.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A died in Illinois leaving a farm, a house, and $20,000 in farm mortgages "to my wife, 'B,' and to her heirs forever." Heirs include three children of A and B. 1. Can B will the major part of the estate to one child, leaving $1,000 to each of the other two? 2. Would each of the three heirs be considered equal and come in for a third each? 3. Can B place the farm and house in joint tenancy with one child and leave the remainder of the estate to the three heirs?

F. F.

1. Yes. The phrase "and to her heirs" merely means that she gets a fee simple as distinguished from a life interest.
2. See 1.
3. Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ASSIGNMENT OF WAGES.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago I bought a coat from a credit concern. I paid the instalments for two months and then lost my job, notifying them of this fact. The manager promised to let me pay as I could. About five weeks later I got another job with very little pay, and because I had to pay rent first I let the coat payments go for a while. Then without warning the credit store stopped my wages, which also caused me to lose my job. I returned the coat, which had been worn very little, and was made to take a storage slip for it. I had just secured another job this fall and decided to pay again on my coat when again the credit concern found out about my work and stopped my check again. Again I lost my job because of this. 1. Can they keep on doing this to me while they still have the coat in their possession? 2. Being a married man, can I not receive a certain per cent of my salary even if they garnishee my wages? Can I sue them for damages?

J. C. S.

1. The assignment of wages is not good against your new employment. If you can prove that the creditor caused you to lose your job by serving a false notice that he had a valid assignment of wages against your second employment, it might be worth your while to employ an attorney to collect damages.
2. Your exemption against garnishment is $20 a week. Your letter does not make clear whether an assignment of wages or garnishment is involved.

THE REPUBLICANS OF HINSDALE.

Hinsdale, Ill., Dec. 5.—Only two things are necessary to prove that the Republicans are still with us. First, put up good candidates, and, second, get the votes out.

The result of voting here in Hinsdale Nov. 6 proves the contention. The Republican ticket carried generally. The two Democrats who made strong runs were locally known and good men. Notice how strong the A-No. 1 Republicans ran. Judge Knoch, for instance, simply ran away from his opponent. Judge Knoch is able and commands respect and support. He went into Chicago to help your crowded calendar and sent quite a few of your scalawags, Republicans and Democrats, to jail for election frauds.

Out here the women keep the Republican party alive. Two years ago the Republican Women's club refused to indorse some of the Republicans and recommended Democrats. This time the Republican ticket was improved. The women went to work and they got a good vote.

We do not need any change in name of our party. The Republicans are still here. They are only voting for Democrats because they are against the kind of Republicans put up by fossilized or everything-for-us-and-to-hell-with-the-public bosses who claim to be Republicans but in reality are constantly training with the Democratic bosses for trading possibilities.

You do not have to go to Michigan to prove the Republicans are still a forceful party. We can prove it in Hinsdale.

PRIME NUMBERS.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 6.—On the front page of today's TRIBUNE is an article about the 78 digit prime number Prof. Krieger established.

I cannot prove that this number is not prime and I doubt very much whether anybody else can. Considering, however, Prof. Krieger's ability in the field of mathematics, it should be assumed prime until definitly found factorable.

I do want to take exception, however, to the last six lines of the article which read: "Intricate mathematical machines will determine whether numbers up to eleven digits are prime, but no method previous to his own has been known for testing numbers larger than that, Dr. Krieger said."

If Dr. Krieger actually said that he made a misstatement. About four or five months ago, I believe, I called his attention to work done by Prof. Lehmer and his son at the University of California on prime numbers by means of a machine which was demonstrated at the Hall of Science at the World's Fair. I told him of a pamphlet released by the Carnegie institute of Washington on March 12, 1933, describing their machine and some of their work.

In 1927 or 1928 "such a device called a congruence machine was invented and constructed by Derrick Henry Lehmer. . . . This machine, crude though it was, decomposed in two hours a number of 16 digits in two factors." Later a better machine split a binary of nineteen digits in its two factors in 3 seconds!

It may be possible that some day this machine will put Prof. Krieger's prime to the test and that it will come out, not as a whole but in two or more factorial pieces.

A rigorous proof that it is a prime of course would preclude this probability.

DIRK DEKKER.

ABOUT HOUSING.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—What a new deal is in store for Chicago! The government is employing innocent young things like Miss Elizabeth Woods, who is styled "secretary of the metropolitan housing bureau," to make the rounds of women's clubs and tell them how lovely federal housing is. She charmingly related before the Woman's City club how eleven people in a destitute family slept in one bed, and told before the Hyde Park League of Women Voters how one family in Chicago had a baby's milk bottle cooled in a toilet bowl. Just how PWA housing was to supply the extra beds, or educate the people to other uses for a toilet, she didn't make clear.

According to her the Chicago Plan is but a "scrap of paper—a pretty thing all red and green and pretty colors." It is to be junked and in its place is to be federal housing.

Will some one please inform the lady that there are thousands of apartments and houses in Chicago with all the air and light imaginable that are now lying vacant while she lectures on the need of new homes? If the government is allowed to create a greater oversupply of homes, how is it going to avert the ruin to the owners of the homes that will be further vacated?

As to the Chicago Plan, it may be just paper to some, but to Chicagoans who studied it at school and who paid for it dollar by dollar it is green in the faith of the men who planned and the millions who staked their lives' earnings in the most beautiful city in the world surrounded by parks and boulevards. It is red with the blood payments of Chicago's overtaxed citizenry, some of whom are scraping their last cents to pay their overdue taxes for that Chicago Plan. The abandonment of the Chicago Plan and the government's proposal to build a cheap housing area two blocks from the lake at 37th and 39th streets where a gold coast is planned would mean not only the loss of faith in all Chicago plans and promises, but the complete unbalancing of all Chicago real estate.

WHERE DO BIRDS LEARN THEIR SONGS?

Macoupin, Ill., Nov. 30.—I have just read an article by The Debunker, Ph. D. The doctor states that song birds have to be taught their songs by their parents, etc. Now, I am not a Ph. D., but I have taken a postgraduate course close to nature for some 40 years, having lived with and identified some 157 different birds in that time here in Macoupin county. I have seen the cardinal redbird taken from his nest before he could fly or sing, and he became a wonderful singer and he sang like a cardinal. Who taught him? I have seen the common cowbird hatched and fed by cardinals, chewinks, indigo buntings, and the field sparrow. He has a distinct song or chatter of his own unlike any of his foster parents, and all cowbirds sing alike.

I think it happens just like apples grow on apple trees—the Maker has endowed each individual bird with his own song and he doesn't have to be taught. Nuttall states he took catbirds, orioles, mocking birds, and brown thrushes from their nests and reared them, and spoke of their songs in his home. No parent bird was there to teach them. Get out in the country, professor, and learn your stuff. Go to the game farms and listen to incubator hatched birds sing like their parents, not incubators.

There's something especially flattering about a "beauty gift." Something intimate and charming. It implies that she who receives it is a fastidious creature with a taste for luxury that should be indulged. It suggests that you who give it have a special understanding of her moods. It whispers of glamour, of romance. And it offers unlimited possibilities for individuality and originality of selection. Particularly at Field's!

Shopping for beauty gifts at Field's is in itself a pleasurable experience. In these wide aisles, at these scented spots are gathered the newest and smartest products of the cosmetic world. The ones you see in Harper's Bazaar and Vogue . . . the ones you read about in Fashions of the Hour! They're arranged for easy choosing in two sections (one near Randolph, one near Washington) on the first floor of the State Street building.

30 STARS TO SING SUNDAY IN OPERA BENEFIT CONCERT

Participants, Even Stage Hands, to Give Services.

A benefit concert, with the singers and musicians contributing their talent amid settings donated for the occasion, will be held in the Civic Opera house on Sunday night. The proceeds will augment the fund being gathered to assure continuance of grand opera in Chicago.

The project was conceived and arranged by Paul Longone, artistic director of the company, who will participate in the concert as one of several directors. The other conductors will be Henry Weber, Gennaro Pepi, who is musical director for the company; Dr. Frank Laird Waller, and Isaac Van Grove, who will be in charge of all stage effects for the concert.

Every Participant Gives Time.

The roster of more than thirty stars who will participate includes most of the names of prominence of the present season. They and all others concerned have agreed to serve without pay for the occasion, and the opera house trustees have contributed the building for the concert. Even the stage hands and artisans are giving their services.

"It will be an extraordinary occasion," Mr. Longone said. "Not since the passing of Cleofonte Campanini has a concert offered such an array of well known singers, the full orchestra and chorus body of a large opera company, and a group of first line conductors."

Imposing List of Stars.

Some of the stars who have volunteered are Edith Mason, Hope Hampton, Jean Tennyson, Lucia Diano, Leola Turner, Margery Maxwell, Anna Turkel, Hilda Burke, and Janet Fairbank, all sopranos. Mezzo-sopranos and altos include Coe Glade, Mari Barova, Maria Olszewska, Sonia Sharnova, Helen Ornstein, and Eleanor La Mance.

Distinguished tenors on the program include Chamlee, Hackett, Duncan, Melchior, and Pane-Gasser. The baritones include Morelli, Royer, Fiorella, Frigerio, and Huehn. Among the bassos are Baromeo, Guidi, and Lazzari.

Despite the imposing array of talent prices will be moderate, Director Longone said. Boxes and main floor seats will sell for $2.50, and the other seats will be priced at $2, $1.50, $1, 75 cents, and 50 cents.

RECOVER BODY OF IRISHMAN FROM CAVED-IN WELL

GREYSTONE, Irish Free State, Dec. 12 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The body of Joseph O'Leary, buried alive last Saturday while working in a 45 foot well here, was recovered at 2 a. m. today by soldiers.

Death ended yesterday the agonies he suffered under tons of earth and rock which poured upon him as he stood on a ladder.

The extrication moved slowly as fresh falls of earth threatened the diggers. O'Leary lived more than 48 hours with only his head and arms free until a new slide buried him.

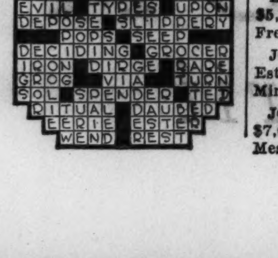
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

This day, Dec. 12, might well be called Marconi day. Thirty-three years ago today Guglielmo Marconi, a young Italian, at St. John's, Newfoundland, using an antenna held aloft by a kite, plucked from the sky three faint buzzes—the three dots of the letter "S," flashed across the sea 1,800 miles from the tip of England. That experiment cost $200,000 and gave birth to wireless in a wider sense and, in turn, to radio telephony and broadcasting.

Marconi, now 60 years old but still zealous in radio research, last week entered a London nursing home to rest from his labors in the laboratory. And radio has become a billion dollar industry reaching into 18,000,000 homes in our nation alone.

On this the 33d anniversary of radio the broadcasting industry finds itself facing a puzzling question: What will happen to the 500 radio stations and the millions of receiving sets if television is introduced?

Radio finds itself in a unique situation. It holds the patents, the secrets that can bring television into flower. But what would be the result if visual radio were introduced on a big scale today? Wouldn't it kill sound broadcasting? In all industrial history seldom has a major industry launched an even greater industry without menacing itself. Sound pictures cost the nation a half billion dollars and put silent pictures on the shelf. The radio industry wants to introduce television without at once and entirely destroying the present system, if it can.

Broadcasters recall that the kerosene lamp makers did not introduce the electric light, the ice man did not develop the refrigerator, railroads did not promote buses or airplanes, the telegraph did not foster the telephone, nor did the telephone or telegraph back radio.

Radio holds a high trump card. But is now the time to play it? The key men in radio realize that television will come sooner or later. If not through broadcasting then it is bound to make its appearance through some other avenue. Broadcasting—that is presentation of entertainment over long distances by way of microphonic communication—might have been developed by the telephone industry, at least for its own subscribers. But it wasn't.

Of course, what is hoped for is some natural beginning such as broadcasting experienced in 1920 practically simultaneously in Pittsburgh, Detroit and New York.

Mario Chamlee, who was forced to cancel his engagement to sing "Manon" with Hope Hampton Monday evening because of throat trouble, is to appear in a Sunday afternoon NBC series beginning probably around Feb. 1. Mr. Chamlee probably may have a second commercial program this winter in which he will appear as a dialectician as well as a singer.

MRS. LA ZELLE, NOTED DOCTOR'S WIDOW, IS DEAD

Mrs. Florence La Zelle, 85 years old, widow of Dr. James McLane La Zelle, credited with performing one of the first surgical operations on a wounded soldier in the civil war, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Barnhart, 4455 Drexel boulevard. Mrs. La Zelle was taken there from her home at 5331 Greenwood avenue, after she contracted pneumonia ten days ago.

Dr. La Zelle, widely known in the south, lived at Fairmount, in what later became West Virginia. He was not militarized, but was often called upon to assist army surgeons.

When nearly 30 years old he was the attending physician in Franklin, O., at the birth of the baby girl who later became his wife. After his death in 1885, Mrs. La Zalle moved to Chicago. She was a member of the Woman's Athletic club. Surviving are her daughter, a son, Leo, and a grandson, Arthur Barnhart.

2,000 AT RITES FOR BELLWOOD'S CHIEF OF POLICE

More than 2,000 persons attended the funeral services yesterday for Henry Eggebrecht, chief of police of Bellwood, who died Saturday of a heart attack. The services were held in the Bellwood village hall.

Hundreds unable to get inside stood with bowed heads in the cold and heard the sermon of the Rev. Arthur Selmiteit, pastor of the Bellwood German Lutheran church, which was broadcast over a public address system. A long procession of mourners followed the body to Oakridge cemetery.

Chiefs of police of six suburbs were pallbearers. They were Benjamin Barsema of Oak Park, Carl Soderlin of River Forest, Fred Licht of Forest Park, Richard Bailey of Maywood, Arthur Leeseberg of Melrose Park, and George Kammerow of Elmhurst.

Stock Presents Feuermann in New Program

Cello Soloist Stays Over for Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Emanuel Feuermann stayed over to be the cello soloist at the Tuesday afternoon concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra after having played in the Thursday-Friday pair last week. This time he played the Dvorak Concerto. It was a rather better performance than the one of the Lalo work last Thursday, better, that is, in firmness and brilliancy of tone and more forceful projection, while still retaining the former merits of pure intonation, fine phrasing, and intelligent musicianship.

Conductor Frederick Stock presented an uncommonly pleasant list of orchestral music in the first part of the program. There was the Handel-Harty "Water Music," which never fails of its effect; Ibert's "Escales," three charming pieces in the modern manner, and Scriabin's "The Divine Poem," a symphony which one fears is beginning to age as to certain of its aspects, but still in its best parts is highly wrought color on a vast canvas.

"Mme. Butterfly" was repeated by the Chicago Grand Opera company last night, but this time Hilda Burke appeared as Cho-Cho-San and Helen Ornstein as Suzuki, replacing the former incumbents. It was well worth while attending the performance just to observe how much and how marked talent there is among the younger singers of the company.

Miss Burke, soprano, and Miss Ornstein, contralto, have voices with the charm of youth to which has been added good schooling and a knowledge of the stage. They are part of some rather convincing evidence that opera is due to continue with full vitality.

Through force of circumstances, Giuseppe Bentonelli has been obliged to sing practically every lyric tenor rôle in the répertoire lately, going on again last night after having sung in "Manon" the night before. The only effect seems to be that the oftener he appears the better he sings.

EARLY AND LATE

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

At what time does society arrive at the opera? Anywhere between 7:45, fifteen minutes before the curtain rises, and 8:40, forty minutes late. This was true last night at least. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth were the early birds. They spent the 15 minutes before the performance promenading in the upstairs lobby, accompanied by Mr. Heyworth's niece, Miss Evelyn Kallscheuer, and William Wittmeyer. One of the next arrivals was Huntington Harris, towering head and shoulders above the crowd waiting for the elevators to the balconies at 8 o'clock.

During the next forty minutes, clocking the arrivals, came Mrs. Edwin Dewes, her daughter, Miss Dorothy Dewes, and a beau at 8:06; Miss Barbara Shaffer in white crêpe and an ermine coat, with a beau, at 8:09, and at 8:10 Miss Jean Schweppe and an escort, Miss Schweppe wearing a stunning beaver brown velvet coat with summer ermine cape.

The Donald Boyntons, their daughter, Miss Peggy Boynton, pretty in vivid crimson taffeta; Mrs. Edward A. Smith, Dr. Carl B. Davis, and Donald McClure arrived at 8:11 to occupy the Boyntons' box, followed a minute later by the Kenneth S. Templetons and the Telfer MacArthurs, who share a box on Tuesdays, with Miss Josephine Templeton, in black velvet and a mink wrap, Miss Jean MacArthur and the George Booths.

At 8:14 Miss Suzanne Morris, wearing white crêpe, escorted by Newell Childs, arrived, and three minutes later Miss Caroline McNair and her father, Frank McNair, hurried in. Due to icy roads and snowbanks, Miss McNair had been stalled in Highland Park and only arrived in town to dress at a quarter to eight.

Mrs. George Woodruff, the Clifford Caldwells and Mlle. Lucia Diano arrived at 8:24, followed by the Hubert Burnhams a minute later. Thirteen minutes later the James R. Offields accompanied by their guests, the Alden H. Littles and Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin of Milwaukee arrived. Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, windblown and breathless, ended the parade at twenty minutes to nine.

Good Morning!

Announcing Mr. Eddie Cantor in songs, dancings, eye-rollings!

It becomes his lot to cross the rolling deep in order to collect 77 million dollars. Which gives United Artists ANOTHER chance to stage a revue on an ocean liner.

Now Eddie is a Brooklyn waif, BUT
In E-gypt is treasure
Which, be-lieve it or not, young Ed
Inherits—to his pleasure!
But, ah—alack—alackaday!
The world abounds with crooks low
Who's heard the news and mean to part
Poor Eddie from his dough-dough. . . .

For those who care for musical comedies—and Eddie Cantor—"Kid Millions" has plenty to offer. It has catchy music, unusually classy show girls—Ann Sothern, who can act and is exceedingly easy on the eyes, and Ethel Merman, who can sing and has both looks and comedy sense. It has Eddie, au naturel and in black face. Dialog is quick and many of the situations are amusing.

As a shopping sandwich I'd say that the production fills the bill.

Sir Gilbert Parker once wrote a novel called "Translation of a Savage." "Behold My Wife" is the screenization of that book.

The film presents society folk of wealth and name as being very, very rude and worthless, and holds up a contrast, a noble Indian maid who balks at nothing, from extracting heap bad bullet from no good white man's anatomy, to taking another's sin upon her shoulders. Sin? A murder committed by Mrs. Carter-Curson of the crême de la crême.

I'm afraid you'll think the picture stilted, unconvincing stuff. One thing's certain, that, despite generally creditable acting, you WILL find it ridiculous in spots.

Ann Sheridan does some impressive playing as Mary White, a stenographer. Mary commits suicide as the result of lies told her by Mrs. Carter Curson, who doesn't want her brother to wed the poor working girl. Miss Sheridan brings charm, ability, and most appealing sincerity to poor Mary's brief, hectic moments on the screen.

It is the episode of the suicide which sends Brother Carter out west to fetch home an Indian bride. Miss Sidney, looking picturesque, portrays with some humor the lady redskin designed to lay low the pride of her husband's kinfolk.

This cunningly contrived revenge, you will learn, falls far short of its aim.

See you tomorrow!

Opera Friends Will Hear Five Noted Singers

Mrs. Cornelius Crane Will Be One of Them.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE second meeting of the winter of the Friends of Opera is certain to be a memorable occasion, for Mrs. Charles H. Swift, chairman of the program committee, has secured five excellent artists to provide the music that will entertain the five hundred members when they gather tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Drake ballroom.

Four of the artists are members of the Chicago Grand Opera company and the fifth is an amateur, but she is the possessor of a voice that is so lovely that she undoubtedly would have little trouble in making a success in concert or opera if she chose to become a professional, so a critic who heard her sing said.

She is Mrs. Cornelius Crane, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., and this will be her first appearance as a singer in Chicago other than in her mother-in-law's and some of her friends' drawing rooms.

She and her husband do not live here, but they often spend weeks at a time in the gray stone mansion at Lake Shore drive and North avenue that is Mrs. Crane's residence.

They have been here most of this season and expect to remain with the senior Mrs. Crane until mid-January when they hope to join the former Florence Crane and her husband, William A. Robinson, in Tahiti.

Mrs. Cornelius Crane, whose voice is a rich mezzo-soprano, is the former Cathalene Parker Browning and she and Mr. Crane met in the Panama Canal Zone when he was making a scientific tour for the Field museum on his yacht Illyria and she was there with her stepfather and mother, Admiral and Mrs. Clark H. Woodward. Their marriage took place in October, 1929, in New York.

The others on the program tomorrow afternoon will be Miss Jean Tennyson, who made her debut as Mimi in "Bohême" last Saturday night, Mme. Sonia Sharnova, Chase Baromeo and Charles Hackett.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman, will preside.

Plan Gala Program to Close Opera Season.

Plans are in the making for a gala performance of the Chicago Grand Opera company on the closing night of the season, Saturday, Dec. 22. Mrs. Ernest R. Graham has been appointed chairman of the affair which will include on the program acts and arias from popular operas and several entertaining stunts, among them a number by a German band, led by Dr. Frederick Stock.

There is talk of there being an opera ball at the Hotel Sherman after the performance but definite plans for that will not be made until today when Mrs. Graham and her committee meet at the Arts club.

Issue Invitations for Reid Wedding.

Invitations are in the mail today for the wedding of Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid, daughter of the Bryan S. Reids, and Ralph F. Chatillon of Syracuse, N. Y., which will take place the afternoon of Jan. 5 at St. Chrysostom's church, followed by a reception at the Casino.

This attractive eldest daughter of the Reids', who was the first debutante of the present season to become engaged—in fact, she gave up a debut party in favor of a wedding—and the grandson of Mrs. Theis Lefens will have several busy weeks before their wedding.

Five of the bride-to-be's seven attendants are current debutantes so there will be the usual debutante dinner-dances and balls to attend as well as smaller parties for this popular young couple.

Miss Ethel Johnston, Miss Nancy Doering, Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Ellen Wacker, and Miss Priscilla Morse are the debutantes, and Miss Josephine Templeton, who bowed last year, and Miss Jane Chatillon of Syracuse, Mrs. Chatillon's sister, complete the list of bridesmaids. Miss Chatillon will arrive here on the 22d to stay until after the wedding with her grandmother.

Lefens Porter will serve his cousin as best man, and ushering will be Otto and William C. Madlener, Richard K. Juergens, William A. Little, and two or three young men from Syracuse.

One of the first parties for Miss Reid and Mr. Chatillon will be a liquor show-

Critic Praises 'Autumn Hunt' of Art Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The fifteenth semi-annual exhibition of works by member artists has opened in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue. It is a representative show, and a number of the paintings are exceptionally good. "The Autumn Hunt," by Frederic Tellander, is one of these and another is the lovely "Portrait of Miss Margaret Boynton," by Oscar Gross.

Mr. Tellander has made a gorgeous canvas of red coated huntsmen, spirited horses, dogs, and a landscape rich with the russet and gold of fall. It is, perhaps, the most brilliant painting in the exhibit.

Mr. Gross in his portrait has achieved one of the signal successes of his long and successful career as a portrait painter. Miss Boynton is a fascinating subject, and the artist has caught her in a natural, relaxed pose in all the beauty of her youth.

Carl Hoerman offers a vigorous and decorative landscape in "Nashville, Brown County, Ind." Oscar Soellner gives us a poetic and romantic interpretation of a wistful countryside, "Russets and Grays."

Frank V. Dudley breaks the spell by the introduction of "A Breezy Day," with Lake Michigan a glittering carpet of gleaming green water under a blue sky studded with snowy clouds.

Rudolph Ingerle rustles the brown leaves of an autumn wood in "November," where a hunter walks alone on the search for a whirring partridge. Othmar Hoffler offers a striking contrast to these last in the shape of a delightful portrait of a little girl, "Betty."

Macena Barton is responsible for a formal bouquet in sharp colors. Anna Lynch shows a characteristic "Flowers in Sunny Window," charming, and Lucie Hartrath has a beautiful landscape in "Autumn's Pale Gold."

Claude Buck shows an exquisite portrait of an old lady, "Ninety-first Psalm," as fine a piece of painting as he has ever done. Joseph Allworthy has a beautiful still life, chiefly in blue and gray. Gerald A. Frank offers another still life, more formal, "Chinese Arrangement."

Walter Kraviec has another excellent circus painting in "Awaiting Their Cue," and Karl Plath shows a decorative "Golden Parrots."

The exhibition will continue to Dec. 31. It is one of the best in town this month.

Big Snow Gives Florida Rush an Early Start

Experts on Travel Predict Record Season.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

To judge by the record snow drifts and icicles of these mid-December days the weather man has gone into partnership with the Florida hotel proprietors and real estate operators. Weeks in advance of the usual post-holiday trek to sunny lands, winter vacationers are opening their southern homes while others are thumbing gay picture folders and contemplating a rendezvous with health in the southeastern peninsula.

"Biggest vacation drama in Florida's history. 2,000,000 visitors expected," announced the TRIBUNE travel section last Sunday. The last two days have convinced these travel experts more than ever of the soundness of their prediction, tempted them, in fact, to increase their figures.

Already south and preparing for a snowless Christmas at her Palm Beach villa, Casa Alejandro, is Mrs. George A. McKinlock. Next week Mr. McKinlock will join her. Another Chicagoan in Palm Beach is Mrs. Frank O. Butler. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns have deserted Lake Forest for Nokomis, Fla., while the Corwith Cramers have been in St. Petersburg for a month. Preparing to leave for Miami just after the holidays are the Warren Wrights and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Defrees.

Popular with Florida vacationists leaving the end of next week and after will be the new eight hour air service to Miami.

Surf bathing, sun bathing [the salty tides that wash Florida's shores are especially healthful since they are rich in iodine content], horse racing, deep sea fishing, tennis, golf, and polo will provide Florida's usual feast of fun and laughter this winter. It is pointed out, however, that there will be more than ordinary interest in the historical reminders of the days when the state was a trackless forest rather than a tropical wonderland since many vacationers will be making their first visit.

Take, for instance, the Florida keys, those enchanting isles where Morgan, Black Caesar, Kidd, and other swashbucklers of the Spanish main liked to hide away and rest from their strenuous business. The keys are accessible today to more than society's yachtsmen for the Overseas highway is built through to Key West. Then there's the beautiful Suwannee river immortalized by Stephen Foster's famous song, "Old Folks at Home."

Worthy mecca of visitors also is the singing tower on top of Iron mountain at Lake Wales. It was built by Edward Bok and dedicated by President Coolidge on Feb. 1, 1929. It contains one of the largest and finest carillons ever cast. The old Spanish mission at New Smyrna goes back to 1696 and the Franciscan Friars and represents one of the most interesting relics of early Spanish occupation. Also mindful of Ponce de Leon, the first Spaniard to set foot on Florida's shores in 1513, and the other conquistadores are the gates of the city of St. Augustine.

Incidentally, the earliest reference to the orange in Florida was in a letter from Pedro Menendez Marques, dated St. Augustine April 2, 1579.

Coming this way from Germany after an extended visit abroad is Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, who sails from London Sunday aboard the S. S. Europa. Mrs. Baum will land the 21st in New York and entrain immediately for her farm near South Haven, Mich., where she will spend a pleasantly old fashioned country Christmas.

In the little town of Zehlendorf, just outside of Berlin, Mrs. Baum was the guest of Baron and Baroness Nostitz Von Hindenburg, niece of the late field marshal president of Germany.

Having traveled up and down most of the highways of the world, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hellyer are now making their last stop in London, the vivid, fascinating city of quaint charms and subtle moods. They will be back in Riverside in time for Christmas. Many months ago Mr. and Mrs. Hellyer set out around the world with the family's tea interests in Japan as an excuse for their trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey are leaving cold weather and snow behind them for a month for they leave today for a vacation at Palm Springs, that delightful oasis in the California desert.

A DISTINGUISHED visitor expected in town next week-end is Andre L. Simon of London, known as the greatest connoisseur of food and wine in the world. He will speak before the Alliance Française while he is here, and it is probable that a Chicago chapter of the Wine and Food society that he founded will be started. A testimonial dinner will be given him in the House on the Roof of the Hotel Sherman, which will be attended by local connoisseurs of food and wine, and at which food characteristic of the middle west will be served. [We'll tell you the menu later when we get the dope, perhaps.]

MR. SIMON, who is the author of numerous books, including "The Art of Good Living," founded the Wine and Food society in October, 1933. We find the magazine of the association, the Wine and Food quarterly, gives an account of the first five meetings of the society and what was served. In case you care, at the first meeting of the society in London—a luncheon at the Café Royal—the menu consisted of Alsatian hors d'œuvres, partridge in a "soft nest of well-cooked cabbage"; "Le Fromage de Munster, Le Gougloff de Colmar, and Compote de Mirabelles." The "gougloff" is an Alsatian pudding, "not so sweet as to spoil the enjoyment of one's wine." And the wine served was Alsatian, from Riesling grapes in 1929 and from Traminer grapes in 1928.

GEORG KEELER read of the wedding of a Miss Sugar and a Mr. Brown in Sunday's paper, and bulletins that he is sure it couldn't have been an unrefined affair.

ONCE upon a time I wrote a little piece about room 6 at the Chicago Athletic club, and yesterday a man who remembered the paragraph telephoned to tell a little story about one of the room 6 "members," Dr. Herman Kretschmer. It seems Dr. and Mrs. Kretschmer gave a party a few days ago at their home on East Walton place, and their two sons, Herman Kretschmer Jr., who is 9, and Dick, who is 7, took the coats of the gentlemen, while a maid took the wraps of the ladies. One visitor, John H. Wood, offered the elder boy a tip, humorously, as he handed him his coat and hat, but the boy saw no humor in the gesture.

"I cannot accept a tip, Mr. Wood," he said. "I am a Boy Scout, and a Boy Scout never accepts tips."

Mr. Wood started to pocket the quarter when the boy spoke again.

"But my brother is not a Boy Scout," he added.

Regency Trend Seen in Winter Resort Styles

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The high waists and straight skirts of the 1820 regency period received wide indorsement tonight in the preview of the Miami-Biltmore fashion show.

This annual parade of southern resort styles reached its climax in a regency "wedding" which capitalized the trends of a century ago, now in their second blooming.

It was a gray and silver wedding picture. The pale gray satin bride's dress followed empire lines—square neckline, raised waistline, tight sleeves puffed at the top. The maid of honor's dress, cut in Kate Greenaway style, was developed in gray chiffon.

Other evidences of the rising popularity of the regency mode appeared in evening fabrics, such as pink and black striped satin, printed taffetas, and sprigged silk crêpes. Chiffon capes and tulle ruffs to complete these frocks were favored over jackets.

Evening fashions were divided between the slim silhouette and flaring skirts.

Michael Strange Will Start Drama Series at Arts Club Today

Michael Strange, known to the social world as Mrs. Harrison Tweed of New York and to the literary world as author, playwright, and poetess, will inaugurate a series of programs under auspices of the Chicago Players, at the Arts club, this afternoon. The author, who is the former wife of John Barrymore, arrived in Chicago yesterday to witness the stage debut last night of her son by her first marriage, Robin Thomas, in the Uptown Players' production of "Wooden Slippers."

Mrs. Bror G. Dahlberg, as a member of the informal group of society women who meet together as the Chicago Players, to further their common interest in things dramatic, will be hostess for the tea at which Mrs. Tweed will talk. Half a dozen women who will pour, including Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. Samuel Ettelson, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Otho F. Ball, and Mrs. Edward A. Leight. James Bradley-Griffen, also active in the Uptown Players' productions, will assist Mrs. Dahlberg in receiving.

Snow Outfits Set Record for Bright Colors

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Spectators with dark glasses are equipped that way these days not just because of the whiteness of the snow but because of the plaids and checks and color contrasts of the new snow suits. If you don't fortify yourself with dark glasses, you'll probably see "things" for weeks.

Never have such giddy, almost ribald, combinations swooped over snow covered hill and dale. Nothing more or less than a flock of lumberjacks attired in all their best holiday pants and shirts could outcolor or outshock the wild and hectic get-togethers worn by fashionable snow birds.

Plaid pants with heroic sized plaids will positively make you numb. Nothing restrained, or even contained, in the new designs—big raw wide open plaids in every gawdy color combination known to goofy plaid pickers. Nothing sissie in any collection, all are audible for miles.

The jackets can be found in plain one color affairs, but it's like discovering a needle in the old haystack, for nearly all the jackets come in riotous checks as well as plaids. But what does make your fashion heart warm are the neat snappy lines to these snow suits, nothing bulky or misshapen. No longer does the gay young skier, skater or tobogganer resemble a well stuffed sausage. These new models are cut to fit even though they are thick, waterproofed wool. The pants are neat and slim, the jackets fitted and also slim. The best out of doors costumes ever designed.

You will still wear sweaters, in thin twins or fuzzy, wooly, soft cozy singles. You'll wear sweaters under the wool jackets or under the snappy fitted lether jackets that are either waistline or hip length. Suede and pigskin are the two favorite lethers.

The wool jackets come in rowdy plaids and a lot of plain dark and sharp colors. Long elbow length mittens come in all bright shades and white, some with designs to match the patterns of the sweaters they are sold with. Long bright scarfs, short caps with brilliant yarn topknots and even wind around sashes complete the costumes for snowy weather. And the last gasp are the high colored lacings to be worn in skating or skiing shoes.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving sentence unjustly for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Chief witness against Colin was Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. Caermaen takes Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. After a brief honeymoon Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. To admit her marriage would be fatal for Caermaen. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Caermaen has his solicitor, Jarroman, investigate Stornack. Rhoda is placed under her mother's charge by court order. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where the son of Rhoda and Colin is born. The baby is left there when they return to London. Caermaen arranges to get Colin out of prison again for a few days. Rhoda flies with Colin to see their son. Mrs. Cornboise sees Colin and penetrates the mystery of his excursion from jail. She threatens to expose Caermaen if Rhoda doesn't marry Stornack. Colin again changes places with Caermaen and arrives in time to rescue Rhoda after she has married Stornack. Colin forces Stornack to make a written confession that he killed the solicitor, and obtains the papers from him which Rhoda had signed, transferring her fortune to him. Stornack admits the marriage was a fake. Colin allows him twelve hours to get away. Then he and Rhoda go after Stornack's confederates, Leningway and Galston and obtain confessions from them of their part in the crime. Colin returns to Mardlehurst prison where a riot has broken out.

INSTALMENT XLV.

UNFORESEEN DANGER.

At a quarter to six Colin left the house. As he turned the corner and came in view of the prison he saw that the gates were open and a big, closed government van—a Black Maria—was leaving.

Between the two gates were a number of warders, whose faces he had never seen before. The inner gate was open and he mingled with the other warders and passed through into the courtyard.

The deputy governor's office lay in their path. The chief warder came out.

"Just wait here a minute, you men. The deputy governor will speak to you presently."

Something, Colin saw, was seriously amiss. He waited a moment at the back of the handful of strange warders—then slipped away.

As he passed along the corridors an idea came to him. He would use this inexplicable confusion to further his own plans.

A lot would depend on who was the warder in charge of his corridor. At the cross he glanced sideways at the warder on duty. Here luck was with him. He had never seen that face before.

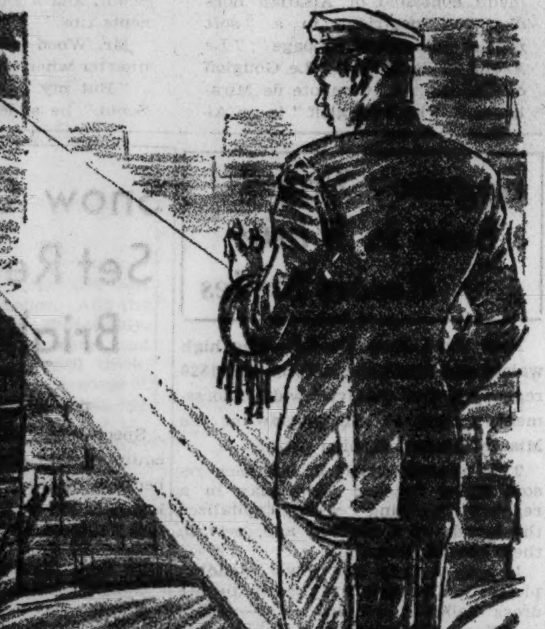
"I'm to relieve you and you're to go to the deputy governor's office," he explained.

"All right, mate!"

As the warder's footsteps died away Colin slipped up to cell 87, turned the key and stepped in.

The cell was empty.

For a moment he was too horrified to do anything. Then he shut the door of the cell and locked it. Caermaen had moved and it would be next to impossible to find him. He felt a moment of panic; then walked back to the cross corridor and tried to think it out.



The cell was empty.

Another warder was approaching, slowly patroling his beat. Perhaps Colin might be recognized. He would simply have to risk that.

But again the face was unknown to him, yet the warder was of Mardlehurst prison.

"You come down from Wormwood Scrubbs?" asked the other conversationally, in an undertone.

"Yes," said Colin quickly, and added: "And a pretty pickle it all seems. I was told to look out particularly for No. 87. And the cell's empty."

"Eighty-seven!" said the warder, and look at a list. "I've heard about him. He's a toff—in for murder, and commuted. They must have been loopy to tell you to look out for him. He's a good conduct man. One of those they've shifted to Durham."

The warder was about to pass on, but Colin restrained him.

"I've been on leave. Got bundled up here before I could look around. What's been going on?" he asked.

The other was quite glad to while away the monotony by making a yarn of it.

Gradually Colin was able to pick up the facts. There had been a riot in connection with some grievance over the rations. The men in Colin's corridor had not been affected and had taken no part in the riot. Extra warders had been drafted from other prisons to supplement the staf and the trouble had subsided. Instead of weeding out the rioters, the authorities had decided to remove those who had taken no part. Some of them had been lodged temporarily in the local jail. Some had been sent to Parkhurst and some to Durham.

Over sixty men had been taken from the prison—amongst them convict 87.

The warder passed on. In a few minutes the bell would sound for reveille. By his own trick, Colin had put himself in command of a corridor with no more knowledge of a warder's duties than a convict picks up.

The inward glow of happiness in the knowledge of his impending release left him. He had broken prison this last time, not with any idea of seeking his own liberty, but in order to save Jack Caermaen.

For the same purpose Rhoda had endured eighteen months of extreme misery and misunderstanding. And now, by an unforeseen unlucky chance, the whole thing would be ruined.

Just as the bell sounded the warder whom he had relieved came hurrying back.

"Here! There wasn't half a shindy when I got to the deputy governor's office!" he exclaimed. "They wanted to know who'd given me the message."

That, of course, was quite easy.

"The fact is, they don't know whether they're standing on their heads or their heels. They told me to come here and relieve you right enough."

The other chuckled.

"Well, they want you now, mate, to tell 'em all about it."

Colin nodded and strolled down the corridor—where he was striding to he had not the faintest idea. Certainly not to the deputy governor's office.

It did not at that moment occur to him that his own liberty was jeopardized afresh. He might be proved innocent of the murder of Simpson. But he was unquestionably guilty of breaking prison—a quite separate offense—and suborning one of his majesty's officers.

Thought of himself, even of Rhoda, was wholly absent from him. His whole anxiety was to find some means of getting at Jack Caermaen.

At the end of the corridor he turned down another, in the opposite direction from that of the deputy governor's office.

. . . .

Rhoda was at Jarroman's office long before the solicitor himself arrived.

The twelve hours had expired. Nothing, she thought, was now keeping Colin from her but the laziness of a city solicitor. Here she was very unjust, for Jarroman arrived some ten minutes before the accepted hour of 10 o'clock.

"Good morning!" He spoke in the slightly hushed tone one uses to a bereaved person. "I'm extremely sorry, but I have no news for you."

"But I've news for you, Mr. Jarroman." She had intended to hand him the document in a businesslike way, but restraint forsook her and the glorious truth came tumbling out.

". . . And they've all three left the country," she finished. "And Colin said I was to come straight to you and you would be able to arrange everything."

For a moment Jarroman looked at her with positive alarm. And at once she interpreted his thoughts.

"You think I've dreamed it all and that I'm a little mad, don't you! I almost think so myself," she laughed. "And yet I know I'm not."

"Where are these—er—confessions? I suppose you haven't got them with you by any chance?"

"Here!" said Rhoda, triumphantly.

During the next few minutes she came near to losing her confidence. Jarroman read first one confession and then the other. Now and again he made a note on the blotting pad and said nothing.

But when he had read the third confession he sprang up like a jack-in-the-box.

"Stay here while I go to the home office!" he rapped out. "No—I'll get Sir Andrew Allington to come with me. He was the treasury man who prosecuted Colin. And when the treasury knows it's made a mistake it moves like greased lightning."

Beauty Answers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

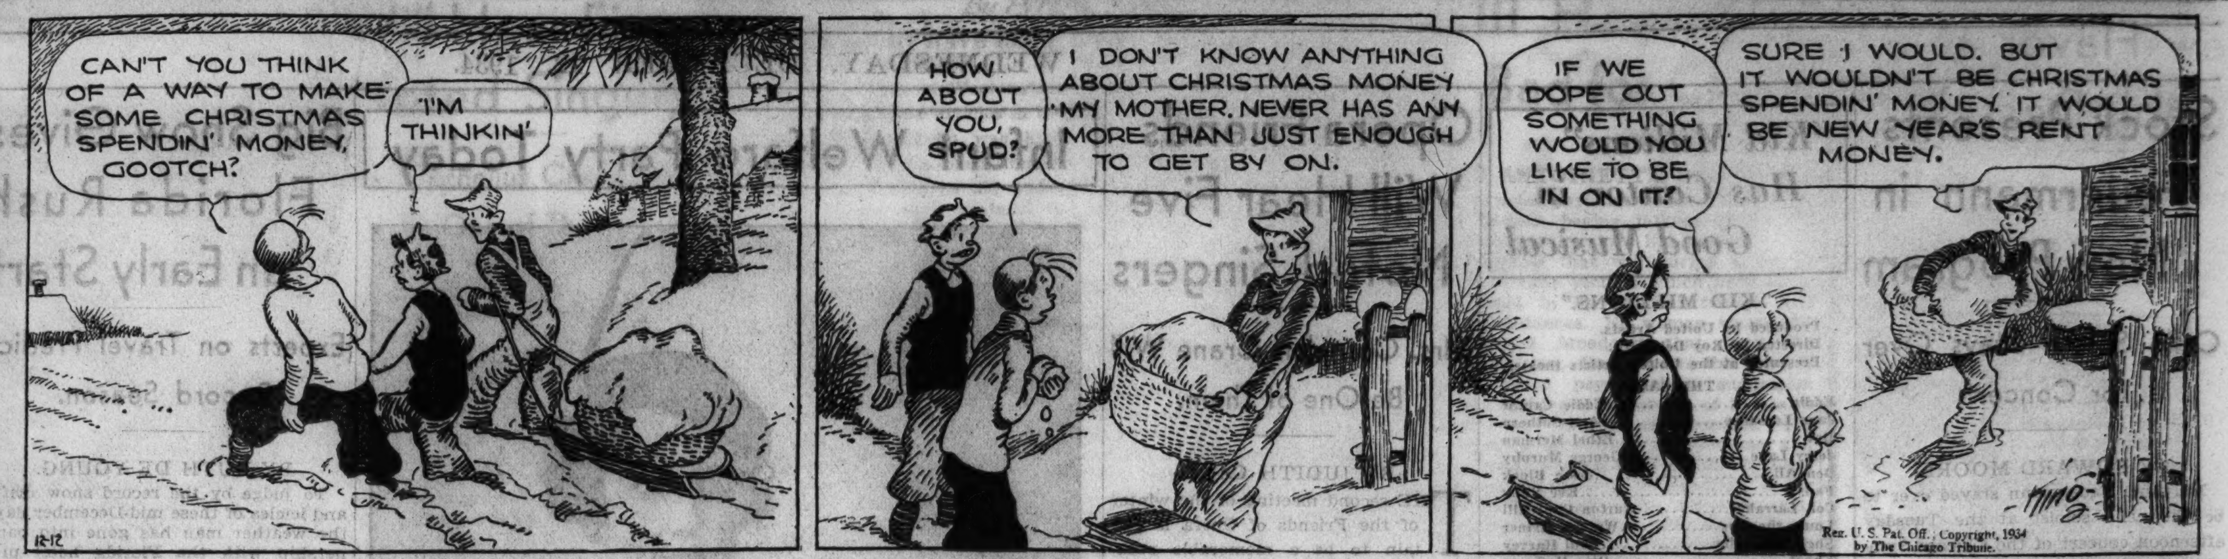
Wave-Sets Beautify Hair.

Ann M.: There are excellent wave-set lotions on the market which you will find most satisfactory for keeping the hair soft. The hair dries quickly after their use. They also are inexpensive.

Olive Oil for Dry Nails.

V. D.: Your nails break off because they are dry and brittle. The condition may be corrected by soaking the finger tips in olive oil, which has been warmed slightly for fifteen minutes, every night.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE BUDGET GETS IT



CAN'T YOU THINK OF A WAY TO MAKE SOME CHRISTMAS SPENDIN' MONEY, GOOTCH?
I'M THINKIN'
HOW ABOUT YOU, SPUD?
I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT CHRISTMAS MONEY. MY MOTHER NEVER HAS ANY MORE THAN JUST ENOUGH TO GET BY ON.
IF WE DOPE OUT SOMETHING WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE IN ON IT?
SURE I WOULD. BUT IT WOULDN'T BE CHRISTMAS SPENDIN' MONEY. IT WOULD BE NEW YEAR'S RENT MONEY.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

I am being asked just how much a handwriting can tell. As I have said, graphology is a science and not fortune telling, but even at that it is sometimes surprising how accurately questions that really concern the future can be answered. The way you write shows the kind of a person you are and the kind of person you are makes your present and will make your future.

Then, too, your subconscious mind registers itself as you write. Often we won't admit a thing is so, but way in the deep, dark, hidden depths of our minds we know it is so. And when we write the answer is there.

For instance, a man who usually wrote so that you could draw a straight line under his line of writing and have every word on it wrote the question below:

Will this new venture succeed

I looked at the writing for a minute and I answered, "No," definitly. Fortune telling? Not at all! His writing shows excellent critical ability and so much intuition he can almost "feel" the right way.

As he wrote that particular question the whole line slumped with discouragement. He wanted to believe his venture would be profitable and was trying to persuade himself that it was so. But all the time he knew it wasn't so. His writing shouts it!

I told him frankly, "I am saying 'no' because you have fine judgment and you have already decided in the back of your mind that it would be unwise. Follow your judgment." He nodded, slowly and thoughtfully.

Charming Gifts for Child May Be Home Made

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you have a "handy man" in your family or are one yourself you can make some of the children's presents at home. A dollhouse and furniture for the dollhouse are two possibilities. Or larger doll furniture for the larger dolls not meant to be used in a dollhouse can be made by the home carpenter and prove both sturdy and attractive, especially if painted in gay colors.

A dollhouse to be enjoyed doesn't have to be too smugly perfect.

I think, too, that a dollhouse when given as a present perhaps shouldn't be too complete.

If your little girls are at the age when their doll enthusiasm runs high your Christmas giving can center around that toy. Of the other things that can be made at home, which is what we're talking about today, I don't know of anything that gives more delight than doll clothes, and of course by that I mean "put on and take off clothes."

A small child's chair and table can be made at home by following the directions in our new leaflet. Ask for "A Made-at-Home Chair and Table," and enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope.

BY MARY MEADE.

Familiarity may breed contempt in some fields, but not in the pudding family. The wholesome goodness of rice pudding, snow pudding, blancmange, and apple betty make them grand favorites at thousands of tables. All they need to keep them from growing just a bit wearisome is a touch of dressing up to lend zest and excitement to the eating. Coconut, for instance, is a versatile fellow which just dotes upon run-ins with simple puddings, invariably bringing them out of the affair with sailing colors.

Blancmange de Luxe.

½ cup sugar
5½ tablespoons flour [level]
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded coconut
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine the sugar, flour, and salt in the top of a double boiler. Add the milk gradually, mixing thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook for 10 minutes, or until thick, stirring constantly. Add the coconut and cool. Fold in the stiff beaten egg whites and the vanilla. Turn out the mixture into individual molds and chill. Unmold and garnish with tart jelly. This serves six.

Or let your apple betty be the one to gain the applause. It's done in this way:

Coconut Apple Betty.

4 tart apples, pared and sliced thin
1 cup soft bread crums
1 cup shredded coconut
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup butter

Arrange a layer of apple slices in a greased baking dish. Cover them with bread crums and coconut. Then sprinkle with a mixture of the sugar and cinnamon. Dot with butter. Repeat these layers until all the ingredients are used. Let the coconut be the topping. Cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 35 minutes. Uncover and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until the apples are soft and the coconut browned.

Crunchy Rice Pudding.

¼ cup uncooked rice
4 cups milk
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup shredded coconut

Wash the rice thoroughly, then mix it with the milk, sugar, salt, and butter in a greased baking dish. Bake in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] for two hours, stirring well every half-hour. Then add the coconut and mix well. Continue the baking for another half-hour, or until the coconut is delicately browned. Serve the pudding hot or cold.

Coconut Snow Pudding.

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
¾ cup shredded coconut
2 egg whites, stiff beaten

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Add the boiling water and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add the sugar, salt, and vanilla. Chill the mixture until it is cold and sirupy. Then place the pan in a bowl of cracked ice or ice water and whip with a rotary egg beater until fluffy and as thick as whipped cream. Fold in the coconut and the egg whites. Turn out into a shallow pan, 8x8 inches. Chill until firm, then cut in one inch cubes and pile these into sherbet glasses. Serve with a thin lemon sauce. This recipe will serve ten.

Uptown Players Professionals in This Production

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Uptown Players have become something more than a "group"; they begin to resemble a movement toward a lively and self-sustaining producing organization of 100 per cent Chicago talent. The need for developments of this kind is acute, and it is therefore gratifying to see the Uptowners marching along with fairly steady steps and with a growing and enthusiastic clientèle.

Last night they staged in the Chicago Woman's club theater a play called "The Wooden Slipper" in a way which caused me to feel that they are about to lose their amateur standing. Except for delays in shifting scenery for the seven episodes through which the story runs, this performance had, in many points, a professional air. The stage was smartly dressed to evoke a European atmosphere [Budapest and Paris]; the illusion of romantic comedy in the style of Franz Molnar was well sustained, and the acting of the principal rôles was assured and effective.

"The Wooden Slipper" is of native authorship, but it imitates with decided skill the paprika school of comedy founded by Molnar which the Theater Guild and Gilbert Miller have popularized in this country. If its title page did not bear the name of the young American author of "The Jazz Singer" I would be ready to swear that it was an adaptation of some fairly recent success in Budapest and Vienna.

Lost in the Broadway shuffle last year, like many another neat bit of drama, "The Wooden Slipper" strikes me as worth revival.

The play deals with a girl with a theatrical pedigree who admires the art of cooking more than that of acting. A touch of heartbreak in a love affair causes her to run away from her histrionic family, and in the train ride to Paris she meets her destiny in the form of a temperamental young chef. So she becomes a kitchen maid in his service and eventually wins his heart. It's a sort of Cinderella story in reverse.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Sternly keeping our head out of the financial clouds, we went shopping for the perfume bargains the other day, looking for good merchandise at low price. Here are two of our finds:

In a flat, lether covered box that looks for all the world like a jewel case there are three finely cut crystal bottles of three exquisite perfumes. Two are blends—and good ones—and one is a straight carnation.

Each little flaçon holds about an ounce and the price of the set is so astonishingly low we'd rate the trio the best perfume buy of the week. And the perfumes, please understand, are not junk. Each is well known, widely acclaimed and beautiful.

The jewel case box with its beguiling assortment is an ideal Christmas gift for more reasons than one. Aside from the fact that price and quality are right there is the added advantage of offering the recipient three odors at once.

Running this set a close second in the best-for-your-money competition is a gay, vivacious but not naïve perfume exclusive with one store here. The black and white harlequin bottle holds an ounce—and the price will floor you. How they do it when the quality is so high we don't know.

This scent is indescribably charming. It wasn't made for vampires or women who aspire to be sirens; neither was it planned for simpering clinging vines. It's a throughly nice perfume for nice people with no pretenses. It's one of the safest gift choices you can make because it will be universally liked by the young and the not so young.

Here, then, are two suggestions if you've felt that good perfume gifts were beyond your financial depth. We know you'll like both.

Another prenuptial festivity scheduled for today is a luncheon and kitchen shower—this one in yellow and black—that Miss Anne Smith is giving for Miss Winifred Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Robert G. Wheeler, who will be married on the 21st to Henry L. McIntyre, son of the Joseph S. McIntyres of St. Louis. Miss Smith is giving the luncheon in her parents', the Harold C. Smiths', apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney P. Waud [Isobel Morrell] will give a cocktail party for Miss Wheeler and Mr. McIntyre Friday evening and the John R. Hurleys [Gwendolyn Juergens] will give one Sunday evening. Mrs. Wheeler will have the bridal dinner the night before the wedding at the Casino. Among the out-of-town guests at the dinner will be the Harry Langenbergs of St. Louis, the bridegroom's uncle and aunt; Mrs. Mahlon Thatcher, the bride's grandmother, and Mahlon Thatcher, her uncle, of Pueblo, N. M., and Mrs. Ada Huntziner, the bride's aunt, and her daughters, Elizabeth, Dorothy and Ruth, of Pasadena.

Mrs. Taylor Gets French Decoration.

At a large tea party yesterday afternoon the members of Le Cercle Français watched Rene Weiller, French consul-general, pin the decoration of "Les Palmes Academiques" on Mrs. Daniel Taylor, former president of the club. Mrs. Harold Sperling, present president of Le Cercle, was the hostess and Mrs. Andrew R. Sherriff and Miss Mary West poured at the tea following. Willa Dryden sang a program of songs, and Arthur Allais and R. E. David spoke briefly.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THIS HAND MIGHT HAVE BEEN MADE TO ORDER.

Mr. Albert A. Riley of Washington, D. C., is following these articles in the Washington Star and he was kind enough to send me this hand, inquiring just how it should be bid under my system. I am very grateful to him, for it illustrates so many of my pet beliefs about this game of contract that I wish to discuss it here in public with all my readers. In fact, it is such a model hand for this purpose that I wonder whether it was actually dealt—or did Mr. Riley make it up for my satisfaction and yours?

	N.
	♠Q-J-6 ♥A-K-8-2 ♦8-4 ♣A-K-9-7
W. ♠9-8-2 ♥7-6-2 ♦Q-J-9-3-2 ♣10-5		E. ♠4 ♥Q-J-9-3 ♦10-7-6-5 ♣Q-6-3-2
	S. ♠A-K-10-7-5-3 ♥10-5 ♦A-K ♣J-8-4

South is the dealer, and there is no score. Let us bid the hand, "thinking aloud."

The Bidding.

South. One spade. Four primary tricks and a long strong spade suit.

North. Two hearts. I must not force because my heart suit will not furnish discards of losers, being only a four-carder. My partner has rebid material, having opened as dealer; I must learn in what form it is. I wish I had the king of diamonds, as then I could give him a slam try in the form of three no trumps, picturing my hand exactly. Probably he will rebid spades and then I will make my jump takeout.

South. Two spades. I still need a natural rebid from North to be sure of game; we may lose three clubs and a spade and even a heart.

North. Four clubs. Despite your minimum rebid, we have a game in the hand and I hope for a slam. You now know there is a fit somewhere in the hand since I now jump, though you may have no support at all for either of my suits.

South. Four no trumps. Your two bids have eliminated plenty of losers from my hand; I do not know whether your fit is in spades or no trumps, or whether one of your suits is long and solid; but I am glad to say that I do not have to sign off in four spades; I can take such thorough immediate care of the unbid suit, for slam play, that I can bid four no trumps. We are still safe in five spades if my failure to support either of your suits—in fact, my denial of them both puts an end to your optimism.

North. Six spades. I needed to know about your diamond control. My belated jump raise in spades now tells you that the fit has all along been in your suit, not in either of mine. I believe I eliminate all spade losers or finesses, and my hearts and clubs were bid on top strength, not on length, as I cannot rebid them.

South. Seven spades. All losers have presumably been eliminated; at worst there may be a finesse to take in one of your suits if there is a king against us. If the hand is not a spread, at least I have a six card trump suit with which I can do plenty of squeezing, especially against queens.

The Play.

As you see, the hand is a spread for six, but not for seven, though on the bidding South could expect to find thirteen top tricks when dummy went down. However, it is at once clear that if the same opponent has to protect both hearts and clubs, an inescapable squeeze will develop. Leading out trumps, declarer soon discovers that the squeeze will bear on East. He must carefully maneuver so that East cannot escape it at the critical point by being able to discard after dummy. At the tenth trick South has a heart, the ace of diamonds and J x of clubs; North, ace, 8 of hearts, a diamond, and the ace of clubs; East has Q J of hearts and Q x of clubs. South leads the small club; North returns the small diamond to South's ace. Now East, in discarding on the diamond, must either set up the jack of clubs for South or the eight of hearts for dummy. He cannot escape provided declarer carefully times the squeeze in this manner.

Bok Quits as Board Rejects His Plan to Retain Stokowski

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A reorganization of the Philadelphia Orchestra association to bring back Leopold Stokowski, resigned director, was in the making tonight at the expense of another resignation, that of Curtis Bok, association president and Stokowski's friend.

Bok's resignation, tendered after the board rejected a reorganization plan he said was based on "keeping Stokowski," left the famous musical organization without a president, a business manager or a musical director.

After a long and stormy session, the directors announced acceptance "with regret" of Bok's retirement, and issued what was in effect a public invitation to the maestro to return.

Bok's plan called for resignation of all the present board members and reorganization of that body.

It was learned the president's proposal was viewed by the board as a plan for a "hand picked" board of Bok's choosing.

Talking About Ill Health Is Bad for Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A noted psychiatrist says that when a woman begins talking about her operations her love life is dead.

I guess that will curtail a lot of those organ recitals which have to be listened to by afflicted friends and acquaintances. No woman wants the suspicion broadcast that love has shelved her. But more to the point is the noted psychiatrist's suggestion that making a profession of ill health no longer is a popular pursuit. It's simply a neurosis, a common one, and one that women have permitted themselves since time immemorial, a big stick with which to tyrranize their entire environment. There are infinitely better ways of getting attention these days, of averting the discouragement and isolation that finally descends upon the common complainer.

From the beauty angle, no woman ever helped her cause any by becoming one of the ailment recitalists. She may look well enough, but when she begins telling what's wrong with her, her physical charms somehow fade out as she talks. Anyway, it isn't on the boards for women today to be anything but vitally well and active. If there is something radically wrong with one's health, see the doctor. If there isn't, see what you can do about creating interests that will take the mind off oneself.

MAJOR LEAGUES GIVE CLEVELAND ALL-STAR GAME

Nothing Done About Dog Racing.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—The major league all star game, suggested and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1933 and renewed in New York last summer, has become a baseball fixture. The National and American leagues, in separate conclave here this afternoon, each voted in favor of the continuance of the spectacle, and the 1935 clash between teams composed of the best players in each league was awarded to Cleveland.

It previously had been understood that the third game of the popular series conceived by THE TRIBUNE would be played in Cleveland if anywhere, but for several reasons there had been some opposition offered to the annual playing of the game. The game had been so popular that the rivalry among the cities had become somewhat bitter and there were those who were said to be in favor of abandoning the feature rather than await the turns of their respective cities. This reported opposition, however, did not develop at the formal meetings today.

Cleveland Mayor Present.

Mayor Harry L. Davis of Cleveland, and Walter Davis, manager of the Municipal stadium at Cleveland, appeared before the moguls of each league. They extended a formal invitation to both circuits, although this year's selection of the site was in the hands of the American league, on the rotation basis.

The first game, played at Comiskey park on July 6, 1933, was sponsored and underwritten by THE TRIBUNE, but arranged, of course, with the hearty coöperation of the two major leagues. The idea was conceived by THE TRIBUNE after the start of the season and among the difficulties overcome was that involving rearrangement of the regular league schedules.

Last season provision was made for the game at the schedule meeting. The game was played at the Polo Grounds here on July 10, under the direct sponsorship of the two leagues, after several newspapers had been denied the distinction of backing the enterprise.

Exact Date Not Decided.

The date of the Cleveland game has not been determined and probably will not be until the regular schedule meeting after the first of the year.

It is said that a charity beneficiary other than the old players' fund will receive the net receipts of the Cleveland game. THE TRIBUNE and the New York game receipts were given to the old players' organization.

The Cleveland game will be something of a civic festival. It is said that Mayor Davis had shown symptoms of making it something of a political rally but had been headed off by Cleveland sports editors and baseball officials, who did not consider it essential that the affair be taken over by feeders at the public trough, adorned in Prince Alberts and silk hats.

Announce Pennant Winners.

Aside from awarding the all-star game the moguls accomplished little for public mulling. After seven hours' deliberation it was announced at adjournment that St. Louis had been officially awarded the National league pennant and that Detroit had won the American league pennant. This news previously had been a substantial rumor, widely circulated about the nation. Tomorrow the sage nabobs are expected to vote and announce that St. Louis officially won the world series. This, too, was a matter that had leaked out early in October.

There were many things that the baseball notables didn't do. For instance, nothing was done to decide a new status for Babe Ruth. He remained simply a player on the New York Yankee roster. That was some-

Sox for Sale Unless They Win in 1935, Report

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Sale of the Chicago White Sox in 1935 unless Manager Jimmy Dykes can produce a winner next season was one of the warmest rumors bounding around the major league meetings today.

Experts close to Lou Comiskey, owner of the Chicago American league team, say that he has given his manager one more year to produce a champion. Otherwise, they say, Comiskey will sell to one of three Chicago syndicates already formed to purchase the team.

As a result Dykes is striving frantically to make trades, but warned every one away from Al Simmons, his star outfielder. Detroit, in particular, is bidding for the former ace of the Athletics.

"I'll take Schoolboy Rowe, Charlie Gehringer, Hank Greenberg, and a small cash settlement for Simmons," Dykes told Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' manager, today.

Dykes, a buddy of Cochrane when both were with the Athletics, telegraphed Mickey shortly before the latter went barnstorming in Honolulu after the world series:

"If you dream you've got Simmons don't wake up. You won't get him."

ARKANSAS STATE IS DEFEATED BY LOYOLA, 36-29

Schuessler Leads Scoring with 12 Points.

Loyola university's basketball team opened its season last night by defeating Arkansas State college, 36 to 29, at the Loyola gymnasium before a crowd of 1,500.

After Loyola's starting lineup had built up a 15 to 7 lead at half time and increased it to 24 to 13 early in the second half, Coach Lennie Sachs tried out various combinations. None worked as well as the forward combination of Colen and Furlong, with Murray at center.

Sophomores Get Chance.

Capt. Joe Schuessler led the scoring with twelve points. When he left the game four minutes before the gun on personals Loyola had an all-sophomore lineup on the floor.

While Loyola worked its plays with spasmodic success, the team showed promise of developing into a fast, accurate ball handling five with enough ruggedness to carry it through a hard season.

Arkansas Team Play Unsteady.

Davis and Speck were outstanding for Arkansas, although the Razorback's team play was ragged.

GOPHERS WIN, 28-18

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The University of Minnesota basketball team scored a 28 to 18 victory over St. Thomas of the Minnesota college conference tonight. This team upset the Gophers last year.

At half time the score was tied, but at the start of the second half the Gophers went to work. They promptly ran the count to 18 to 12, then went back to listless play. The Tommies reduced the margin to 20 to 17, but then the Gophers opened up again to resume control.

MAROONS ARE PLEASED

Winner in its first game, the University of Chicago basketball team will meet North Central college at Naperville tonight in a contest intended to give it some experience on a foreign floor.

Although Wheaton college, the team Chicago beat Saturday night, is not of Big Ten caliber, the game was cheering to Coach Nelson Norgren. He may not have size this year, but he will have some men who can score. The team scored 18 baskets out of 61 shots against Wheaton, an unusually high average.

Two new men, Walter Duvall, the little forward who transferred from Beloit, and George Pritikin, will be valuable additions to the team. Both scored four baskets, and Pritikin showed ability to break in for short shots.

PURDUE PLAYS DE PAUW

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Ward Lambert will continue his search for a combination capable of defending Purdue's Big Ten championship tomorrow night when the Boilermakers meet the veteran De Pauw quintet, which swamped Anderson, 44 to 19.

PACETTI, NOTT ACCEPT BIDS TO ALL-STAR GAME

Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern announced yesterday that Mario Pacetti, Wisconsin tackle, and Douglas Nott, Detroit university half back, had accepted an invitation to play with the East All-Stars in the East-West charity game at San Francisco on New Year's day.

Nott, who captained the Titan eleven last season, is one of the best passers in the middle west, while Pacetti for three years was the mainstay of the Badgers line. The acceptances were the tenth and eleventh Hanley had received.

Other players chosen by the Northwestern coach include Bengston, Larson, and Lund, Minnesota; Leeper and Whalen, Northwestern; Monohan, Ohio State; Purvis, Purdue; Veller, Indiana, and Ford of Michigan.

JOHN ROOSEVELT JOINS HARVARD POLO CANDIDATES

Boston, Mass., Dec. 11.—(AP)—John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, was among the candidates for the Harvard freshman polo team reporting today to Lieut. Charles Palmer, the coach.

Young Roosevelt, who is 18 and stands six feet four inches, towered over the other candidates. Lieut. Palmer recalled that he was about as tall as Big Tim Clark, one of Harvard's greatest polo products.

"He hits the ball well," the coach said after watching young Roosevelt take a few practice cracks, "but until competition starts his real ability cannot be judged."

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., another son of the President, is one of the Harvard varsity crew candidates.

Waggoner, Oil Man and Turf Leader, Dies

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 11.—(AP)—W. T. Waggoner, 82 years old, Fort Worth capitalist, died at his home in Rivercrest here tonight. The pioneer west Texas cattleman and capitalist was stricken with paralysis Sunday night. He was the owner of Arlington Downs race track.

Cattle laid the foundation for the Waggoner fortune and, although oil expanded it into what has been described as the greatest fortune ever amassed by one man west of the Mississippi river, he remained a cattleman and horseman at heart. He retained a far greater interest in his cattle and race horses than in the great oil pool which made him many times a millionaire.

BUILT ARLINGTON DOWNS.

W. T. Waggoner pioneered in horse racing in the state of Texas and owned the Three D's stable, once one of the largest on the American turf. He sponsored charity race meetings in Texas until horse racing was legalized there.

When pari-mutuel betting was legalized in the state Waggoner built the Arlington Downs race track, one of the best plants on the winter circuit. The state now has two other tracks, Epsom Downs near Houston and a track in Dallas which is owned by the State Fair association.

Among the horses owned by Waggoner was Broadway Limited, which he purchased at the Saratoga sales ring in 1929 for $65,000. Broadway Limited, a son of Man o' War, met a tragic death at the Hawthorne track two years later while running in a claiming race.

Waggoner once made a bid of one million dollars for Reigh Count shortly after the horse had won the 3 year old championship in 1928, but the offer was rejected by John Hertz, who owned the colt.

Waggoner came into thoroughbred racing and breeding in 1927 and in a few years acquired one of the most extensive stables in the country. Some of the purchases he made were the most spectacular in history.

In the Wake of the News

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

FRIEND STEWART: Well, Stewart, I hate to bother you with my personal affairs when you're so busy with department details while Friend Arch is absent on vacation, but I am feeling very poorly. And the more I think about it and certain other things, the poorlier I feel. Why, right now I have a headache, with perhaps a slight temperature, and am very nervous.

If you remember, my annual nervous breakdown usually doesn't take place until January or early February. Some way, it seems to synchronize closely with the opening of the racing season at Hialeah Park in Miami. I seem to recuperate better in the vicinity of a race track—I mean physically, not financially.

Any way, this season I'm feeling very poorly right now, as I explained. Of course that new Santa Anita track on the late Lucky Baldwin's ranch near Los Angeles does open on Christmas day and continue for two months. However, I'm pretty sure that has nothing to do with the way I feel and how nervous I am. So I was wondering whether you thought I ought to telegraph Friend Arch and explain the situation.

Of course I hate to bother Arch, too, about my affairs when he's on vacation. On the other hand, he might be feeling pretty happy and looking at the world through rose spectacles and perhaps he'd think I ought to do a lot more hard work for him this winter either in Florida or California, and he even might want me to do it earlier than usual. If he happened to prefer California possibly I could borrow money at the bank and get to Los Angeles in time for the Rose Bowl game. Understand, I'm not suggesting anything like that, but it's worth thinking about.

Please drop me a note whether you think I should wire Arch about my deplorable condition. Hoping you are the same. Regards,

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Trying to Start Something.

Yours truly does not want to start a war, but I will state that the old Ten Mile ditch emptied into the old north pond in Lincoln park. Now let some chump say different if he dare. But what I really want to know is where the Ten Mile ditch had its source. Come on, boys.

Church Cat of Venice.

("I have been somewhat puzzled in Venice to know why churches should keep cats."—W. D. Howells, "Venetian Life.")

I feel a kindly interest in the church
Whose portly cat may roam her ailes at will,
Or leap before the goodly priest to perch
Before an art glass window on the sill.
A gentle feline I would rate the cat
Who lives inside a temple rich with art,
Where it were useless to expect a rat
Or yet to view carved tombs with crimson heart.

While touring parties who express their zeal
With "Oh's" and "Ah's" (of feline eloquence)
May feel the church cat's sleepy eyes reveal
A haughty veined and cold indifference,
I think he merely wants the world to see
How swell a CAT may live in Italy.

MORENZ LEADS ATTACK WITH PAIR OF GOALS

Gottselig Sets Up Shots for Star.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

On the tenth night of last April the Chicago Blackhawks required 90 minutes and five seconds of high pressure hocky to defeat the Detroit Red Wings, 1 to 0, in the deciding game for the world's championship.

Last night at the Chicago Stadium, in the presence of 7,000 customers, the Hawks needed only the regulation 60 minutes to subdue those same Wings by the more convincing score of 4 to 0. More satisfactory than the actual score was the manner in which the Stanley cup holders achieved the victory, their second straight, and their seventh of the season.

Stay in Tie.

The triumph enabled the Hawks to remain in a tie with the Boston Bruins for the leadership of the American section in the National Hocky league, and definitly established them as current favorites for the division title.

It would not be quite fair to single out any one Hawk hero, for all distinguished themselves equally well. Howie Morenz, who had been on a goal fast until the Ranger game Sunday night, added two more to his collection, both on perfect passes from Johnny Gottselig, whom the Wings could find guilty of puck larceny on at least five counts.

Tommy Cook, the smallest center in the league, continued to prove that he is now enjoying his best year by scoring the first goal on a pass from Marty Burke and then aiding in another by deceiving the Wing defense with a scoring pass to Louie Trudell.

Hawk Defense Stars.

Added to all of this offensive satisfaction was the knowledge that the Hawk defense need take no back talk from any other team in the league. Burke, Art Coulter, and Art Wiebe did nobly in front of Lorne Chabot, who rose to the heights last night.

Neither team opened with its recognized first line, the Hawks sending out Cook, Trudell, and Kendall against Sorrell, Wiseman, and Pettinger. The Wings took the faceoff, with both Wiseman and Goodfellow boring in to worry Chabot. Before this action had developed too seriously Burke seized the puck and dashed up the ice, breaking through the Detroit defense.

Smith came out prepared to halt Burke, but Marty waited until he was ten feet out of the nets before he passed to Cook, who had been trailing him on the left side. Tommy had an open target and fired it home for the first goal of the evening in 2 minutes and 40 seconds.

Hawks Build Up Lead.

The Lewis line was pitted against Cook, Trudell, and Kendall at the opening of the second period, but neither was able to make more than a few gestures. The Hawk trio was finally replaced by Morenz, Gottselig, and March, and this combination produced the second Chicago goal before five minutes were up.

Gottselig took the puck and swept around the Detroit rear guard, back handing a pass to Morenz, who was ostensibly idling only five feet in front of the Wing net. The pass struck Howie's stick and he detoured it into the cage before Smith was aware of the situation, so well aimed was Gottselig's lateral.

The Cook line delivered again, bringing the score to 3 to 0, when Tommy took the puck up, slipped it casually through the Wing defense, and Trudell, completing the strategem perfectly, swooped down on it at top speed and laced it past the helpless Smith. The time was sixteen minutes.

Wings Fight Desperately.

The Hawks went into the last period a man short, Wiebe's penalty from the preceding session holding over for a minute. The Wings seized the young Hawk's absence as an opportunity to get in a few offensive licks, but they were as futile as they were few, the Chicago defense detaining all serious threats.

With ten seconds left to play Gottselig and Morenz repeated their scoring play of the second period, Johnny passing from the right boards to Howie, who again was loitering almost on Smith's skates when the puck came to him.

RAMAGE? JUST ANOTHER RIVER TO CROSS—LOUIS

Negro Slugger Wonders Who Comes Next.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The new "Big Black" man of fistiana, Joe Louis, young slasher from Detroit, sighed happily when he hung up his gloves at Trafton's gymnasium late yesterday afternoon. He had engaged in a strenuous drill and he appeared a trifle tired after it was all over.

"One more training day and then one more river to cross to get in the front row with the other big fellows," Louis chattered to handlers busily administering to his fatigued legs.

"I've been crossing those rivers for six months now and I can't see that they're getting any wider." Louis seems to have his situation pretty well sized up.

They Might Give Him the Duck.

The rivers, it is true, haven't been getting any wider, for Joe has landed safely each time, but if Louis crashes his sleeper punch into the jaw of Lee Ramage, California bidder for a top flight berth among the heavyweights at the Chicago Stadium on Friday night, he may find some wide open spaces separating him from another river to cross.

Before he can be so brazen as to demand attention from Champion Maxie Baer, the big Negro boy must eliminate our big fish merchant, King Levinsky of Maxwell street; Steve Hamas; Art Lasky, and perhaps one or two others.

If Louis flattens Ramage, which many shrewd students of boxing believe he'll do, will the Kingfish or any of the others who right now believe they should have the first crack at a big gate with Baer let him progress any nearer the championship? That situation is worrying Louis somewhat, and it also has many boxing followers in a quandary who believe Louis already is the master of every boxer in the world with the exception of Baer.

King Will Talk.

"Quit your kiddin," Levinsky said when he was asked if he would fight Louis." Such an answer coming from the Kingfish can be interpreted to mean many things. Hamas, Lasky, and the others won't even say that much. That's the reason Ramage has the match with Louis on Friday night.

He was the only fellow among the half dozen or so leading heavyweights—if they deserve to be classed as such—willing to battle Louis at this time.

Despite any reputation Ramage brought here from California, Louis has established himself so solidly with the Chicago lovers of devastating punching that he is certain to go into the ring against the westerner as the favorite.

Ramage sensed this situation yesterday. "I'll see if Louis can take it," he said. "I've tried to win most of my bouts by outboxing my opponents. That doesn't go for Louis. I'm ready to beat him to the punch, and if I do I'll bring him down."

End Drill Today.

The training ordeal for both boxers will end late this afternoon and the scales yesterday indicated Louis will probably have about a seven or eight pound weight advantage.

Teddy Yarosz, the middleweight champion, who has all but been forgotten in the wave of talk about the sensational Louis, will also end his training today. He battles Kid Leonard of Moline in the other feature match on the program. The champion appeared better in his workout yesterday than at any time since he arrived in Chicago,

NIGHT BASEBALL MAY BE LAUNCHED BY CINCINNATI

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Night baseball—something new on the big time—may be introduced in the major leagues next season.

Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Cincinnati Reds, said tonight his club has given serious consideration to playing a limited number of its games under the lights in 1935.

Crosley, here attending the annual meeting of the major leagues, said the Reds have drawn 70 per cent of their total attendance on opening days, Sundays and holidays, and added:

"I feel there is something wrong with a business which finds it necessary to operate on a losing basis on all but 15 days during the season."

Crosley said he is not waging a campaign for night baseball in the majors, but since week-day attendance is a problem in the smaller cities in the two circuits, he is considering scheduling seven night contests each year, one with each of the other seven clubs during the summer months.

Bank Teams Resume League Play Tonight

Teams of the Chicago Insurance Basketball league will pay four games at St. Michael's school gymnasium, Hudson and North avenues, tonight. America Fore will play Hartford Accident and Indemnity in the feature game. In the three other games Continental Casualty meets Insurance Company of North America, Chicago Board of Underwriters opposes Millers National Insurance company, and Kemper Insurance plays Fred S. James company.

Cleveland Gets Major League All-Star Game

Nothing Done About Dogs.

Here is something that did not happen in the National league meeting: The parent league did not raise hell with President Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves for wanting to unleash racing greyhounds in his hallowed enclosure, otherwise Braves' field. This does not mean, however, that Judge Fuchs has been authorized to place his order for the mechanical rabbit. And he won't until Commissioner Landis has his session, come Thursday. Then he'll probably put mechanical rabbits and whippets out of his life forever, it is said.

The magnates were so busy doing nothing in their formal meetings that the swap market virtually was paralyzed. There were many rumors, however, some of them based on direct statements made by managers who did not attend the league meetings.

Grimm May Stand Pat.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs, says he has cash to help him in his quest for one more starting pitcher, but that if his efforts fail he will be delighted to take his troupe as is to Catalina. It appears that Grimm has just about decided to keep Kiki Cuyler and Woody English. He still thinks he might give up Stanley Hack and a few others who will be released if he doesn't trade 'em. Included in this category are Charley Root, Don Hurst, Roy Joiner, et al.

Grimm further testifies that he is not hot after a first baseman. He allows that he would not be at all surprised to see Phil Cavaretta at first base opening day.

"The kid played ten games at the close of the season and won four of them with his bat," said Grimm. "On that showing I'm not going to discount him in the dead of winter because he has a long time to wait for his twentieth birthday."

Dykes Makes No Progress.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox made no headway. He has posted a cash offer for Catcher Luke Sewell of the Washington Senators. It is understood that the Sox may be involved in a triangular deal with the Senators and St. Louis Browns which, with other phases, would land Pitcher Bump Hadley back with the Senators, Third Baseman Ossie Bluege with the Browns, Sewell and First Baseman Jack Burns with the Sox, and Zeke Bonura with the Browns.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Browns, and Clark Griffith, president and owner of the Senators, had a long gabfest, but it broke up without any action. Hornsby said they only discussed generalities.

The Browns boss said the proposed trade of Oscar Melillo, his star second baseman, to the Boston Red Sox was still on the fire and had been since the world series but with no immediate prospects of consummation.

Frick Takes Office.

Besides inducting Ford Frick into office as successor to President John Heydler the National league installed Harvey Traband, former private secretary to Heydler, as secretary and treasurer, and elected four new directors, Samuel Breadon of St. Louis, Powel Crosley Jr. of Cincinnati, Gerry Nugent of Philadelphia, and Stephen McKeever of Brooklyn.

The only trade accomplished today sent Johnny Salveson, young right hander of the New York Giants, to Pittsburgh in exchange for Leon Chagnon, another right hander.

Ruth Says He'll Sign a Contract Only as Manager

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 11.—Babe Ruth will not sign a playing contract for the 1935 season, and he's through with baseball if he does not catch on as a manager. The Babe, who has been barnstorming through the orient with other American league stars under the direction of Connie Mack, made those facts plain today.

He will, however, be glad to sign as a playing manager, and is confident that officials of the American league, meeting now in New York, will see to it that he does not go to the National league in any capacity. The Babe added that as far as clubs he might manage are concerned, he has no preference.

Mack, who left for the States yesterday, denied that a managerial job had already been arranged for Ruth. The Babe and a number of other players will sail for Java Thursday.

Londos Won't Meet Savoldi or McMillen

Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling champion, through his manager, Ed White, last night definitly declined to meet the winner of Monday night's match at the Coliseum between Jim McMillen and Joe Savoldi. An offer was made by Doc Krone, promoter of the Coliseum contest, but White, who is in New York with Londos, wired:

"Londos has beaten both men and there is no reason nor demand for the match."

Krone was not surprised by White's reply because the champion's manager has turned down offers for Londos to meet McMillen or Savoldi frequently in the last year. Krone immediately made plans to ask the Illinois athletic commission to order Londos to meet the winner of the Monday match or quit wrestling in Illinois until he does.

The refusal of the commission to permit the use of the drop kick may not prove such a handicap to Savoldi after all, it was indicated last night when Krone talked with him by telephone. Savoldi now plans to employ McMillen's pet hold, the flying tackle, as his chief offensive weapon.

Interest is being displayed in the professional debut of Jerry [Fish] Gordon, Hebrew protégé of Benny Ruben, who is to meet Hans Bauer in the opener. Ruben asserts Gordon is one of the most promising youngsters he has seen in years.

TEMPLE DRILLS BY EASY STAGES TO MEET TULANE

Squad Will Stop En Route South for Practice.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Eager to have his charges at top form for the Tulane game, but unwilling to hasten the process Coach Glenn Pop Warner let the Temple university football squad off with another light drill today.

Warner hopes to leave here fully ten days before the New Year's day Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans to do most of the heavy work beyond the sweep of the north's icy blasts.

Team Will Stop Off Enroute.

University officials said the squad will not go directly to New Orleans but will stop off enroute for practice sessions. The intermediate practice point probably will be selected tomorrow.

Warner said "I want to get the squad in good shape for Tulane. It will be a gruelling game and we must be fit." Nevertheless, he said there will be no scrimmaging before departure for the south.

Mowrey Only Absentee.

With Horace Mowrey, left half back, the only absentee, the Temple squad went through calisthenics, devoted some time to signal practice and polished off with a "touch" game.

It is still doubtful whether Mowrey's wrist, fractured in a recent game, will be in shape to permit his playing against Tulane. He will start workouts Friday. Lloyd Wise's charleyhorse is no longer giving him any serious trouble and he is expected to be at left end.

Y. M. C. A. MEETS KENOSHA.

The Irving Park Y. M. C. A. heavyweight basketball team will open its home season tonight, meeting the Ke-Nash-A Five from Kenosha, Wis., on the Y. M. C. A. floor.

Tulane Coach Lauds Work of Warner at Temple

New Orleans, La., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Ted Cox, coach of Tulane's football squad which will meet the Temple eleven in the Sugar Bowl game here on New Year's day, said today that Pop Warner, Temple's coach, is one of the few coaches who "invented something in football."

His remarks were made at a luncheon honoring the Tulane coaching staf and members of the team.

"For several years," he said, "Temple has been losing only about one game a year. Since Pop Warner went there as coach its teams have shown much improvement. Pop Warner, I consider, is the greatest football coach living today, one of the few about whom it may be said that he invented something in football.

"You can count on Temple to do its best. This is a big game for Temple. In many respects it will be the turning point in Temple's athletic history.

"Tulane will do its best, too. Tulane will have to—or Temple will chase it out of the stadium. We have given our boys a two weeks layoff. We have had a hard season and the rest will do them good.

"We will have two weeks to get into condition for the game and I believe I can promise that the team will be in the pink."

Coach Warner, while coaching at Haskell and Stanford, originated the double wingback formation from which many deceptive offensive thrusts can be made.

OLIN DUTRA'S 144 LEADS FIELD IN MIAMI GOLF

Open Champion Shoots 74 on Second Round.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 11.—(AP)—It was a cold, ill wind today that blew no one any good, but a 74, three over par, gave Olin Dutra, national open champion, a thirty-six hole score of 144 to top the field of 300 at the half way mark in the seventy-two hole $12,500 Miami Biltmore open golf tournament.

So strongly did the frigid wind sweep the 6,640 yard course that only four players were able to break 76. Cards for virtually the entire field today ranged from the extreme high 70s to the low 80s.

Longo Shoots 73.

To Tony Longo of Mamaroneck, N. Y., went the honor of being the low scorer against the icy wind. He took a 73 which, with a previous 76, gave him a 149 to place him in a three way tie in fifth place.

In addition to Dutra, who had 70—74, and Longo, Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., and Jack Thompson of Youngstown, O., were the only golfers to crack 76. Smith had a 74, which gave him a thirty-six hole score of 150 for a tie at sixth place with six other players, and Thompson had a 75 which, with a previous 79, threw him farther back in the field with 154.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago, who played his second round yesterday with the first half of the field, is in second place with 146.

Deadlocked at 147 are Johnny Farrell of Short Hills, N. J., Orville White of St. Louis and Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y. They also played their second round yesterday.

Armour Scores 150.

Leonard B. Schmutte of Findlay, O., and Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., shot 148 for next place. Tying Longo's 149 today were Maurrie O'Connor of Belleville, N. J., and Jake Frassezke of Jackson, Mich.

Smith's pair of 37's today placed the former Missouri player in a seven way tie at 150 with Tommy Armour of Medina, Ill., Phil Perkins of Willoughby, O., Gene Kunes of Norristown, Pa., "Viffy Cox of Brooklyn, Sonny Rouse of Highland Park, Ill., and Jack Forrester of Oradell, N. J.

Following play today all the players in the first division of the tournament, the low 80's and ties in the second division, and all in the third group which is made up of amateurs were selected to participate in the final two 18 hole rounds to be played tomorrow and Thursday. Those who did not qualify today automatically were dropped.

Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., the defending champion, posted a 151 to be tied in next position with four other players.

Field Is Reduced.

Following play today all members of the first and third division and 85 players from the second division were selected to participate in the final two 18 hole rounds, to be played tomorrow and Thursday.

Qualifying score for the second group was 158 and under. Those failing to equal the score automatically were dropped from the tournament.

Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Bruises acquired in an automobile accident eight days ago are not going to interfere for long with golfing plans of Lawson Little Jr., British and American amateur champion. Little sailed through the windshield of his car here on Dec. 3 in a collision with a milk truck, but aside from the aforementioned bruises, recovered immediately and has been attending classes regularly.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The sorry progress of the St. Louis Eagles of the National Hockey league, who have lost 11 out of 13 games thus far, today caused Eddie Gerard to hand in his resignation as manager, Gerard said his only reason for quitting was the long string of defeats. The latter managed the Eagles prior to the transfer of their franchise here, when they were the Ottawa Senators.

McEwan Out as Coach of Dodger Eleven

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—In the wake of the championship game between the New York Giants and Chicago Bears and the rule changes adopted by the National Football league in its annual midwinter meeting yesterday, came news today that at least two of the ten member clubs will have new coaches next year.

It was learned that Capt. John J. McEwan, former Army star and coach, is definitly out as coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Luby De Meola, who coached the Pittsburgh Pirates through a disastrous season, also has been dismissed.

Dodgers Face Shakeup.

McEwan's dismissal came as the first step in what is expected to be a wholesale reorganization of the Dodgers who, although a contender for the eastern division title, did not fare well financially.

Don Topping Jr., Greenwich, Conn., sportsman, who holds controling interest in the Dodgers, is understood to be trying to sign an outstanding college coach for 1935.

Among those reported to have been approached are John F. [Chick] Meehan of Manhattan college; Andy Kerr of Colgate and Herb Kopf, back field coach and chief assistant to Lou Little at Columbia. Topping is said to have offered Meehan $20,000 to coach Brooklyn next year. Meehan turned down the offer.

Grange Shuns Pros.

Most prominently mentioned for the Pittsburgh Pirates position is Harold [Red] Grange of the Bears, who has announced he will quit playing after ten years of professional football. Arthur Rooney, owner of the Pirates, sounded out Grange yesterday on the Pirate situation.

Grange, however, reached tonight at Philadelphia, where he and the Bears are preparing for an exhibition game with the Eagles Saturday, disclaimed any intention of taking a professional coaching job.

"This professional league is too tough," Grange said. "They expect you to win every game. What I would like to do, however, is to get a college coaching job somewhere. I'm all washed up as a player. That I know."

A free agent after he completes the season with the Bears, Grange can do what he pleases. As a player or coach, the former Illinois star, unquestionably is still a great drawing card in college or professional ball.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The peculiarities of the Indiana High School Athletic association code on eligibility today ruled Marion Kaczmarek, Central High school's basketball captain, ineligible for play this year, but made him eligible for competition next fall.

Maroon Eleven to Be Honored at a Dinner Tomorrow

Restoration of Waterfowl Areas Begins

BY BOB BECKER.

A start toward restoring to their original use the great hereditary meeting grounds of migratory waterfowl in the United States is now under way, according to an announcement made recently by the Biological Survey. Since waterfowl hunters have gone through several lean years because of dwindling supplies of birds this news ought to be welcome to hundreds of thousands of sportsmen.

J. Clark Salyer, who is in charge of the migratory waterfowl division of the Biological Survey, has just reported on the current progress of the work of waterfowl restoration. He points out that large areas which have suffered from unwise drainage and from drouth are being reclaimed in a national restoration program designed as a partial offset to the rapid decrease in the numbers of ducks and geese.

Prairie Grass Offered Cover.

Salyer explains that formerly the prairie nesting grounds in the United States extended from the Canadian border to the Ruthaven marshes in Iowa, the Nebraska sandhills, and the Black Hills of South Dakota, northwest to Lake Bowdoin in Montana, and by the Des Lacs lakes and Turtle mountains of North Dakota to Mud lake in Minnesota.

"A great breeding ground, it once had the three requisites for waterfowl existence," he says. "Prairie grasses offered the highest type of cover. A thousand lakes and streams and a million snow filled pothills formerly afforded unlimited food and securities. Enemies were few and casual, and the isolation was perfect. Amid such surroundings many a brood of ducklings passed the summer and was on the wing before seeing a human being.

"Today," he continues, "our part of the old nesting ground has been forsaken by the birds. Man and weather have combined to destroy what once attracted them. After the early accustomed mobilization there in tho spring the ducks and geese perforce move on into the upper Canadian prairie region—a natural continuation of our nesting grounds—and not so desperately seared by drouth. The vast numbers of potholes and all but the deepest lakes were dry."

Allot $8,500,000 for Work.

The program of restoration is being carried on under an allotment of $8,500,000 from emergency funds. This money is being used for the acquisition, improvement, and administration of wild life refuge areas, and additional funds totaling around $500,000 or more are anticipated from the sale of migratory bird stamps.

Twelve great nesting refuges for waterfowl have been planned with a combined area of 300,000 acres. It is hoped that these will produce several million ducks each season. After going through the last few seasons of hunting, sportsmen know that they can't get these refuges operating too soon for the good of waterfowl and the sport of waterfowl hunting.

GIBBONS SIGNS TO MEET ZALE IN TEN ROUNDS

Jack Gibbons, son of the old Fantom Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn., yesterday signed for a 10 round bout with Tony Zale. They will meet at the Midway arena on Monday night. Johnny Coulon made the match.

Young Gibbons claims 40 victories and has scored six in a row in Chicago. Last week he boxed an exhibition here with his father, who has made plans to be in the lad's corner when he goes against Zale.

Mostly About Dogs

By Bob Becker

Wires Start Things.

This corner of The Tribune is "going to the dogs" every Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Here dogs of all breeds—even the lowly pooch that hasn't a license tag and is pretty much of a vagabond—can always find admittance. We shall discuss many dog problems, including those of selecting, raising, and training canines.

At least once a week we shall confine ourselves to a single breed of dogs. That breed is to be pictured in the rotogravure section of The Tribune on the Sunday preceding. But the whole idea behind this canine meeting place is that here all owners, breeders, and others interested in dogs may exchange ideas, if they wish, and inquire or declaim on problems concerning their pets.

Yesterday a reader called to ask our advice about buying a puppy for a Christmas present. He said he and two of his friends were a bit puzzled about certain breeds, but that his friends had half decided that they wished wire-haired terriers.

It is not surprising that a prospective dog owner has a "leaning" toward wire-haired terriers. This breed [pictured last Sunday in The Tribune rotogravure section] is one of the most popular in America today. You see lots of them in the dog shows. You see them along the boulevards. In fact, the snappy, alert little wire-haired terriers are the favorites of thousands of dog owners.

The memory of our last wire-haired terrier is still fresh. Summing up his good qualities as well as his faults, we can draw a picture something like this: The wire-haired fox terrier is a keen, alert, intelligent dog. You can teach him "most anything," and it doesn't take many lessons for him to catch on, either. Another important thing about the wire is this—he is an extremely active dog. He is all terrier; always ready for a romp; always imbued with the idea that he must look after the house.

As a matter of fact our terrier took over the watching of the house so completely that he was sort of a canine "manager." A tramp had about as much chance of getting near the back door as a snowball rolling uphill.

Not only does the fox terrier make a good watchdog to sound an alarm [he's not heavy enough, of course, to down powerful intruders], but he will act also as the canine clown of the house. He's a natural little showoff, amusing, playful, and full of fun. And there is no doubt about this terrier's courage. Our wire, Zipper, was ready to fight anything from a German shepherd dog to a farmyard bull. Nothing was too big for him, so we had to watch him carefully to keep him from getting his ears chewed off.

In view of the wire's boundless energy, it is evident that any one wishing a dog of a rather reserved, quiet type should not acquire a wire haired terrier. He's an up and coming, peppy fellow, and for that reason a dandy playmate of the children. Zipper, the wire who formerly "managed" our home, now is in a home with three children and he's happier than ever, because he is getting many hours of roughhouse and play. And he's well able to take care of himself in these play hours. As you might expect, this type of dog is inclined to bark quite a bit and can become too noisy at times, but early training and schooling will modify this trait.

Another point about the wire which accounts for some of his popularity is his looks. He is an aristocratic, clean cut, attractive little fellow who steps around as though he knew himself a blueblood.

CRUSADERS PLAY LAFAYETTE.

The Crusaders Big Five will play the Lafayette Lambs basketball team at the Savoy ballroom, 47th and South Park way, Friday night.

CLOSING RULE BRINGS 2 TIES IN PREP GAMES

Harrison and Bowen Play to 23-23 Deadlock.

The 5 o'clock closing rule put into effect by the board of education last year prevented two Chicago Public High School league basketball practice games from being completed yesterday. The ruling calls for all lights to be turned out in school buildings at 5 o'clock.

Harrison and Bowen lightweight teams failed to reach a decision in their game on the latter's court, the contest ending in a 23 to 23 tie. The Crane Tech and Farragut lightweights also tied, 22 to 22, the game being called late in the last half.

Quintets of the City, Catholic and Suburban leagues continued preparations for the championship races. In one of the outstanding games on yesterday's schedule Waller heavyweights triumphed over St. Michael, 19 to 18.

Glenbard High school's football team, winner of the West Suburban conference championship, will be honored at a banquet tonight at the Glenbard gymnasium. Dick Hanley, Northwestern football coach; Fred Walker, former University of Chicago player, and Ell Patterson, captain of the Maroons, will be among the speakers. Each member of the Glenbard team will be awarded gold footballs.

Lou Hamity, captain of the Hyde Park football team, was selected as the most valuable player by his teammates yesterday. He was awarded a silver football. Fourteen players, including Hamity, were given letters.

A LA CARTE WINS AT FAIR GROUNDS BY 2½ LENGTHS

Catino Places; Dauntless Miss Is Third.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The 6 year old gelding A la Carte showed a return to his best form when he scored easily in the mile and a sixteenth of the featured Algiers claiming purse at the Fair Grounds today.

Carrying the colors of Joseph Madonia, the son of Transmute romped home two and a half lengths ahead of B. F. Clark's Catino, with A. K. Miller's Dauntless Miss four lengths farther back in third place.

Six started in the feature and A la Carte appeared far the best, coming from off the early pace to win easily. Running Heel, Pan Toy, and Hildur Prince finished as named after the first three.

Hildur Prince Stumbles.

The race might easily have been a closer one had Hildur Prince not stumbled at the start. Clyde Troutt's racer was ready for the break and would have been a stout contender, but lost his footing momentarily and dropped to one knee just as the start came. As a result he trailed the field all the way. In his last outing Hildur Prince won by three lengths over A la Carte.

Dropping five pounds from his last start, A la Carte found favor among the betters and paid $4,40 straight. His time for the distance was 1:46 2-5.

The form players, who found the result of the feature to their liking, were bitterly disappointed in the first race, when the 3 to 5 choice, Precious Betty, finished out of the money.

60 to 1 Shot is Third.

Respess and Hoffman's Butterfly captured the 5½ furlong dash, with Highland Downs second and the 60 to 1 shot Golden Thorne third. Butterfly led most of the way, but barely lasted to finish a nose ahead of the second-place racer.

Precious Betty, backed heavily, largely because of her four-length victory in her last outing, had a rough trip. She was caught in crowding soon after the start and suffered interference again on the turn into the stretch. She finished fifth.

Butterfly, in scoring the first triumph of her career, paid $9.20 straight. Her time was 1:07 4-5.

National Race Body Outlines Plans and Aims

New Orleans, La., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Organization plans and aims of the National Racing association were outlined here today by Fordyce Kimbell of New Orleans, who is slated to become executive secretary following the final organization meeting at Miami, Fla., Jan. 8.

The association will have as its members the operating heads of the various race tracks throughout the United States and representatives of the state racing commissions of California, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, New York, Texas, Michigan, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Invited to Form Board.

The following men have been invited to become members of the first board of directors.

Albert Sabath, Hawthorne, Chicago; Otto Lehmann, Arlington Park, Chicago; E. R. Bradley, formerly owner of the Fair Grounds here; Col. Matt Winn, Churchill Downs, Washington Park, Lincoln Fields, and Latonia; Louis Smith, Rockingham Park and Epsom Downs; W. P. Kyne, Bay Meadows, San Francisco; Edward Burke, Havre de Grace; Joseph M. Schenck, Santa Anita and Agua Caliente; Joseph Widener, Belmont Park and Hialeah, Miami; George H. Bull, Saratoga; C. W. Bidwell, secretary of the American Turf association, and Joseph Cattaranich, Fair Grounds, Fairmount, Aurora, and Bainbridge.

Office in Chicago.

The association, which intends to maintain a permanent office in Chicago, plans to coöperate with the national association of state racing commissions, standardize the operating conditions at various major race tracks, coöperate with the code authorities if a code is adopted for American race tracks, inaugurate sweeping innovations and explain to the public the methods which are employed in the conduct of the tracks and mutuel departments.

According to present plans, the association activities will be maintained by the 30 major race tracks in the United States.

AMBERS REPLACES CANZONERI AS ROSS CHALLENGER

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Patrick J. Callahan was named to succeed Charles [Chick] Goodman as deputy boxing commissioner by the New York state athletic commission today.

The commission also announced it will recognize Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., as the outstanding challenger for the lightweight championship, now held by Barney Ross. In naming Ambers the board explained Tony Canzoneri, previously rated the foremost challenger, lost his ranking by his failure to accept an offer to box Ross in Chicago.

LARD PRICES CLOSE STEADY TO HIGHER IN LIGHT TRADE

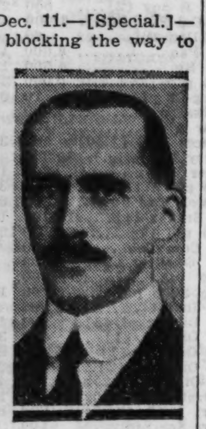
WARNS POLITICS, NOT ECONOMICS, BLOCKS REVIVAL

Ayres Cites Fears on Regulation, Money.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Barriers that are blocking the way to prosperity are not natural economic ones but artificial political ones, said Leonard P. Ayres, vice president and widely known economist of the Cleveland Trust company, in an address before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce today.



LEONARD P. AYRES

He asserted the chief unsolved problem of the depression is unemployment in the durable goods industries and that there are three great obstacles which block the way to resumption of normal production in durable goods and reëmployment in these industries. These include, he said, the pervading fear that extension of governmental regulation over the details of business operations will make it impossible for many corporations to make profits, also the fear about the future of our money. The third obstacle, he said, is the newly revised securities act.

Urges Dropping Recovery Act.

The three readjustments of our economic machine which are politically the most feasible, he said, include the abandonment of the National Industrial Recovery act when it lapses next June, replacing it with new legislation designed to restore to business greater freedom in profit and price competition.

There should also be convincing evidence that federal policy is moving toward the attainment of a balanced budget based on sound money, he warned. Lastly, he said, there should be a thorough revision of the securities act to make the issuance of new corporate securities as simple and inexpensive a proceeding as is compatible with safeguarding the interests of investors.

"It is futile to object that such readjustments as those proposed would impair projects for social reform that have been added to our recovery efforts," he asserted. "The truth is that the outlook for the reforms is hopeless unless business recovers. In the long run economics always prevails over politics.

Plenty of Time for Reforms.

"Ahead we have all the time there is in which to effect reforms, but we have left only a limited period within which business recovery can be based on our existing institutions."

He added that there is a brilliant opportunity for ending the depression. In theory, the present accumulated shortages of durable goods amount to as much as the normal output of all the durable goods industries for two and a half years, he said. If these accumulated shortages are to be made up those industries would have to operate at 25 per cent above their normal rates for 10 years, he asserted.

"At about present prices the value of durable goods shortages is approximately 55 billion dollars," said Ayres. "In addition, there is an indicated accumulated shortage in building of about 25 billions, and in undermaintenance and needed new equipment of public utilities and railroads one amounting to perhaps 5 billions more.

"These items would give us a total of 85 billions of existing shortages of durable goods and new building, much of which the American people both need and want. Compared with such figures public appropriations seem puny, and as an opportunity to absorb unemployment all programs of public works appear by comparison feebly inadequate."

EXTEND OPTION FOR EXCHANGING ARMOUR SHARES

The option to holders of the old 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock in Armour & Co. to exchange share for share for new 6 per cent cumulative prior preferred stock and a bonus of two shares of common stock to cancel dividend arrears has been extended again to March 11.

The option originally was to have expired on Sept. 15. This was extended to Dec. 10, with the added provision that exchange up to Oct. 1 would permit sharing in the $1.50 dividend of that date. Another dividend on the new stock generally is expected Jan. 1. The old preferred has not yielded a dividend since Jan. 2, 1931, and will have accrued arrears of $28 a share at the end of this year.

The company reported that 94 per cent of the old 7 per cent issue has been canceled and new shares taken. This would mean that only a little more than 34,000 of the 572,313 old shares still remain. On Sept. 22, just prior to payment of a dividend on the new stock, the conversion figure stood at 88 per cent.

PULLMAN CO. NET FALLS TO $53,701 DURING OCTOBER

The Pullman company, sleeping car affiliate of Pullman, Inc., had net profit after taxes for October of $53,701, compared with $174,157 in October of last year, it was announced yesterday.

Gross earnings for the month totaled $3,790,091 against $3,526,098 in October, 1933. For the first ten months of the year net profits after taxes amounted to $557,059, compared with net loss of $841,744 in the corresponding period of 1933. Gross for the period totaled $36,966,177, against $32,134,594 a year ago.

Find Whitney Talk Is Cold as Blizzard

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The 860 Chicago business and financial leaders who braved the worst blizzard of the year Monday night to sit at the feet of Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, in the hope of getting some information about the outlook for the securities business, yesterday were nursing their chilblains and asking each other what it was all about.

The almost universal complaint along La Salle street was that, in keeping with pre-depression tradition, the president of the New York Stock exchange had "talked down" to his Chicago audience instead of being informative.

Another criticism was that Mr. Whitney had merely used the Chicago meeting as a sounding board to plead the cause of the New York Stock exchange. And still another sore spot lay in his championing the capitalistic system and the New York exchange in the same breath.

The Chicagoans were pointing out that the capitalistic system and the "big board," at least as it has been conducted during the last ten years, are by no means Siamese twins and that capital has enough trouble just now without assuming, in addition, the burden of the New York Stock exchange.

The Chicagoans who trudged through the snowdrifts to hear Mr. Whitney—and these days there are many in the securities business who walk—were more amused than annoyed to find the speaker lecturing them on the good points of the traditional American system of capital and private profits. If there was one individual in the entire audience of 860 who didn't already believe wholeheartedly in that system he wasn't spotted. It was like trying to "sell" the railroads to a group of conductors and brakemen.

What the audience expected from the head of the biggest security exchange in the country was some talk about the workability of the new security laws, the possibility of their being administered in such a way as to permit resumption of the flow of capital into industry, the outlook for business in 1935, and a cross section of opinions of eastern financiers on such matters.

It was clear yesterday that if Mr. Whitney came here to sell the New York Stock exchange to the group of bank presidents, securities merchants, and miscellaneous customers' men and bond salesmen who packed the grand ballroom of the Palmer house Monday night he wasted his time.

For years while the New York Stock exchange has dominated the stock and bond business in the United States there has been no love lost between the securities men in New York and Chicago. The Chicago Stock exchange people have smothered their resentment against domineering practices and condescending atttitude of the New Yorkers because so many members have been western representatives of New York Stock exchange houses whose first loyalty has been toward the eastern group.

The first faint sign of a growing spirit of independence appeared about two years ago when the governors of the Chicago exchange started to clean their own house without waiting for the lead to come from New York.

2 BOND HOUSES, COCOA EXCHANGE VOTE YULE BONUS

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Christmas bonuses were announced today by two municipal bond dealers and the New York Cocoa exchange. Carr, Henry & Doyle will give from two to ten weeks' pay, based on length of service, while Bennett Brothers & Johnson will give from three to six weeks' pay on a similar basis. The Cocoa exchange will give all employés one week's pay extra.

Among the large private banking firms and houses of issue, such as J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., no intimation was given as to whether a bonus would or would not be paid.

Decision of the New York Cocoa exchange to give a week's pay as a Christmas bonus was the first such action among the commodity exchanges. Inquiries at other commodity exchanges disclosed that no such action has been taken and that some exchanges had not even taken the matter under consideration.

KROGER GROCERY SALES 5% AHEAD OF YEAR AGO

The Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday reported sales of $17,066,616 in the four weeks ended Dec. 2, an increase of $798,305, or 5 per cent, over the $16,268,311 reported for the corresponding period of last year. In the preceding four weeks sales amounted to $17,102,027.

In the forty-eight weeks ended Dec. 2 sales totaled $202,602,494, compared with $188,768,413 in the corresponding period of 1933, a gain of $13,834,081, or 7 per cent. As of Dec. 2 the company was operating 4,352 stores, against 4,424 a year ago.

Sales of Schiff & Co. in the five weeks ended Dec. 1 amounted to $959,078, compared with $988,447 a year ago, while for the first eleven months of the year the total was $9,579,548, against $8,304,135 in the corresponding period of 1933.

Schulte Stores Raise Pay in New Wage Agreement

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Twelve hundred employés of the D. A. Schulte Cigar Stores company were given salary increases today in an agreement signed by the company with Retail Cigar Salesmen's union, local 906. Employés in the lower pay brackets were given a 25 per cent increase and those in the higher brackets 20 per cent. The agreement also provided for vacations with pay, union recognition, and collective bargaining. The pay increases, President Louis Goldfogel said, will cost the company $250,000 a year.

Glass Says He Is Still 'Rebel' on Bank Policy

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—A conference of more than an hour with President Roosevelt left Senator Glass today, as he described himself still "an unreconstructed rebel."

SENATOR GLASS.

The Virginia senator, co-author of the federal reserve act, who has been one of the most severe although friendly critics of administration policies, told newspaper men that he thought there was little need now for additional banking legislation.

"I told the President that I thought it was as important though for congress to prevent evil legislation as to enact good legislation," he said.

Sees Reserve Under Treasury.

"What do you think of the reported movement to put the federal reserve board more directly under the treasury department?" he was asked.

"Damn it," he replied, "it's been under the treasury for twelve years."

"Then how about other reported efforts to put the federal reserve banks more closely under direction of the federal reserve board as, for instance, in the naming of governors of the banks?"

"Damn it," he said again, "why put the banks in that position? They were supposed to be regional banks and not part of a central bank."

Wants Careful Bank Loans.

"Do you think the banks are doing their part now?" he was asked.

"Well, what are the banks supposed to do? Their job is to loan money, but it's not their own money; it's money that belongs to depositors, and they should exact adequate security for their loans."

Senator Glass went on to say that the primary purpose of his call was to "try to get a Democrat appointed to an office," and added with a twinkle in his eye:

"I won't tell you what office, because you might put in a Republican."

$11,000,000 MORE GOLD BOUGHT FOR SHIPPING TO U. S.

New York, Dec. 11. — [Special.] — About $11,000,000 more gold has been engaged abroad for shipment here, it was learned today, bringing to about $179,000,000 the total of gold bought abroad for American account since Nov. 1. Of this total amount about $136,000,000 has already been imported, while about $43,000,000 is either en route or awaiting shipping facilities.

Of the $11,000,000 additional gold just engaged about half has been purchased in France and the remainder is coming from India, England, and Canada.

Foreign gold currencies were steady to higher against the dollar in the exchange market here today, while the British pound lost ¾ cent to close at $4.95. The French franc rose ⅛ point to 6.59¼ cents.

Based on the old par of the franc the value of the dollar was 59.43 cents, compared with 59.44 cents yesterday, while calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was worth $1.0063, against $1.0064.

Italian lire gained ¾ point to close at 8.54¼ cents and guilders rose 1 point to 67.62 cents.

Bullion brokers in London maintained the price of gold at 140 shillings 4½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.76, based on the opening of sterling at $4.95¼. Bars valued at $2,971,500 were purchased.

EDITORS AGAINST FORCED INSURANCE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Opposition to a compulsory government system of unemployment insurance was expressed by a majority of 4,682 newspaper and farm journal editors as the opinion in their communities in a survey announced today by the national industrial conference board.

"In all sections of the country except the Pacific and mountain states, a majority of these editors report that their communities are definitly opposed to such a system," the conference board stated.

The following replies were received to the question "Does public opinion in your community favor a compulsory government system of unemployment insurance?"

Geographic division of replies:	Percentage Yes.			Percentage No.
New England	60	or	33.5	110	or	61.5
Middle Atlantic	221	or	40.9	308	or	57.0
East north central	349	or	35.0	628	or	63.0
West north central	449	or	31.9	916	or	65.1
South Atlantic	116	or	37.8	184	or	59.9
East south central	97	or	46.6	110	or	52.9
West south central	220	or	48.1	231	or	50.5
Mountain	132	or	57.9	92	or	40.4
Pacific	205	or	57.1	145	or	40.4

Seventy-five per cent declared their communities favored exclusive federal action in administration of unemployment insurance, 16 per cent said exclusive state, and 7 per cent declared their communities favored joint action by federal and state governments.

The third question asked how those communities approving compulsory unemployment insurance preferred to have it financed. Twenty-nine per cent wanted contributions by the government, employers and workers. Twenty-four per cent favored contributions by workers only. Seventeen per cent favored government contributions only. Thirteen per cent asked for employer and worker contributions. Eight per cent favored exclusive employer support. Four per cent favored government and worker contributions.

STANDARD OF N. J. BOOSTS GASOLINE PRICE 5.9 CENTS

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The two-month old gasoline price war in New Jersey will end tomorrow when advances posted by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today restoring service station quotations to pre-war levels will become effective.

Advances will range up 5.9 cents a gallon and early action by other major companies to meet the new price schedule is expected. Major companies had been posting at 10.4 cents a gallon, tax included, with the exception of Warner-Quinlan, which advanced its price to 14.5 cents, tax included, a week ago Monday.

Under the new schedule service station prices for gasoline at Newark and Camden, the two areas where price cutting reached its bitterest point, will be advanced 5.3 and 5.9 cents a gallon, to 15.7 and 15.9 cents, tax included, respectively. Premium gasoline will be 2 cents a gallon above regular grades.

Trade circles reported that the abandonment of third grade gasoline, disclosed in the announcement of the advances, was in order to assure independent support of the advance. Reports from well informed circles indicated that independent advances will establish a 1 cent a gallon differential.

N. Y. Stock Seat Is Sold at $95,000; Rise of $25,000

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The New York Stock exchange today announced the sale of a membership for $95,000, an increase of $25,000 over the last previous transfer. The transaction was the first since Oct. 30, and marked the first increase between sales since Oct. 17.

Plan 800,000 Auto Output in 3 Months

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Automobile production schedules for the first quarter of 1935 indicate a probable output of about 800,000 cars and trucks, according to estimates made today. In the first quarter of this year only 750,000 units were produced. Nevertheless, this was the largest output since 1930, when 1,046,000 units were manufactured.

A major section of the railroad industry depends for revival on an increase in automobile production. For this reason, as well as the importance in increased output to the steel industry, the financial district is extremely interested in early estimates of production for the forthcoming year.

Ford Ready for Display.

The new Ford is assembled and practically ready for public display, it is said. Henry Ford's optimism about his company's production for the year has tended to influence other manufacturers in making increased estimates for 1935.

The demand for cars at present is termed relatively firm by dealers, who expect a gradually mounting sales index unless some unanticipated wrench is thrown in the general economic mechanism.

If automobile production in the first quarter of 1934 should reach as high as 900,000 units the average first quarter output for the last 12 years would be approximated. Generally, March production accounts for at least 40 per cent of the first quarter production.

January to Exceed This Year.

It is reported, however, that little doubt exists that January production will exceed the comparable 1934 month by a good margin. A minimum output of 200,000 units is anticipated for next month, based on production plans of the major manufacturers. In January, 1934, actual output amounted to 164,000 units.

The fact that manufacturers have been free from the serious delay attendant on last year's change in year-end models is largely responsible for the increased schedules. Last year the strike of tool and die makers, which occurred in the fall, retarded production in many important plants for one month or more. Ford, the only producer not affected by the strike, was alone among the three dominant producers in fulfilling January production schedules.

This year's production approximates 2,850,000 cars and trucks, largest annual total since 1930. This represents a 44 per cent increase over 1933, which in turn was 38.6 per cent above the sixteen year low of 1,430,000 units registered in 1932.

TWO STANDARD OIL PATENTS ARE HELD INVALID

A ruling that two oil cracking process patents held by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana are invalid and an attendant order dismissing a suit of the Standard Oil against the Globe Oil and Refining company were handed down yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

The suit was based on an alleged infringement of the two patents. Involved were the Lewis and Cooke patent known as the "bubble tower" and the Schaeffer and Brown patent known as the "coil cracking still." An affirmative ruling would have resulted in an accounting for damages involving millions of dollars, according to attorneys. A number of other suits relating to the oil cracking processes are pending in other federal jurisdictions.

In his opinion Judge Barnes held the two patents were invalid because they represented a "mere aggregation of old elements without any new results."

LUMBERMEN ASK NRA TO ABOLISH ITS PRICE FIXING

'Quack Remedies' Hit at Capital Hearing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Declaring that the New Deal has given industry "quack remedies—price fixing, production control, and birth control," representatives of western and southern lumber interests today asked the NRA to junk the price fixing section of the lumber code.

The lumbermen's attack on price fixing was one of the first to come from industry itself and is regarded here as heralding a new development which may soon boil the NRA down to mere wage and hour controls, stripping it of all complex and unworkable trade practice regulations.

W. A. Harriman, administrative officer of NRA, revealed today that the NRA itself is going over all codes in an effort to determine what trade practice regulations, including price fixing, are feasible. Other unworkable code regulations may be junked, Harriman indicated.

West Admits Failure.

The lumbermen, at a public hearing today, were frank in declaring that price fixing in their code was a failure, especially in the western area. NRA's price fiats have broken down from disregard and their wholesale violation "is now making an army of scofflaws and lawbreakers." F. H. Ransom of Portland, Ore., told the hearing.

"The price control system is creating moral chaos in the industry," A. W. Clapp of St. Paul told the NRA. "The present system is economically unsound. Even if we had twice the degree of voluntary compliance, the system would work economic disaster to the industry."

Not more than 5 per cent of the lumber sales made on the west coast during the last 60 days have complied with the NRA price orders and not more than 15 per cent of the sales made during recent months have complied, according to a letter from Lyle S. Vincent, former price control director for the west coast, which was presented at the hearing.

All Ignore Code.

"Now nobody pays any attention to the code," H. W. Bunker of San Francisco declared, joining the chorus of those who complained of widespread violations and complete collapse.

He declared that overexpansion was the lumber industry's trouble.

"In every such emergency," Bunker said, "somebody proposes quack remedies—price fixing, production control, and birth control—and quack remedies usually are prescribed by quack doctors."

Mr. Ransom, who accused NRA of breeding "scofflaws," also told how his company, which had been in business since 1895, was forced to close down, throwing 500 men out of work, because it obeyed the NRA price orders while others did not.

Must Charge Premium.

"We can't get business unless our customers agree to pay a premium above the market price, or we violate the code by meeting the market price," he explained.

E. C. Stone of Seattle pointed out that elimination of price fixing in the code need not affect the wage and hour controls of labor. He declared that these labor provisions were workable and had the backing of the industry. His statement made the lumbermen's proposal fit into the suggested remodeling of the NRA which, according to present plans, will eliminate price and production control but strengthen the labor regulations.

HUDSON MOTOR PRICES WILL BE LOWER IN 1935

The Hudson Motor Car company yesterday announced that prices on 1935 Hudson and Terraplane cars will be from $15 to $35 lower than the corresponding models this year. It was also stated that a new six cylinder Hudson, priced between the Terraplane and the Hudson eight, will be placed on the market.

Base prices for Terraplane begin at $585 for the two passenger coupe and range to $725 for the de luxe convertible coupe. The new Hudson six starts at $695 for the two passenger coupe and ranges to $790 for the convertible coupe. Hudson eight special models run from $760 to $860, the de luxe eight from $845 to $955, and the eight custom models from $1,125 to $1,195.

Many Firms Act Favorably on Dividends

Directors of the Virginia railway yesterday declared a dividend of $2 a share on common stock, the first dividend on the stock since a quarterly disbursement of $1.50 a share was made July 1, 1932. Common stock totals 312,000 shares and is closely held. In 1933 the company reported 355 common stock holders.

Directors of Loews, Inc., declared an extra dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock and the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents.

Crown Willamette Paper company voted two dividends of $1 each on account of accumulations on the $7 first preferred.

Steel Regular and Extra.

Acme Steel company approved an extra disbursement of 12½ cents a share and a regular quarterly payment of 37½ cents.

Bucyrus Monigan company declared 90 cents a share on class B stock, marking the first payment since Jan. 2, 1934. Western Pipe and Steel company ordered 25 cents a share on common, the first payment since December, 1932.

Midland Steel Products voted a dividend of $1 a share on the 8 per cent preferred on account of the Oct. 1 accrual. Winn & Lovett Grocery company declared an initial dividend of 50 cents a share on class B common. Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada voted an extra of $1 a share. El Dorado Oil Works declared an extra of 37½ cents a share.

Mining Stock Rate Raised.

Tintic Standard Mining company authorized a dividend of 22½ cents a share on common stock, compared with 10 cents a share paid in September. Chapman Valve company declared $3.50 a share on its 7 per cent preferred on account of accumulations which will amount to $17.50 a share after this payment.

Frost Steel and Wire Company, Ltd., declared $1.75 a share on the 7 per cent first preferred to apply on accumulations which will amount to $17.50 a share after this payment.

Minnesota Power and Light company voted a dividend of $1.31 a share on its 7 per cent preferred, $1.12 a share on the 6 per cent preferred, and $1.12 a share on the $6 preferred, all on account of accumulations which will amount to $4.81, $4.13, and $4.12 a share on the respective issues.

Canadian Extra of $1.

An extra dividend of $1 and a regular payment of the same amount for the six months ending Dec. 31 was declared on common stock of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company of Canada. Western Pipe and Steel company voted 25 cents on common. The last previous payment was 25 cents in December, 1932.

Directors of the Providence Gas company ordered a dividend of 20 cents. This reduction is due to extra expenses, particularly pay roll increases brought about by the NRA, according to a statement by the company. In the three previous quarters a dividend of 25 cents was paid.

Empire Safe Deposit company of New York declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 on common stock. Previously the company paid $2 quarterly.

$6,100,000 Belt Line Issue Completely Sold in Day

All the $6,100,000 Chicago and Western Indiana 5½ per cent bonds put on the market yesterday have been disposed of, according to the Chicago office of Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., which with Edward B. Smith & Co. headed the offering group. Only $3,000,000 of the bonds were available for retailers.

NATIONAL STEEL HAS $12,000,000 PLANT PROGRAM

Expend Big Sum on Great Lakes Mill.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The National Steel company announced today it would spend $12,000,000 within the next six months for the erection of new mills and the purchasing of new equipment for mills now in operation.

ERNEST T. WEIR.

Following a series of meetings and conferences of directors lasting more than a year, T. E. Weir, chairman of the company, finally announced today that all plans and specifications had been completed for the new building campaign. He said that, although the definite date on which building operations would be started has not been decided, the company expected to be ready to build early in February.

Big Sum for Michigan Plant.

Weir would not disclose just what amounts would be allocated to the various mills for new equipment, but he did say that the greatest appropriation for new construction had been allotted to the new mill at the Great Lakes plant at Detroit. More than $3,000,000 was hinted as the amount to be spent for this mill. The plant at Weirton, W. Va., also will come in for a big share of the appropriation toward new equipment.

The National Steel company's decision to build new mills and reëquip old ones is the biggest step and the largest amount to be spent by that company since the war.

Some years ago the company acquired a 1,000 acre tract on Lake Michigan, about nine miles east of Gary, Ind. At that time it announced it proposed to erect a plant and improvements which would represent an investment of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. However, the depression held up the project.

Workers Favor Company Plan.

Weirton, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Employé-representatives favoring the existing company system of wage bargaining were all elected in the industrial poll conducted at three Weirton Steel company plants in which 9,245 of the 10,191 eligible workers participated. This announcement by company officials today drew a reply from Michael F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers that his organization was "not interested" in the outcome.

"We are taking no part until the Wilmington action and the steel labor board questions are settled," he stated. This referred to the government's case against the Weirton Steel company now in litigation.

The voting took place in Weirton plants at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and at Steubenville, O., yesterday. The names of those nominated in the voting will appear on the ballots to be used in a general election Friday and the winners will represent workers in collective bargaining negotiations with their employers.

STOCKS DECLINE; FAVORITE ISSUES ARE HARDEST HIT

Radio B Slumps More than 5 Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—All groups of stocks moved lower in today's dealings on the stock exchange. Issues which had been shoved along rather rapidly in the recent creeping advance were the hardest hit.

An outstanding weak spot was Radio B, which put on such a spectacular performance last week to the tune of much talk of the supposed activity of "old time interests" addicted to the buying of Radio stock when the issue was a member of the so-called "big four" of the board. This favorite lost nearly 5 points of its recent gain before the closing bell came to its rescue. "A" stock dropped 2 points and the common receded fractionally.

Earnings Hurt Rail Values.

Railroad and mining shares displayed strength in early trading, but gave way without much of a struggle when the list began to turn definitly downward.

The rails owed some of their troubles at least to poorer earnings figures. Atchison was in the vanguard of the retrograde movement here, with New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Illinois Central, and Pennsylvania giving up a point each. Bulls in the merchandising stocks also sought greener pastures for the time, being discouraged by the weakness in grains.

One of the few trading favorites to make any sustained attempt on the up side was Coca Cola, which touched a new peak in its ex-dividend status. Automobile issues were under moderate pressure notwithstanding reports that production for the intial quarter of 1935 will top any previous period since 1930. Chrysler and General Motors lost more than a point each.

End of Price War Aids Oils.

Oils fared a little better than usual, being braced up by news of the ending of the gasoline price war in New Jersey and nearby sections of Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Some buying appeared in the packing share group in early dealings. Wilson issues, especially preferreds, maintained a fairly strong tone through the session, reflecting prospects of early recapitalization. Airplanes worked lower, along with communication stocks and some of the amusements.

In the absence of anything new in the industrial situation to account for the market's setback, brokers ascribed selling mainly to profit taking brought on by recent advances in some sections of the list. On the trade side news favored buying.

Stock Exchange Firms Form National Advisory Council

New York, Dec. 11.—The Association of Stock Exchange Firms has formed a national advisory council consisting of 132 members in as many cities and towns for the purpose of fostering more cordial relations between brokers and the security-buying public.

NARROW RANGE IN COTTON PRICES; UNDERTONE FIRMER

While cotton prices held within relatively narrow limits the undertone was generally firmer today. Professional trade was on both sides of the market and there was a lack of the selling such as has prevailed recently and has been attributed by the trade to hedging operations by the pool.

Closing trades in Chicago were 2 points lower to 5 points higher, while other markets were unchanged to 7 points higher. Spot cotton finished 5 points higher, with New York and New Orleans 12.80 cents, and Galveston and Houston 17.20 cents per pound. Prices follow:

EGGS DROPS TO NEW LOW FOR YEAR; BUTTER DIPS

Liquidation which developed late in the session yesterday sent egg futures to new lows for the year on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, the close being ⅝ cent per dozen lower. Butter dropped ¼ cent per pound.

Bearish statistical reports brought out the selling in eggs. The movement of storage stocks in the four principal storage centers reported yesterday totaled 22,000 cases less than last year.

Butter trade was quiet. Buyers and sellers alike held back, although news continued to favor the bull side. Withdrawals from storage were 567,000 pounds greater than last year.

New York, Dec. 11.—Bonds displayed greater resistance to selling pressure today although averages moved slightly lower with the exception of the foreign list.

Corporate loans were hesitant but marked by isolated cases of firmness in prime investments and most government issues. Volume rose to $13,227,000 par value, compared with $11,639,000 Monday.

Federal List Rises.

United States government long-term issues rose 1/32d to 8/32ds point with the exception of treasury 4s which sold off 1/32d, the First Liberty 4¼s and Federal Farm Mortgage 3¼s which held unchanged.

Strong spots in the domestic corporation list included obligations of Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light, New York, Lackawanna and Western, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and the Pennsylvania railroad. A few issues recorded new peaks for the year. On the average, the industrials, rails and utilities were lower in that order.

Italian Group Is Mixed.

In the foreign group, obligations of the Italian government, and the cities of Rome and Milan closed higher while Italian public credit issues were down 2⅝ to 3½ points in thin trading. British, French, German and Austrian government loans were firm. Latin American issues finished irregularly higher in quiet trading.

Westinghouse Air Brake.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me such pertinent facts concerning Westinghouse Air Brake company as you have?—H. C. C.

Answer: Although Westinghouse Air Brake company is represented in the air compressor, automobile brake and the railway signal business it is predominantly a manufacturer of air brakes for railroads. The company accounts for about 75 per cent of that business in the United States.

The decision of the class 1 railroads to equip within ten years all existing freight cars with the newly developed "AB" brake designed by the company enhances the long term outlook. There are about two million freight cars in existence which will need equipping. At a cost of $145 a set, this would mean a gross replacement market of about $290,000,000, provided the railroads are financially able to carry through the program.

Due to the strained financial position of many roads, not much business can be expected from that source during 1935, but later years may be quite profitable.

Of course, many existing freight cars will be scrapped, due to obsolescence, but replacements will be equipped with the new brakes. Furthermore, the trend toward lighter weight rolling stock means a shorter life for cars and consequent shorter life for air brakes.

Poor earnings of railroad companies and fewer foreign orders in 1933 resulted for the first loss since the turn of the century in that year for the company. In the first nine months of 1934 net income was $240,000 or 8 cents a share, compared with a loss of $519,000 for the first nine months of 1933.

The company lost $660,000 in 1933. In 1932 net income was $1,421,000, or 46 cents a share, against net income of $3,155,000, or 99 cents a share, for 1931. Profits of $6,497,000 and $8,823,000 were reported for 1930 and 1929.

Cash assets alone of $21,000,000 compared with total current liabilities of $1,531,000 at the close of 1933. Capitalization consists solely of 3,107,104 shares of no par capital stock. The stock currently pays 12½ cents a quarter.

In April, 1934, the company received an order for air brakes for 112,000 Polish freight cars, to be delivered over a six year period.

GAIN IN STORE SALES IS LESS THAN SEASONAL

November Trade Lags, but Exceeds a Year Ago.

Department store sales in the United States during November showed a slightly less than the estimated adjusted seasonal increase, according to preliminary figures released yesterday by the federal reserve board. The total for the month, however, was 11 per cent larger than in November, 1933.

The report is based on the figures from 513 stores in 247 cities. The percentage increase for the month over a year ago was somewhat less than for the cumulative sales comparisons with last year. The total for the first eleven months was 13 per cent above the corresponding period of 1933.

Atlanta District Gains Most.

Sales in the Atlanta federal reserve district showed the greatest improvement over a year ago, with a gain of 24 per cent. The Dallas district was second, with an increase of 21 per cent. Third honors went to the Minneapolis and San Francisco districts, with increases of 19 per cent.

Richmond reported a gain of 17 per cent, while Chicago followed closely with an improvement of 16 per cent. Increases of 15 per cent were reported by the Cleveland and Kansas City districts, 12 per cent in the St. Louis district, 6 per cent in New York, and 5 per cent in Philadelphia. Boston reported a loss of 1 per cent.

Gain Shown for 11 months.

For the first eleven months Atlanta again led the list with an increase of 27 per cent over the corresponding period of 1933, while Dallas was second with 23 per cent, Chicago and Richmond were third with 18 per cent, Cleveland and Kansas City reported an improvement of 17 per cent, while trade in the St. Louis district was 16 per cent greater.

ICKES APPROVES PWA FUNDS FOR ILLINOIS ROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes made allocations of PWA funds totaling $4,936,400 for 27 nonfederal projects today. Included in the grants is one of $209,000 to the state of Illinois for highway improvements and fine others for Chicagoland projects. The largest, of $1,400,000, goes to Gary, Ind., for sewers.

The allotment to Illinois, an outright grant of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, goes for a $696,878 highway improvement project in Du Page county. It will aid in the improvement of routes 53 and 54, comprising exacavating, draining, paving, installation of curbs, gutters, and sidewalks, construction of two subways and viaducts as railroad crossings, and a highway bridge spanning the eastern branch of the Du Page river.

SALARY OF SCHENCK, LOEW'S HEAD, TOTALS $219,607 LAST YEAR

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—After directors of Loew's, Inc., had declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share and an extra dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, stockholders were informed today that the salary and bonus of Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1934, totaled $219,607. David Bernstein, vice president of Loew's, received $148,664. J. Robert Rubin, vice president, received a salary of $67,000, while Irving Thalberg and Louis B. Mayer, vice presidents of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, received combined salaries of $220,000.

In addition, the Mayer company, a partnership composed of Mr. Mayer, Mr. Thalberg, and Mr. Rubin, received $741,738, as its share of Loew's profits, under a profit-sharing arrangement entered into in 1923, when Loew's acquired the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company, which is the motion picture producing subsidiary of Loew's. This profit-sharing plan calls for a payment, after depreciation, taxes and preferred dividends, and after allowing $2 a share on the Loew's stock, of 20 per cent of the next $2,500,000 of net profit, and of 15 per cent of all net profits in excess of this amount, to the three partners in the Mayer company.

GERMANY SPLITS UP COMBINE OF SHIPPING LINES

HAMBURG, Dec. 11.—A definite decision to break up the German shipping trust, as represented by the Hamburg-American-North German Lloyd union, which, up to last year, controled 70 per cent of the entire German merchant fleet, was announced here before a conference of several hundred shipping men by John T. Essberger, "leader" of German shipping.

Essberger is acting under the authority of the transportation ministry at Berlin, in which the control of big German shipping lines is now lodged by virtue of the fact that these lines depend for their existence on financial support from the government. The plan is to split up the trust into several smaller independent lines, serving individual routes, and to reorganize whatever remains of the big union in such a manner as to restore a certain degree of competition between these two giants on all routes left to them, except possibly on the North Atlantic.

There are to be three operating units within the Hamburg-American and two within the North German Lloyd. One operating unit within each company is to operate a North Atlantic service, but one company is to take over the direction of both services. According to present indications, that company will be the North German Lloyd.

The other two Hamburg-American units are supposed to concentrate in the far east, including Australia and the West Indies, and into Central America. In addition, all smaller European coast services and tramp lines which had been absorbed into the union are to be restored to independence. Six separate lines are being mentioned.

LARGER IMPORTS NEED, WALLACE TELLS FARMERS

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, addressing the American Farm Bureau federation, tonight said the nation should increase its imports and that to do this tarifs should be lowered on nonagricultural products.

He suggested "the regulated expansion of imports" which he said would bring about a larger export trade. The present "rigid" tarif system, he continued, might be replaced by "a system of greater flexibility."

"In any tarif," he said, "consideration should be given to products on which we have production control, and certainly consideration should be given to products on which there is no control."

Although representing the state department as having "a strong feeling against quotas," the secretary of agriculture said it might be possible "to get into the consideration of the quota business for the benefit of agriculture."

EDISON OFFICER REPORTS VALUE OF INVESTMENTS

Holdings Are Factor in Rate Hearing.

Gross book value of Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation's investments on Oct. 31, 1934, amounted to $84,700,052, and net book value, after reserves of $17,881,944 to cover shrinkage and probable losses, was $66,818,107, P. L. Smith, vice president of Commonwealth Edison company, testified at the rate reduction hearing before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday.

The affiliate's largest group of investments, on the basis of gross book values, was in public utility companies and totaled $64,923,501; the second largest group, real estate, was $9,002,320, and the third largest, coal interests, was $6,895,080.

Edison Value Increased.

Largest individual investments were in Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, $28,428,969; Midland United company, $11,581,940; Chicago Rapid Transit company, $4,885,376; Chicago and Illinois Midland Railway company, $5,620,863; Adams Street Securities company, which owns all the stock of Illinois Northern Utilities company, $9,059,220, and Western United corporation, $6,192,705.

The Commonwealth Edison company, exclusive of the investment subsidiary, had total investments of $19,551,955, less reserves of $1,695,186, as of Oct. 31, 1934. On the basis of gross book values, $16,051,742 was in public utility and railroad company securities, $1,191,250 in coal interests, $276,348 in real estate, and $2,032,615 in miscellaneous investments.

Large Public Service Holdings.

Commonwealth Edison company through John Jirgal of Arthur Andersen & Co., accountants, introduced figures during the course of the hearing which added $34,000,000 to the original $300,000,000 book value of its properties.

Harry J. Dunbaugh, chief counsel for the Commonwealth Edison company, claimed that certain items entering into the $34,000,000 increase had already been allocated by the company as operating expenses, although they should have originally been charged against the fixed capital account.

Jirgal contended that the company accountants erred in allocating the figures as operating expenses 20 years ago.

GRAINS RECEDE MODERATELY AS TRADE SHRINKS

Losses Are Held Within Range of a Cent.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain market on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday was marked by a further shrinkage in speculative activity and a moderate recession in prices. Trading in the corn pit, which has been the center of much of the recent activity, was at the lowest ebb in several days. There was also an absence of aggressive trading in wheat. Prices also were marked down in the principal foreign markets.

Yesterday's market offered a sharp contrast with that of a few days ago. Toward the close of last week there was broad expansion in trading, which gave some ground for hope on the part of brokers that a real revival in trading was under way. The public interest in the market receded as rapidly as it appeared and traders have about resigned themselves to a dull holiday stretch.

Losses Within a Cent.

Price losses yesterday were within a cent range on all grains. Wheat closed ⅝ cent a bushel lower and corn lost approximately a half cent. Rye futures declined up to 1 cent, while oats were a trifle below Monday's prices. Closing prices on the May futures were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. ago.
Corn	.89⅝	.90⅝	.91
Oats	.53⅛	.53½	.54⅝
Rye	.78⅝	.79¼	.78⅛

Some of the selling which came into the corn market yesterday was regarded by traders as hedging against purchases of Argentine grain. New Argentine corn is understood to be offered here at 59 cents a bushel for shipment next May and June. To this price must be added the duty of 25 cents a bushel, which brings the price up to 84 cents a bushel.

Argentina has little old corn on hand for immediate shipment to this country, but her new crop is said to be in good condition, although it will not be available for export for more than four months.

West Buys Argentine Corn.

It was reported yesterday that 1,500,000 bushels of Argentine corn have been purchased for delivery at Pacific coast ports. Shipments of Argentine corn to the west coast are not unusual but promise to be larger than normal this season.

The United States has imported more than 20,000,000 bushels of grain from Canada in the last four months, according to an estimate made yesterday by the Cargill Grain company of Winnipeg. Of the total brought in, approximately 12,275,000 bushels was durum and low grade feed wheat. The balance was made up of 5,500,000 bushels of barley and 2,000,000 bushels of oats, according to the firm.

In addition to the actual importations, Canada has shipped an estimated 12,000,000 bushels of high grade wheat in bond to this country to be milled. Normally much of this would be reëxported as flour and no duty would be paid. The opinion is now expressed, however, that the 42 cents a bushel duty will be paid on a large share of this bread wheat.

EXPECT WILSON CAPITAL CHANGE AS SHARES RISE

Plan to Simplify Stock Structure Rumored.

Speculation over the possibility of a capital reorganization for Wilson & Co., packers, was revived yesterday as the shares of the company again advanced in price on the New York exchange. Officials of the company, however, remained noncommittal regarding prospective capital changes.

Wilson & Co. preferred stock sold up to 100⅛ yesterday and closed at par, the best level which the issue has attained this year. The company's "A" stock also sold at 30, a new high figure for the year, while the common touched 7, compared with its previous high of 9.

Earnings Show Improvement.

The company has just finished its 1934 fiscal year and it is reported the earnings showing was better even than in 1933, when the record was the best in the company's history.

The company faces many of the same difficulties in a capital reorganization that Armour & Co. did. With three classes of stock outstanding it is necessary to present a plan which will meet the approval of each group. It is currently reported that any reorganization will be designed to eliminate stocks with fixed dividend rates.

May Offer Exchange of Stock.

Present preferred stockholders would probably be offered three or four shares of new common stock, while the junior shareholders would get a smaller amount of the new issue. Such a plan might meet opposition on the part of the preferred stockholders.

At the same time, it would bring the reorganization under the securities act. These considerations may lead to an entirely different program.

HALT IN DUMPING OF HOGS ENABLES PRICES TO RISE

Evidence that the heavy moment of hogs is subsiding, coupled with an advance estimate of a lighter run for today at all middle west market centers, resulted in a price recovery that put top grades within 5 cents of the highest levels in nine weeks yesterday.

Chicago's run of 40,000 equaled the heaviest Tuesday of the season, but only 31,000 are forecast for today.

A mild rally in fresh pork was encouraging, but the increase in demand for pork as a result of cold weather fresh pork is going into the freezer to relieve pressure on prices.

Prime weighty hogs topped the price list at $8.50, including the $2.25 processing tax, showing a 10 cent gain over Monday and a 25 cent advance compared with the low day of last week. The average for the day moved up 10 cents to $8, while the bulk of sales were made within a range of $7.50 to $8.45, including the tax.

A marked two way trend of prices developed for cattle when a burdensome supply of plain and unfinished grades was dumped on the market. The "handful" of long fed steers sold under competition at strong to higher prices. Prime 1,175 pound steers sold at a top of $10. Bulk of all steers sold at $4.50 to $9, and common natives with little yield sold at $3 and less. More cattle sold below $5 than on any day this season. Calves declined again.

Lambs took a drubbing, dropping mostly 40 cents below Monday's quotations and to the lowest point since Nov. 30. Packers bought closely sorted native and fed western stock at $7.25, against $7.65 on Monday.

FOURTEEN KNOWN DEAD AS FLAMES SWEEP THROUGH HOTEL IN LANSING, MICH.; MANY LEAP TO DEATH IN ICY RIVER. View of the fire early yesterday morning at the Kerns hotel in the Michigan capital just as portion of front wall was collapsing. The hotel is situated on the Grand river, into which many leaped from their rooms in an effort to escape the flames. Most of those who leaped were drowned. The casualties included many injured, taken to the city's two hospitals. An accurate estimate of the dead has not been made because the hotel register was lost. Scores of persons are missing. (Story on page 1.)
